CLOSED BANK PAYS 140 PCT. TO DEPOSITORS; MORE TO COME

"Unwise Investments" That Caused Failure in 1901 Now Big Dividend Producers.

By the Associated Press.

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 10.—A bank closed by the courts in 1901 for "unwise investments," will begin payments today to its depositors which will raise the total they have received from these same "unwise investments" to 140 per cent with more to come.

In 1901 the Mechanics Savings Bank, founded in 1840, failed, with every fourth person of the population a depositor.

"Too much wildcat stock in Oklahoma oil wells and Florida orange groves" caused the failure. However, the receivers paid in full plus 10 cents on the dollar as premium after many years. Then the wells and groves produced. The two surviving directors, Ira B. Crandall, retired clothing merchant, and Thomas Nichols, voted a distribution of $300,000 beginning today from the proceeds of the oil lands.

"Within six or seven months," said Crandall, "we expect to reduce our remaining assets to cash and will pay another dividend of 6 or 7 per cent."

PART OF UNION MARKET LEASED AS BUS TERMINAL

Baggage and Waiting Rooms and Ticket Office to Be Established on Morgan Street Side.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today approved a five-year lease of space in the Union Market building to the Purple Swan Safety Coach Co., at $5000 a year. Space on the Morgan street side from the central entrance to Sixth street, measuring 120 by 34 feet, will be set aside for the terminal, which will include a ticket office, baggage and waiting rooms. These will be installed at the city's cost for approximately $14,000.

This space has not proved successful as merchants' quarters, and Charles L. Cunningham, secretary of the board, has been trying for some time to interest bus companies in it as a terminal.

S. S. HALEY NAMED DRY CHIEF FOR ST. LOUIS DISTRICT

With Headquarters in This City, He Will Administer Enforcement in Missouri and Kansas.

HAS BEEN LEGAL ADVISER OF OFFICE

Appointment Made by Gen. Andrews on Recommendation of Congressmen Dyer and Newton.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Sam S. Haley of Jefferson City today was appointed Prohibition Administrator for the Missouri-Kansas district, with headquarters at St. Louis, to succeed Alroy S. Phillips, who resigned to become chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board.

The selection was made by Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of prohibiton enforcement, on the recommendation of Gov. Baker and Congressmen Dyer and Newton of St. Louis.

Haley since last July has been legal advisor of the St. Louis enforcement office. Prior to that he was Prosecuting Attorney of Cole County. He is 45 years old.

After a conference with Gen. Andrews, at which his commission was made out, Haley said that he would return to St. Louis tomorrow to assume charge of the office. He added that he contemplated no immediate changes in the personnel or policy of his enforcement staff.

W. D. Moss, who is connected with the prohibition unit, had been slated for the post but was pushed aside by the drive made on Andrews by Haley's supporters. Among the other disappointed aspirants were Frank Fable of Kansas and W. F. Cunningham of Kansas City.

LAST HALL-MILLS MURDER COMPLAINT OFF THE DOCKET

Somerville (N. J.) Court Dismisses Charges Against Mrs. Clark and Detective di Martini.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 10.—The last Hall-Mills complaint was cleared from the docket today with the dismissal by County Judge Frank L. Cleary of complaints accusing Felix di Martini, a private detective, and Mrs. Minna Clark as accessories to the murder of the Rev. E. W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Di Martini was accused of attempting to bribe witnesses when in the employ of Mrs. Hall as a special investigator. Mrs. Clark was charged with withholding information from Special Prosecutor Simpson's investigtors, who said she had spied on the slain couple.

Stresemann Signs Protocol When His Nation Decides America Has Postponed Action.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—Germany today became a member of the permanent court of international justice, when Foreign Minister Stresemann signed the protocol recently the subject of an international conference in connection with the American reservations.

The Germans had been waiting to see what the United States would do about the court, but apparently decided that non-acceptance of the American conditions postponed the adherence of the United States indefinitely.

VOICE OF THE LATE LORD NORTHCLIFFE TESTIFIES IN SUIT

Former Secretary Turns on Phonograph in Her Action Against Rothermere.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Miss Louise Owen, who for 20 years was secretary to the late Lord Northcliffe, testified yesterday in her suit against his brother, Lord Rothermere, for an accounting of the Northcliffe estate.

She said Northcliffe had given her 1000 shares in his Associated Newspapers before he went to the battle front in 1915. As the purpose of the action is to show that Northcliffe's shares were worth more than the $20, at which a Rothermere group bought them, she told of the many times Northcliffe had emphasized their value.

Then she asked the Judge to let Northcliffe testify with his own voice. She produced a phonograph record of a Northcliffe speech at a staff dinner in 1921, when he affirmed his belief in the value of his properties. Asked how the voice could be identified, she promised to bring staff members of the Daily Mail to identify it. On cross-examination, Miss Owen explained that a public statement by Northcliffe that the shares were worth only $15 was, he told her, "to stop stock market gambling in the shares."

DAWES' SISTER-IN-LAW TRIPS OVER EARLY HISTORY OF U. S.

Decries Attack on "Man Not Present," Then Learns He Was Andrew Jackson's Envoy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes of Chicago, sister-in-law of the Vice President, took exception to charges against the American Government in its past dealings with Mexico, made in an address by Carleton Beals, author, of Mexico City, before the Conference on the Cause of War. Beals declared that an American envoy had asked the President for funds "to bribe Mexican officials" and referred to former Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, as an "inefficient meddler." Mrs. Dawes protested, declaring the remarks were made "when the accused men were not here to defend themselves." Beals replied the bribery incident occurred during the Andrew Jackson administration.

"The Mexican people are struggling for liberty and freedom," Beals declared, scouting the idea of bolshevism in Mexico, which country, he said, is "rapidly taking the moral leadership of Latin America."

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES ZONING ORDINANCE TESTS

Indicates Mandamus Writ May Be Sought in Lower Courts, With an Appeal Later.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10.—Two applications for writs of mandamus involving tests of the city zoning ordinances of Webster Groves and Kansas City were denied today by the State Supreme Court en banc, without passing upon the principle of zoning expressed in the enabling act passed by the 1925 Legislature. The orders were made without an opinion being written, the court simply making an entry that the applications were "denied, without prejudice."

This indicates, under past practice, that the court did not consider the questions properly before it, and that the petitioners should take action in the lower courts.

However, the court is expected to pass upon the question when a test case is brought before it which properly raises the constitutional questions and covers the principle of zoning. When such a test is brought, lawyers here expect a departure from the former ruling overturning the old St. Louis zoning ordinance, particularly since the United States Supreme Court recently held zoning regulations were within the police powers of municipalities.

One of the cases was an application by Clarence Taussig for a writ of mandamus to compel Building Commissioner Fred Norris of Webster Groves to issue a permit for an apartment house at Lockwood and Sylvester avenues, Webster Groves. This is in a district in which erection of apartment houses is barred by the Webster Groves zoning ordinance.

11,000 Rail Workers Get Increase.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—The Southern Pacific Co. has announced an increase of one cent an hour in the wages of its shop workers, effective as of Dec. 1, at all points on the company's Pacific system. Approximately 11,000 workers, comprising shop mechanics, helpers, apprentices and coach cleaners will receive the increase, which will total $350,000 a year.

KILLED IN STREET DUE TO CHANGE IN TRAFFIC SIGNAL

J. W. McDonald, Teamster, Had Right-of-Way When He Started to Walk Across at Corner.

HIT BY AUTO FROM OPPOSITE DIRECTION

Edward Broderick, Student, Driver of the Car, Had Failed to Slow Down, Witnesses Say.

Attempting to cross Newstead avenue, at Delmar boulevard, while the automatic signal at that intersection gave him the right-of-way by being set for east and west traffic, proved fatal last night for Joseph W. McDonald, 68 years old, a teamster, of Willisville, Ill.

The signal flashed "traffic change" before he reached the east curb on the south side of Delmar boulevard, and a northbound automobile, driven by Edward Broderick, 19, a student, of 5342A Terry avenue, struck and knocked him to the street.

McDonald was injured at 8:15 o'clock and died two hours later at City Hospital of fractures of the skull, several ribs and right leg and concussion of the brain. Broderick was held under bond for the Coroner.

McDonald was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Amanda McDonald; a daughter, Miss Bessie McDonald, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alma McDonald of 3974 Delmar. They were walking from the west to the east side of Newstead; with McDonald a few steps in front of the others.

The three women, none of whom was injured, said Broderick, driving north in Newstead at high speed, struck and knocked McDonald to the street when he (Broderick) failed to slow down at the intersection. McDonald came to St. Louis last Sunday with his wife and daughter for a week's visit.

Broderick's father, Joseph A. Broderick, an attorney with offices in the Federal Commerce Trust Building, said other witnesses told him the traffic signal gave his son the right-of-way. He declined to make any further statement.

McDonald's death was the 160th motor vehicle fatality of the year, 18 fewer than during the same period of 1925.

STATE DEMANDS PAYMENT OF MONEY IN CLOSED BANK

Declares Secretary Becker Illegally Deposited Public Funds as His Own at Englewood, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10.—A demand by the State for payment of a deposit of $25,211 of State automobile license funds in the defunct Citizen's Security Bank of Englewood, Mo., as a preferred claim on the ground the money was illegally deposited to the personal credit of Secretary of State Charles U. Becker, instead of in the name of the State, was filed today with State Finance Commissioner S. L. Cantley.

Accompanying the claim was an assignment executed by Becker, saying the money deposited in his name in the Englewood Bank in reality was public money and that he had no title to it.

CUTS RED TAPE ON LIQUOR

Order Permits Druggists, Hospitals and Doctors to Get Supply.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Retail druggists and hospitals hereafter will be allowed to withdraw during the first quarter of the calendar year any part of their allowance of liquor not obtained during the last preceding quarter.

Regulations issued by Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau also cut the red tape on purchases by physicians of small quantities of liquor. No confirmation will be required on purchases of less than 10 gallons of alcohol or less than six quarts of whisky.

TWO DRY OFFICERS KILLED BY FARMER IN PISTOL FIGHT

Florida Man, on Bond in Previous Shooting, Says Federal Prohibition Agents Opened Fire.

By the Associated Press.

PERRY, Fla., Dec. 10.—W. B. Mobery and J. P. Brandt of Tampa, Federal prohibition agents, were shot and killed yesterday by J. W. Buchanan, a farmer, in an encounter 15 miles west of this town. Buchanan gave himself up to Taylor County authorities and is held in jail.

The shooting occurred near Buchanan's home. Buchanan told the Sheriff that he killed the men in an exchange of shots after the agents had opened fire on him.

Sheriff Lipscomb said that he did not know the agents were in this section.

Mobery and Brandt went alone to Buchanan's farm in an automobile. Buchanan was at liberty under $2500 bond on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the killing of a man some months ago.

TWO FORD HOSPITAL NURSES FOUND SMOKING ARE FIRED

Row Over Dismissals Also Costs Superintendent and Head of School Their Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 10.—The firing of two senior nurses of the Henry Ford Hospital for cigarette smoking has been followed by the ousting of W. L. Graham as superintendent of the hospital and Miss Katherine G. Kimmick as superintendent of nurses. None of those involved in the dismissals would discuss the incident.

Some time ago an instructor in the nurses' school found two senior nurses smoking in the nurses' home. Miss Kimmick, in accordance with an honor system, called the nurses together to determine what should be done and the meeting voted disciplinary action. Miss Kimmick, however, ordered the dismissal of the two offenders. The nurses protested, but Miss Kimmick said she would resign if her decision was revoked.

A petition for the reinstatement of the two offenders and the retention of Miss Kimmick was presented to the hospital management by Graham.

Dismissals at the hospital have not been infrequent. Last September approximately 100 nurses were abruptly discharged.

GRIMM DECLINES TO APPEAR BEFORE CIRCUIT JUDGES

Writes Letter Relative to Bank Advertising Dispute But Withholds Its Contents.

Former Circuit Judge Hugo Grimm has sent a letter to the general session of Circuit Judges declining to appear before them this afternoon and explain advertising of the Boatmens National Bank, which carried his name as trust officer. He had been requested to appear.

The letter was delivered to Circuit Clerk John Schmoll this morning. He turned it over to Judge Franklin Miller, chairman of the Investigating Committee. Grimm refused to make the letter public, saying he preferred that the Judges release it for publication if they saw fit.

LIQUOR MADE BY CONVICTS CAUSED MURDER IN PRISON

Stolen Fruits Hidden Under Coal at Leavenworth Fermented, Inmates Testify at Trial.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 10.—Liquor made by convicts within the walls of the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., was responsible for the fatal stabbing of John Bowers, a convict, Edward Murphy, 27 years old, another prisoner, testified in Federal Court in his own defense.

Bowers was killed in a fight in the furnace room of the penitentiary Sept. 5. Murphy, charged with the killing, and other prisoners and former inmates, testified concerning the causes leading up to the fight.

Apples, prunes, dried apricots and peaches were stolen from the prison kitchen, hidden under coal in the warm furnace room and allowed to ferment for several days, testimony disclosed.

James Comerford, a convict, testified that drinking among the prisoners took place before the fight and said Murphy stabbed in self-defense during a brawl.

WEST POINT CADET BREAKS NECK STRAIGHTENING BACK

A. J. Van Leeuwen of Worcester, (Mass.) Is Recuperating and Expects to Rejoin Class.

By the Associated Press.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 10.—A West Point cadet, who broke his neck trying to meet the academy's standards of erect posture is recuperating at his home here. He hopes to rejoin his class next June.

Adrian J. Van Leeuwen, a first-year man, contracted measles soon after entering the academy in July. When he reported again for instruction an upper classman ordered him to report to another upper classman because he was not standing straight. While he was trying to brace himself "to get the small of his back and neck on a straight line so that no light would shine on the back of his neck," Van Leeuwen was seen to be in pain.

An examination disclosed a bone in the neck had been broken and an investigating board found an "anatomical peculiarity" responsible.

LET EX-SECRETARY HAVE $5000 WHEN THEY FACED TRIAL

Advanced It as Expense Money—Defense Objection to This Line of Questioning Upheld.

SECRETARY WILBUR SCORES FOR DEFENSE

Admits He Has Secret Reports From Orient Which Policy Forbids Him to Make Public.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Once old pals, always old pals. Edward L. Doheny testified today that he advanced $5000 in cash to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall just before they entered upon the present trial, in which they are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government on the lease of the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve.

Before vociferous objections from his own lawyer silenced him, Doheny dropped the remark that he had made this advance to Fall as expense money during the trial.

Cross-examination of the 70-year-old oil man was begun this morning by Special Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts, and proceeded briskly with results decidedly damaging to the good impression which Doheny made with his direct testimony yesterday.

Admits Many Contradictions.

Confronted with the record of his evidence before the Walsh Senate Committee in 1924, he was compelled to acknowledge many contradictions between what he testified then, and what he contends now. Some of the conflict occurred on vital aspects of the case.

For example, Doheny told the Senate committee that in consideration of his refusal to make a profit on the contract of April 25, 1922, when he got a partial lease on the reserve and bound himself to build fuel storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, that in consideration of his patriotic conduct on this contract, he obtained the "preferential right" to future leases on the reserve. Now he declares that he never understood the "preferential rights," never cared anything about it and does not now. It was under this "right" that Fall later secretly leased the entire reserve to Doheny.

Again, Doheny told the Senate committee emphatically that he never heard of the Pearl Harbor project until January, February or March of 1922. Now he asserts that his decision to bid on it was induced by Admiral J. K. Robison's coming to him in the autumn of 1921 and telling him that the United States was threatened with war by Japan.

Mistaken in Senate Testimony.

In these and other conflicts of testimony, Doheny insisted that he had been mistaken in his Senate testimony, although that testimony was nearly three years closer to the events described than is the present trial.

The courtroom was crammed today with all the spectators whom bailiffs would admit and in the marble rotunda outside the closed doors of the courtroom a long line of men and women waited patiently for vacancies which would allow them to enter.

Roberts occupied only two and a half hours with the cross-examination, concluding before noon. It had been generally expected that it would consume most of the day.

Wilbur Withholds Reports.

The "Yellow Peril" theory of the defense received support from a high source this afternoon. Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur took the witness stand for the defense and testified that the Navy Department files contained 45 telegrams and 51 letters received between Sept. 15, 1920, and March 21, 1921, from Admiral Albert Gleaves, commanding the Asiatic squadron, which "It would be against the public interest to disclose."

The defense contends that the lease of the Elk Hills reserve was

C. N. WHITEHEAD, M-K-T PRESIDENT, DIES IN HOSPITAL

He Succumbs to Complication of Ills at 48, Seven Months After Achieving His Ambition.

BEGAN HIS CAREER AS STENOGRAPHER

Never Forgot His Earlier Associations With Road and Pursued Open-Door Policy as Executive.

Charles Nelson Whitehead, president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway, died today at 8:20 a. m. at St. Luke's Hospital of a complication of ills centering around kidney trouble. He entered the hospital last Monday upon his return from Florida where he sought in October to regain health.

Ten years ago, while he was occupying a subordinate position with the Katy, he was offered the presidency of an eastern railroad. He declined, explaining to associates that he preferred to strive some day to become head of the road whose service he entered when a boy as a stnographer. He achieved his ambition only seven months ago, in the thirty-first year of his service to the Katy, and his death was at the age of 48 years.

Remembered Early Associates.

There remain in service many men who knew him in his early days with the road. As he ascended through their ranks, Mr. Whitehead never permitted his position to blot out his youthful assocations. His secretary noted that many men who came to the president's office—enginemen, section men, office men—would be addressed by the president as "Mr. Smith" or " Mr. Jones" while they addressed the president as "Charlie." Consequently the announcement yesterday along the lines of the road that Mr. Whitehead was gravely ill caused general mourning.

There was an open door policy in the president's office. He insisted upon seeing all who expressed a desire to see him. His assistants were provided with printed forms for use in his absence. Upon them they were required to set down the names of all persons who called whether in person or by telephone and asked for the president. Upon his return, Mr. Whitehead would seek out or write his callers, express his regret at missing them and inquire how he could be of service.

The furnishings of his office are pointed to as indicative of his character. Except for its size, it might be the office of a roadmaster. His desk, small and plain, had under its glass top a condensed schedule of Katy passenger trains and a printed list of the road's motive power. On the walls were two maps, one of the lines comprising the extensive system, the other a graph showing traffic density on each.

First Executive Post.

Mr. Whitehead's first important executive post with his road was chief operating officer and it was as an operator that he achieved distinction among railroad men. For years it was a tradition that locomotives as well as crews must be changed on passenger trains every 150 miles. Mr. Whitehead believed that men, being human, must be relieved, but that engines, being machines, had reached a development where they could be called upon for greater service.

So, he figured that if locomotives could be made to run more than 150 miles—say, two divisions—that the number required would be reduced and locomotives are expensive units of a railroad's equipment. At the time of his death, he had developed his theory to the point that his locomotives were making as long as 863-mile runs.

The unit that railroad men apply to all railroads to measure their efficiency is a thing called transportation ratio—the ratio of operating expenses to total revenue. If expenses approached revenue, then, of course, not so good. But if the margin between cost and revenue is large—excellent.

Early in Mr. Whithead's administration of operations, he brought the Katy's transportation ratio abreast of the better four or five railroads of the country and had mantained it there ever since. In some months, the Katy has led the roads of the nation in the transportation ratio of its trunk line operations.

Mr. Whitehead was born in Princeton, Ill., in 1878, the son of a railroad man. His first employment, at the age of 14 years, was as messenger boy for the Cotton Belt, at Cairo, Ill., and moving to Texas in 1895, he became a stenographer for the Katy. He served as stenographer at Smithville and Denison, Tex., and St. Louis until he became assistant secretary of the company, stationed at New York, where he remained until 1913. He then became assistant to the president, in St. Louis, in 1914 vice president in charge of operations, during the War Federal manager for the entire system, and in 1922 executive vice president. He is survived by his widow and a son, C. Powell Whitehead, of the Commonwealth Steel Co.

The funeral will be at 2 p. m. Sunday, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, 3688 Lindell boulevard, with the Rev. E. S. Travers, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

DANCE PROMOTER GOT $1400 AND DEPARTED

East Side Disabled Veterans Wonder if He Will Return to Pay Bills.

Everybody had a nice time at the dance of the East St. Louis Post of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War last night at Moose Hall except the officers of the post. Their evening was spoiled by the bitter realization that the man who had promoted the function was gone. So were the ticket sale receipts totaling about $1400.

It was last October that a breezy individual came to East St. Louis and got in touch with the post officers, who were even then considering what means could be taken to increase the membership.

"Let me put on a dance," the visitor said. "I'll pay you $100 now as a guarantee, give you $250 of the ticket receipts, pay all the expenses and get you 50 new members."

It sounded well and a contract was signed. In the ensuing weeks the promoter canvassed East St. Louis business houses by telephone, telling them their "quotas" ranged anywhere from five to 50 tickets, and getting rid of a lot of tickets.

A week ago he left town. Later a letter from his announced that he was going away on an important mission, but would be back for the dance. He failed to return. Inquiries of other posts have convinced East St. Louis veterans that he is the man who has dealth with other organizations in similar manner.

All the post has to show for the dance is the $100 advanced by the promoter as a guarantee. That will be used to defray in part the expenses which the promoter should have met, and which now seem likely to amount to $500.

HOUSE APPROVES $30,000,000 TO ENFORCE DRY ACT

Appropriations Bill Calling for $890,000,000 Expenditures Is Passed After Wets Demand Cut.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The House today passed the Treasury Postoffice $890,000,000 appropriation bill, including nearly $30,000,000 for prohibition enforcement.

By a vote of 140 to 12, at the outset of the consideration of the bill today, the House rejected a move to eliminate the appropriation carried for the prohibition unit.

The wets, however, succeeded in eliminating a section of the measure under which Assistant Secretayr of the Treasury Andrews, dry chief, would have been authorized to spend $500,000 next year for under-cover agents without detailed accounting.

On the contention of La Guardia that the under-cover section was contrary to existing law which prohibits advances except under restrictions, the secret work clause went out by a ruling from Representative Snell (Rep.), New York, a dry, who was presiding.

The move to withhold the entire enforcement fund was made by Gallivan (Dem.) of Massachusetts, a wet.

Chairman Madden of the Appropriations Committee in charge of the bill, termed the proposal "unworthy." "I voted against prohibition," Madden said, "but we have the law now. I consider it would be a violation of my constitutional oath of office to fail to provide funds to enforce it."

Gallivan Embarrasses Wets.

Representative Cramton (Rep.) of Michigan, a dry dealer, asserted Gallivan's prohibition speech in the House yesterday had embarrassed his wet colleagues and would embarrass them for a long time Cramton was warmly applauded and Gallivan then asserted that once when he had asked members who drink wet but vote dry to raise their hand, Cramton had been the only one to raie his.

Cramton asserted he did not drink.

"I didn't say you did," retorted Gallivan.

"The gentleman is making inferences where he does not make the direct statement," Cramton responded.

In rapid succession Gallivan then proposed a number of amendments designed to curtail prohibition activities, all of which were voted down.

One would have prevented any use of the dry law appropriation for purchase of evidence and would have prohibited employment of "spies" and "under cover operatives."

During the debate newspaper account of a Federal grand jury report in New York, holding that enforcement under present conditions is of no avail, was read by Representative Weller (Dem.) of New York.

The wets then permitted adoption without debate of that section of the measure appropriating $15,340,000 for coast guard activities. Thus, the major appropriations for enforcement next year were approved.

Representative La Guardia opened the debate today with the remark that New Yorkers could not "drink the referendum." He advised the wets to "show up" enforcement conditions, then use constitutional means if they wished to change the law, and he chided others of the New York delegation who yesterday recited results of the recent referendum in that Stat as proof that prohibition is unpopular.

La Guardia, who is a wet, advised his colleagues to "speak as statesmen on this question," asserting that they were inconsistent in contending the law unenforceable while attempting to withhold funds for enforcement.

A heated discussion yesterday began with a denunciation of prohibition by Representative Gallivan (Dem.) of Massachusetts, who was particularly vehement when he assailed Wayne B. Wheeler and the Antisaloon League.

Blanton Defends Wheeler.

Blanton (Dem.) of Texas rose to the defense of prohibition and Wheeler, although, he said, "Wheeler needs no defense by me—he can defend himself." Luce (Rep.) of Massachusetts also upheld the dry side.

Declaring he owed it to his constituency, his conscience and his manhood to vote against the prohibition appropriation, Gallivan said he was opposed to giving "one single thin dime" for enforcement.

"Because I object to wasting money in feeding the jackals and turkey buzzards of prohibition," he said he would vote against any appropriation "designed to continue this futile farce of enforcing a non-enforcable law and taxing my fellow citizens to swell the volume of lawlessness, depravity, corruption and dishonesty now befouling and debauching the American republic."

To get the "prohibition alley cat off the backs of so-called American statesmen," Gallivan said he was willing to "compromise" and vote a liberal pension to Wheeler, provided he was sent to Mexico or Russia.

Doheny Admits Making Another Loan to Fall

made as the result of information that Japan was preparing to attack the United States in the Pacific and the defense has expressly contended that some of this information was received in the form of secret reports from Admiral Gleaves. Wilbur was subpenaed by the defense to produce all letters, cablegrams and reports received from Admiral Gleaves between Sept. 15, 1921, and March 31, 1922, "except those which in the opinion of the Secretary of the Navy it would be against the public interest to disclose."

He appeared, trailed by an Admiral bearing a large stock of documents.

"Have you brought all the pabers which the subpena calls for?" defense counsel asked. "I have them all except those embraced by the exception," Wilbur replied.

Not Asked About Reports.

The documents which could not be disclosed because of "the public interest," he went on, consisted of 45 letters and 51 telegrams received by the Navy Department from Admiral Gleaves during the period given. He was asked no questions about the nature of the reports. Having made their points the defense lawyers jubilantly excused Wilbur and the Government prosecutors did not attempt to cross-examine him.

Doheny testified yesterday that Capt. (then Rear Admiral) John K. Robison showed him the Gleaves reports and that they contained information of "menacing gestures and maneuvers" on the part of the Japanese fleet.

Wilbur and Doheny are fellow residents of Los Angeles. It was observed that when Wilbur entered the courtroom he took his seat in the midst of the Doheny retinue, which occupies a large section of the seating space. When he finished testifying he took a seat next to J. M. Danziger, former vice president of Doheny's company and the man who signed the Elk Hills lease in Doheny's behalf.

Wilbur's Arm Around Oil Man.

He put an arm around Danziger and indulged in a smiling, whispered conversation.

Wilbur was the first member of President Coolidge's present Cabinet who has appeared as a witness in the trial. It was said, however, that Postmaster-General Harry New would appear as a character witness for Fall.

There were no indications whether Fall would take the stand, but the general expectation was that he would not.

When Doheny took the stand he carried a sofa pillow which he placed over the arm of the chair, resting his infected arm on it. He was not the clawing, spitting Doheny who fought back at the Senate cross-examiners spectacularly three years ago. Subdued in voice and manner, he looked old and weary. Roberts began gently with the little oil magnate, but soon his tone became sterner and his questions assumed a more searching character.

Doheny testified yesterday that Fall had told him he intended to retire from the Cabinet at the end of his first year. Roberts pointed out that when he was before the Walsh committee he told Senator Pittman that he and Fall had never discussed that question.

"I wasn't telling Senator Pittman everything I knew," Doheny flared feebly. "He wasn't polite to me and I wasn't polite to him."

"But you were under oath, Mr. Doheny," Roberts exclaimed. "Well, I told the truth as I remembered it, then," said Doheny.

Didn't Expect Suspicion.

Roberts took up the $100,000 "loan" which Doheny made to Fall. He asked if it were not true that the loan was made in cash for purposes of secrecy. Doheny insisted he had no such idea.

"Of course, you realized a loan of $100,000 to a Cabinet officer by a private gentleman having contractural relations with him would create suspicion?" "I did not."

"You would have been willing for anybody to know about it?" "Yes, sir."

"Did you tear the note so if you were questioned you could say you had no note?" "No, I tore it so my executors would not press him for payment if something would happen to my wife and me."

"Who were your executors?" The witness was obviously stumped for a moment. "I—I don't know that I had any just at that time," he stammered. "I had in mind the public executors of Los Angeles. They were very strict at that time and were insisting on carrying things out to the letter."

"Didn't it occur to you that if the note should be found on you in its original form it would cause a good deal of publicity?" "No, I never thought of it."

Didn't Use Ordinary Method.

"The fact is, Mr. Doheny, that you could have instructed your bankers to deliver $100,000 cash to Mr Fall at El Paso and saved him the necessity of carrying it down there?" "I suppose I could."

"Wouldn't that have been more in the ordinary manner of business?" "I suppose it would."

"Mr. Doheny, was it a habit of yours to carry $100,000 notes around in your pocket?" "Only occasionally." He was not asked to explain that curious response.

"By the way, is Secretary Fall in your employ now?" "No, sir."

"Has he been in your employ since he left the Cabinet?" "No. I have called on him for some services as one asks advice on a subject from one who is familiar with it."

"Mr. Doheny, isn't it a fact that you knew this "loan" would make Mr. Fall more favorable to you?" "No, he wouldn't have been more farovrable to me than he was before."

"Didn't you tell the Senate committee that you realized it would make him more favorable to you, but that you didn't know he had anything to do with the leases?" "I don't remember what I testified then."

"Mr. Doheny, have you advanced any other money to Mr. Fall since that loan?" Doheny hesitated, grew a little more florid, and said:

"Yes, sir."

"What other money have you advanced him?" "I've advanced him some cash."

"When, and how much?" "Well, I gave him $5000 just before this trial started."

Defense Objects to Query.

At once Frank J. Hogan, Doheny's counsel, was on his feet protesting strenuously at this line of inquiry. He insisted that transactions between Fall and Doheny since Fall left the Cabinet were not relevant in this case, and were none of the public's business. Roberts was eager to pursue the question, but Justice Hoehling asked him to reserve the question until the Court could consult the precedents. Questions as to recent transactions between the defendants were plainly unexpected by Doheny, and he was disturbed.

He was allowed to say whether there were any financial transactions between them after the final lease on the reserve and up to the time of Fall's resignation from the Cabinet, and he said there was none.

Taking up the matter of the leases, Roberts drew from Doheny the statement that Fall told him late in 1921 that the navy wanted storage tanks at Pearl Harbor and asked Doheny for statement of the probable cost. Doheny furnished it in the letter which is in evidence.

Doheny gave the impression yesterday that he was merely furnishing desired statistics. However, when Roberts began to examine him closely on its contents, Doheny admitted that the letter was a statement of the cost at which he would be willing to do the work.

"We were placing ourselves in line where we would make a bid if a contract should be let," he admitted.

"Now, you say that Admiral Robison talked to you about the national defense on the Pacific Coast and persuaded you to make a bid?" "Yes sir."

"Did he say he had taken the matter up with Congress?" "No."

"Did he say he had taken it up with anybody else?" "Well, with the Secretary of the Navy, and I can't begin to name the boards of strategy and so on that he mentioned to me as having this information. It seemed to me like it was everybody in the navy."

"When was this conevrsation?" "The first one was in October or November, and then in December, and in January."

Roberts then read from Doheny's testimony before the Senate Committee in which he said: "I insist that I never heard of thsi Pearl Harbor contract until January or February or March.

"Well, if I said that, it was inaccurate," Doheny conceded.

"Did Admiral Robison tell you that there was doubt as to the legality of the proposal to exchange royalty oil for storage?" "I don't remember it, if he did."

Robison testified that he made such a statement to Doheny.

Roberts was establishing numerous conflicts between Doheny's testimony and that which Robison gave for the defense.

Lent $10,000,000 to Obregon.

Doheny also disclosed he had lent the Obregon Government of Mexico $10,000,000 in the form of advance taxes on Pan-American Mexican properties.

Fall acted as agent for Pan-American interests in Mexico in arranging this $10,000,000 loan, after he left the Cabinet, said the witness. He could not fix the date, but he recalled "it saved the situation in Mexico, much to the disgust of many Americans."

Just before Doheny was excused Justice Hoehling upheld Hogan's objection to admission of further questions about loans to Fall. But the $5000 loan made just before the trial remained in the record.

Roberts elicited the fact that when Doheny was called to testify in the Government's civil suit to recover the reserve, he declined to do so on the ground that criminal charges were pending against him and that his testimony might tend to incriminate him.

Says Doheny Pounded Table.

J. M. Danziger, former vice president of the Doheny company, followed the magnate on the stand. He testified that he opposed any bid on the Elk Hills contracts, but that "Mr. Doheny pounded on the table and said: 'I don't give a damn what anybody thinks; I promised Admiral Robison we would bid on the contract and we're going to bid.'"

J. C. Anderson, president of Doheny's company, was the next witness. He said he had been associated with Doheny in the oil business for 28 years. "Mr. Doheny first told me about the Pearl Harbor project in December, 1921," he said. "He said Admiral Robison wanted 1,500,000 barrels of steel storage tanks at Pearl Harbor filled with fuel oil."

At Doheny's instance, Anderson continued, he drafted a plan. Doheny took it with him when he returned to Washington. Robison did not like it, and later Anderson came to Washington in November, 1922, and discussed the matter. Anderson declared Robison said to him: "The Japanese situation is a serious situation. The navy not only wants a large amount of fuel oil, but it wants lubricating oil and Deisel oil, and we want the work to start right away."

Said Navy Might Lease All.

"I asked him," said Anderson, "how much of the lease he was prepared to lease, and he said if the navy got what it wanted they might lease all of it."

Anderson came to the period, preceding the December contract, in which Doheny got the whole reserve. He was present at the Fall apartment on the evening that Doheny and his wife were there.

"Was there any discussion of oil leases?" "None except that Secretary Fall remarked to me that he understood I had been inquiring about additional lea when I said that was true, plied that nobody would at a schedule of one-eighth ty, which we were offering was very happy about it."

Anderson told of a later ference with Robison, when discussed royalty rates with acrimony that Anderson refu go on with the negotiations said Doheny overruled him dered him to accept Robis fer and that on this basis was signed.

Inquiry brought the statement from his lawyers that Shupp, who resigned the office of State Superintendent of the Antisaloon League in March, 1923, was involved in unprofitable deals in Southeast Missouri land, and was liable to suit on obligations assumed jointly by him and others. The purpose of the bankruptcy proceedings is to forestall such suits.

The total of secured claims, as shown in the bankruptcy petition, is $2782.26, and the total of unsecured claims $74,715.30. The petition states that Shupp has no cash and no money in bank.

Secured claims—the nature of the security not stated—are: Gideon-Anderson Co., Gideon, Mo., note dated July 1, 1921, $835.50; Frank A. Thompson of 705 Olive street, note dated Oct. 6, 1923, 30.75; Zimmermann & Page, Clarkton, Mo., note executed in 1924, $116.

Unsecured claims are: Sturdevant Bank of Cape Girardeau; judgment for $11,000, dated Oct. 1, ; E. G. Wylie, Greater Des Moines Committee, Des Moines, Ia., 713.30, and William H. Stubblefield, Missouri State Life Insurance Co., $6000.

Stubblefield, it was explained, purchased Southeast Missouri land from Wylie, and gave mortgages, to which Shupp was a party. The agricultural deflation and collapse of five years ago, in that section, lowered the valuation of large tracts of land.

Turned Insurance Salesman.

In his petition, Shupp is described as a salesman. He was employed by the International Life Insurance Co. for a time after leaving the Antisaloon League. In the recent campaign he did clerical work in the Antisaloon League office, and worked on a plan to enlist the co-operation of some religious bodies which had not co-operated with the league in the past.

His resignation, as state superintendent of the league, came two and a half months after the New Year's Eve raid of prohibition agents at Hotel Chase, in which a man was shot. Shupp, though he was not present, was included in a suit for damages filed by the wounded man. The suit was settled out of court, and Shupp, who suffered a nervous breakdown, announced his withdrawal from the league work. Previously, a set of charges against Shupp, alleging irregularities in industrial alcohol permits, had been made by the Missouri Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which had employed detectives to make a report on Shupp.

EXTRA HELP FOR MAIL SERVICE

Men and 135 Trucks to Be Hired for Christmas Rush.

One thousand men and 135 trucks will be added to the present mail service personnel and equipment to handle the flood of Christmas cards, letters and packages, according to Postmaster Alt.

It will cost $50,000 to augment the service this way, but, of course, the revenue will be increased also. The help to be hired includes chauffeurs, clerks,, carriers, special delivery messengers and laborers.

Charles Belmont Davis Dies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Charles Belmont Davis, dramatic critic, brother of the late Richard Harding Davis, is dead at Biltmore-Ash- N. C. Until recently he was associated with Percy Hammond, dramatic editor of the New York Herald-Tribune. Mr. Davis was 60 years old. He was the author of numerous novels and books or short stories. He served as United States Consul at Florence, Italy, 1893 to 1897.

Is Half Million Price of Love?

ABOVE, the Countess Salm, daughter of the multi-millionaire oil man, Henry H. Rogers, whose father, it is reported, is considering settling $500,000 on Count Salm (below, as he testified in court), as the price of peace in their marital warfare.

PROPOSALS SHOWER TWIN HEIRESSES

But Alice and Marie Bolger, Beneficiaries Under Herboth Will, Prefer Single Life.

"Bolger, Incorporated, Wholesale Proposals."

If the Misses Bolger decide to go into business, that will be the firm's name. They have on hand about 50 proposals, some a trifle shopworn, but in the main stout, serviceable proposals from eligible bachelors.

Miss Alice and Miss Marie Bolger, twin sisters, have no use for these offers of marriage. What with proposals so scarce that some girls haven't even one that is acceptable, the Misses Bolger would seem most fortunate young women. But in the mixed lot of offers which have poured in on them they could not find any which they consider worth the price tacitly demanded.

"Of course these men want our money," they said in chorus to a reporter who called on them at their home, 1917 Cora avenue, yesterday.

Expected $15,000 Each.

The Misses Bolger have inherited $7000 each from the estate of their employer, Charles Herboth, president of the Herboth Mercantile Co., 1436 North Broadway, and will receive about $3000 more when final settlement is made this month. Miss Marie was secretary of the firm for seven years and Miss Alice served as bookkeeper for three years. The sisters and six other employes of the company were willed one-fourth of the Herboth estate, and expected about $15,000 each until it was learned the estate, inventoried at $742,282, actually was worth between $300,000 and $350,000, because stocks, inventoried at full par value, were owned only in part by Herboth.

"One was a salesman in New York," said Miss Marie.

"He wrote on perfumed letter paper," continued Miss Alice.

"He said he didn't care which one of us married him," finished Miss Marie, "so he addressed his letter to both of us."

They laughed at the salesman. Poor fellow, he did the best he could, so impossible was the task of selecting which Miss Bolger would be nicest to marry. Yesterday each wore brown hair curled in the same way, the same style in brown dresses, and each had $7000. They looked and talked almost alike.

Hog Farmer Proposes.

A man who had a hog farm in Iowa proposed by mail, also. Perhaps he had a mortgage that needed lifting, or maybe he was lonely. The Misses Bolger couldn't tell, but neither was interested. Another suitor sent a photograph of himself and a friend, and suggested a double wedding. Which was to marry which the correspondent left to the good judgment of the Misses Bolger. His letter joined the heap of rejected proposals.

"Some of them were young" said Miss Alice.

"Some of them were old and homely," put in her sister.

"We had fun reading their letters," giggled Miss Alice.

"But mother burned them all," concluded Miss Marie.

Before the Herboth Mercantile Co. went out of business last October, and while the Bolger sisters still were employed there, they had suitors who called in person.

"One old fellow came in regularly once a month," they related. "He was an ugly man, but he said he would make a good kind husband for whichever of us would take him. He wrote to us when he was away on vacation and invited us to visit him. There were other men who came to look at us down at the office. Other employes used to shoo them away."

Salesmen Plague Them.

The sisters have been plagued by all varieties of salesmen who acted on the principle that next to hearing a proposal a young woman likes to hear about a bargain. But Miss Alice and Miss Marie still have the larger portion of their inheritances safe in bank. They will take a trip to Florida or California after Christmas and then return to jobs here.

"Girls who have $10,000," said Miss Alice, "don't want to pay that much for a husband. Most girls don't want to buy a husband at any price. Husbands are things you should be able to pick up free."

SERIES OF PLANE CRASHES CAUSES ALARM IN BRITAIN

Many of the Accidents Occur With Machines Built Prior to 1917.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—England is seriously perturbed by a cumulating series of air disasters, especially since Air Minister Hoare has had to admit that he has been unable to "find any panacea." Almost at the actual moment of Hoare's speech, another plane crashed in the second fatal military air accident of the week. This was the fifth accident in 16 days and the eighty-first this year.

The significant statement was made in the House of Commons last week that 32 per cent of this year's crashes occurred in planes built before 1917. Also it is alleged that of 50 Royal Air Force squadrons in service, 23 are equipped with planes of out-of-date design.

Hoare says the number of accidents this year is smaller than ever before, when compared with the total flying time. Henceforth there will be two independent inquiries into each crash.

SALVAGE WORKER HURT IN FIRE

Philip Devereaux, 31 years old, a member of Salvage Corps No. 2 at 2310 Sidney street, was seriously injured at 8:30 a. m. today in a burning flat at 1207 Armstrong avenue, when a section of flooring collapsed cuasing him to fall from the second floor to the first.

Devereaux and two other salvage men were working on the second floor when the accident happened, the others escaping injuries. He suffered fracture of the left hip and internal injuries. His home is at 1321 South Compton avenue. The flat, which was vacant, was damaged about $800, police estimate.

Strike in Japan Deferred.

TOKIO, Dec. 10.—The Tokio labor union, which had called a strike for higher wages, effective last night, has decided to suspend the strike order and continue work temporarily, owing to the Emperor's illness.

$500,000 SETTLEMENT FOR SALM REPORTED

Count Not Expected to Resume Separation Suit Against Former Millicent Rogers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Although Jan. 17 has been set for a resumption of trial of Count Ludwig Salm's separation suit against the former Millicent Rogers, it is not expected it will ever be resumed. From an authoritative source it was learned that a settlement, centering about a lump payment to Count Salm of more than $500,000, is being negotiated between the Count and Col. Rogers, from whom his daughter expects one day to inherit about $40,000,000 of the Rogers Standard Oil fortune.

The principals in the reported settlement refused today to discuss it and their lawyers, likewise, were non-committal.

It was learned, however, the present negotiations are an enlargement of the offer contained in one of the letters put in evidence at the opening of the trial Wednesday. In the letter, Millicent Rogers Salm disclosed that an offer of $12,000 a year was made to Count Salm by her parents in August, 1924, which for the estimated remainder of his life would have amounted to better than $300,000. The letter indicated the former Millicent Rogers was still deeply in love with the impoverished Count, to whom she had been married four months previously.

REED COMMITTEE TO RENEW INQUIRY ON CAMPAIGN COSTS

$800,000 to secure his nomination, and the acceptance by Smith of a contribution of $125,000 from Samuel Insull, over whose public utility corporations Smith held rate-making power as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Senator Dill said that while the present Senate had no authority to decide whether the two were unfit to sit in the new Senate, it should prohibit them from exercising the privileges which acceptances of their certificates of election would confer.

In his speech Dill said that Vare's credentials were "sticky with money" and that Smith's acceptance of the Insull money showed "such a lack of consideration of sound public policy on the part of a man aspiring to high public office that the Senate should declare him disqualified on that ground alone."

Senator Ashurt (Dem.) of Arizona, agreed with Dill, urging that the present Senate should take the step to prevent the two from becoming de facto Senators of March 4.

The resolutions lie on the table to be taken up whenever Dill chooses to call for them.

It is possible the two Senators-elect will not present their credentials until the present Senate has adjourned. Then they can send them either to the Vice President or to the Secretary of the Senate.

There does not appear to be any likelihood of the Dill resolutions going through, but they have in them the possibilities of endless debate and thereby became important as affecting the probabilities of an extra session.

Actually the whole question of accused Senators is boiling right now. The investigation of the charges against Senator Gould of Maine begins Monday. Senator Gould, chaperoned by his colleague, Senator Hale, called on the President yesterday. Nothing happened beyond the ordinary formalities of such an occasion.

The only additional development, which threatens to involve the Senate in a row that will leave time for little else, is the advent of John R. Neal of Knoxville, Tenn., with a demand for an investigation of Senator Tyson's nomination in that State two years ago. Mr. Neal says he believes Tyson (Dem.) spent $1,600,000 in the primary, which tops the record so far.

Nothing is to happen about that either, nor is it probable the Republicans will pursue their threat to go into the election of various Southern Senators unless the Democrats ease up on Smith, Vare and Gould.

In presenting his resolutions, Dill said that the Vare and Smith cases were "not the first, but the worst" examples of attempted purchases of Senate seats.

"Not Time for Me to Talk," Says Smith.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Frank L. Smith declined to comment yesterday on the resolution of Senator Dill, "until the matter comes before me formally and officially."

"I have nothing to say," he asserted. "It is not the time for me to talk."

Reports that Mrs. Medill McCormick might be offered the appointment to the McKinley vacancy brought from her an expression of "complete surprise."

"I have heard nothing about it whatever," she said.

She is a daughter of Mark Hanna and widow of the late Senator McCormick. She is Republican national committeewoman for Illinois. She has never been allied with the political group to which Gov. Small belongs.

DELIRIOUS PATIENT LEAPS TO DEATH

Arthur Ehrhardt, 35, Ill With Typhoid, Jumps From Second Story of City Hospital.

Delirious from typhoid fever, Arthur Erhardt, 33 years old, a clerk, of 2015 Cushing street, killed himself by leaping from a second-floor window at city hospital last night.

He had been taken to the hospital Sunday and was believed to be recovering. He was not delirious when a nurse took his temperature at 8 o'clock and turned out his light, but 40 minutes later he was missing. He was found unconscious on the sidewalk in the rear of the hospital, 25 feet below the window of his room and died two hours later of internal injuries.

ORMISTON DECLINES TO TALK ABOUT THE M'PHERSON CASE

District Attorney Keyes Says He'll Fight to Send Radio Man to Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, long-sought radio operator of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, is on his way to Chicago in company of detectives and newspaper men, but he has declined to answer any question concerning Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, with whom he is charged with conspiracy to defeat justice in connection with the story Mrs. McPherson told of having been kidnaped.

Ormiston, accompanied by Charles Ellwood and Harry Connelly, Chicago detectives, left Harrisburg yesterday in an automobile.

Intimation that Ormiston would fight extradition to California when he arrives here, were met by statements from District Attorney Keyes, who is in Washington, that he would fight to send the radio man to the coast.

BANK IN TENNESSEE FAILS

Somerville Depository Had Deposits of $500,000.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 10.—The Fayette County Bank of Somerville has closed its doors and placed its affairs in the hands of State bank examiners. W. T. Loggins is president of the bank, which was capitalized at $50,000. Deposits were said to be about half a million dollars.

"Frozen loans" were given as the reason for the bank's closing.

EXPERT DEFINED FOR SALESMANAGERS

An Ordinary Man a Long Way From Home, Publisher Tells Convention.

$ale$man$hip—golden word!—was stripped of a lot of witchcraft and sorcery by experts in a conference of about 400 sales executives on training salesmen, under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Sales Manager's Bureau, today at the City Club.

An expert, incidentally, was defined by Benjamin Wood, Western district manager for the Curtis Publishing Co., who had come all the way from Chicago and was in a dreadful hurry to catch a noon train to go back there, as "a very, very ordinary man a long way from home."

The "pep" and "punch" and all the mysterious "psychology" vended by salesmen selling salesmanship were sifted down by Ernest E. Troxell of Chicago, associate editor of "Sales Management," and former dean of the Toledo College of Business and Administration, to one simple formula, "Speak with authority."

Factors That Count.

"In picking a salesman, I would pay no attention to handwriting," he said, starting in on one popular fallacy. "I don't know anything about handwriting, but those who do tell me it means nothing.

"Neither would I care about the color of the hair, the texture of the skin, or the light in the eyes. I don't know psychology or physiology, but the physiologists and the psychologists say that sort of stuff is buncombe.

"The factors that count are brains, willingness to work, nature of the work and, in some cases, background of experience."

He had found jobbers' salesmen the best of them all, he said, simply because they customarily had served a six or seven years' apprenticeship inside the shop and knew it all the way through—could "speak with authority." That, he said, was why a head of a concern frequently could outsell any of the men on his sales staff; he knew more about his product than any of them.

Head of Concern Best Salesman.

"The head of a concern is his own best salesman," agreed Hanford Main, general manager of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. Closing discussion of Troxell's address, "Perhaps that is because of his personality and prestige, but only to a small extent. Whether he's small or large, blonde or brunette, he's a master salesman because the buyer knows he knows what he's talking about better than the buyer himself."

Facts, not "pep talks," Main remarked, were the most substantial "inspiration" for salesmen.

Even in the matter of "approach" where pep, punch and psychology have had everything their own way in the success stuff of the salesmen of salesmanship, Wood thinned the fog to three definite principles: approach the buyer "on the selling side," or from the viewpoint of his market; arm salesmen with every available fact, and work out a sales quota as a definite goal for each salesman.

CLEMENTS LEAVES HOSPITAL

Republican National Committeeman Will Recuperate in Washington.

Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, who has been in St. Luke's Hospital more than a month, was able to leave the hospital today, and departed for Washington, D. C., where he will visit a sister during his recuperation.

Dr. Clements was suffering from a throat affliction when he went to the hospital. This responded to treatment readily, but his physicians then found a more serious situation in a condition of anemia. Blood transfusion was performed successfully, and he gradually improved.

BROKEN PROMISE WINS $50,000 FOR ACTRESS

Pittsburg Jury Awards Anne Caldwell That Sum From John W. Hubbard, Manufacturer.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—Miss Anne Caldwell, New York actress, was awarded $50,000 by a Federal Court jury today in her $500,000 breach of promise suit against John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburg shovel manufacturer. The award was made in a sealed verdict agreed upon during the night and returned to Judge W. H. S. Thomson at the opening of court.

The suit was based upon allegations that Hubbard proposed marriage to the actress in Atlantic City, in 1922, and repudiated the engagement two years later after her return from a venture in motion picture work in California. She also charged seduction.

Hubbard denied there was any engagement or mention of marriage in his relations with Miss Caldwell. He testified they came to a parting of the ways just before she went West when she told him that Norman Bel Geddes, theatrical producer and scenic designer, had promised her parts in movie productions. Both Miss Caldwell and Geddes testified they were on the same train on the trip to the coast.

Miss Caldwell testified that, following their engagement, Hubbard induced her to leave her job in an Atlantic City modiste shop and go to New York, where she took a course in a dramtic school to educate herself to become Hubbard's wife, the shovelmaker paying the bills. Hubbard told the jury he was very fond of Miss Caldwell and he supposed he loved her, said he gave her money and presents, but insisted there was no engagement to wed.

Trial of the case occupied more than a week. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon and an agreement reached early today after nearly 12 hours' deliberation.

TUSCOLA, Ill., Dec. 10.—Harry Crawford, free on bonds on indictments in connection with the closing, last April, of the Hillsboro State Bank, has again been indicted on charges of having forged a transfer of a registered Government bond. He and Cyrus H. Drury, a promoter, also were indicted on 30 counts, charged with having obtained $36,000 by means of a confidence game from the bank before it closed.

Parent-Teachers Elect Officers.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of Cleveland High School passed a resolution last night at a meeting in the school auditorium favoring the playing of one football game annually on an out-of-town gridiron. The Board of Education has opposed such an arrangement. Election of officers was also held with all officers of the past year being returned to office, with Charles Lambur as president.

BATTLING BONDSMEN PACIFIED BY RABBI

Sam Arky and Ben Weisberg Agree to Stop Prosecuting Each Other.

Sam Arky and Ben Weisberg, professional bondsmen, speak to each other again. They are not the best of friends, but, through the mediation of Rabbi A. E. Halpern, they have agreed not to fight or prosecute each other any more, and that is something.

Arky and Weisberg stopped signing bonds on Oct. 11 long enough to engage in a fist fight in the corridors of the Municipal Courts Building. What they fought about was a great secret, but it was apparent from the way they swung, jabbed and feinted that they meant to harm each other. A goodly crowd urged them on, until a policeman stepped in and arrested the belligerents.

Each charged the other with peace disturbance, and both were sent to police court. The cases came up on five occasions and were continued as often. Once a jury was being impaneled when it was decided a continuance was in order.

Rabbi Halpern read and heard of the preceedings and called Arky and Weisberg on the carpet—at his residence, 5348 Cabanne avenue, last Wednesday afternoon. For four hours he talked to them in executive session. It is understood he told them they had caused sufficient publicity and should cease to prosecute and fight each other, and should speak when passing. Also, he suggested they should make amends for their misconduct by giving to charity.

Today, in accord with the agreement reached before Rabbi Halpern, counsel for Arky and Weisberg appeared before Police Judge Beck and had the peace disturbance charges dismissed.

SEEK IDENTITY OF DEAD YOUTH

Body Found Near St. Joseph, With St. Louis Bank Book in Pocket.

A youth, about 19 years old, killed in a fall from a freight train at St. Joseph, Mo., last Saturday is supposed to have lived in St. Louis and policewomen are trying to identify him and locate his relatives.

Information from St. Joseph said a bank book of the West St. Louis Trust Co., with no other name in it, however, was found on the youth. He is described as 5 feet 6 inches tall, had brownish red hair, brown eyes, freckles, and wore a red checked shirt, a gray cap, overalls and tan shoes.

BUSINESS MEN DECRY OVER-USE OF REFERENDUM

Directors of Associated Industries Refuse, However, to Denounce the Direct Primary.

Committees of the Associated Industries of Missouri are to be appointed to consider amending the initiative and referendum law to stop its indiscriminate use, and to test the sentiment of the organization's membership concerning the substitution of the convention system for the direct primary.

Both subjects were introduced at a meeting of the board of directors, at Hotel Jefferson yesterday, by Harry Scullin, president of the Associated Industries and of the Scullin Steel Co.

Scullin favored an aggressive campaign to abolish the primary. The caliber of officials who have served St. Louis and Missouri since the primary was started had not been as high, on the whole, as when nominations were made by party conventions, he asserted.

When some of the directors made it apparent that his idea was opposed, he inquired, "Are we a lot of mollycoddles, afraid we are going to make enemies, when we are only planning to teach good Government?" He declared he would find some organization that would work to abolish the primary, if this one did not.

Elmer Donnell, managing director of the Associated Industries, supported Scullin, saying this was a matter of Government, in which the association was interested, and not of partisan politics. He asserted money could be saved for the people by abolishing the primary.

James McQueeny, former president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, was outspoken in opposition to Scullins idea, saying there had been "more skullduggery and crookedness" under convention than under the primary system.

Basis of Opposition.

Four of the directors expressed sympathy with Scullin's proposal, but thought this association ought not take up the fight, for fear of opposition within the ranks and for fear of hurting the feelings of members of the Legislature whose help would be needed in other things.

A motion offered by R. H. Switzler, secretary-treasurer of the St. Louis Refrigerating and Cold Storage Co., to appoint a committee to test the sentiment of the association, was carried unanimously.

As to the initiative and referendum—which for some time tied up workmen's compensation, in which the Associated Industries was interested—Scullin declared it had been invoked too often. Names could be copied onto petitions from the city directory, he declared, and usually there was no opportunity to prove the forgery. The motion appointing the committee to consider amending the law also specifically stated that such a matter was within the province of the association. Scullin suggested requiring that petition must be signed in the presence of a notary public or Justice of the Peace.

An attorney representing zinc and lead mine owners in the Joplin district informed the directors of a heavy increase in liability insurance rates for this industry following passage of the workmen's compensation act, and they agreed to help oppose the rise.

Movie Tax Opposed.

Arthur Cole of Kansas City, Western Missouri representative of Will Hays, movie czar, told the board he understood Gov. Baker was going to ask the Legislature to place a $10 tax on every movie reel brought into the State. Cole declared this would cost the company employing him—one of 20 doing business here—$100,000 a year and would cause it to remove its branches to East St. Louis or Kansas City, Kan. Managing Director Donnell will help oppose this tax.

Reasons for consolidation of State departments, which is to be recommended to the Legislature, were outlined at the meeting by Thomas Rogers of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures. A list of 45 proposals or groups of proposals to be presented for consideration of the Legislature by 17 organizations and officials was distributed among the directors.

BROTHERS ELECTROCUTED AS THREE DIE AT SING SING

One, Refusing for Nine Months to See Mother, Relents; Heckles Chaplain.

By the Associated Press.

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Three men, two of them brothers, were executed in the electric chair at Sing Sing last night for killing an aged woman, who detected them in the robbery of a chain store in Brooklyn last February.

The men were John Maxwell, 21 years old, William Barszyouck, 28, and the latter's brother, Casimir, 21.

William Barszyouck, in the death house nearly nine months, had steadfastly refused to receive his mother, but finally relented and permitted her to visit him. Yesterday he interrupted a religious service to heckle the prison chaplain about a passage in the Bible.

GIVEN 15 YEARS FOR BURGLARY FOR WHICH AID GOT 3 YEARS

Walter Costello Stood Trial Before Jury, While Kenneth Williamson Pleaded Guilty.

Walter Costello, 19 years old, 2636 Lafayette avenue, was sentenced to 15 years in the State penitentiary after being found guilty by a jury in Circuit Judge Hogan's court yesterday of burglary. He was charged with the theft of women's apparel from a shop at 1811 South Jefferson avenue July 16, valued at $648.

Kenneth L. Williamson, who was jointly charged with Costello with the crime, received only three years in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty Sept. 17.

Nothing Else to Buy

A Standard Set With Metal Shielding at $69.75—
Have You Ever Seen Such Value?

Remember! That a Radio Set is only as good as the accessories you get with it. We give you a Westinghouse rubber-cased storage battery. We give you genuine Cunningham tubes. This and all other equipment is the best that money can buy!

These Sets Arrived Just in Time for Christmas!

Although we ordered these sets weeks ago for this very sale, we thought up to the last minute that we would be disappointed. The great Chas. Freshman company has been selling more sets of their previous table model (without all-metal shielded front and sub-panel) than they could possibly make this season. Imagine how our buyer had to camp on their trail to get this latest 1927 shielded model in time for this sale—and especially at this price—with such high-grade equipment.

We Had to Have a Sensational Value for This Great Christmas Sale!

And here they are—each set in Genuine Mahogany Cabinet—each in its own sealed carton—each brand new, spic and span out of the Freshman plant. Each with the new wood finished metal panel.

More Features That Prove the Marvelous Value:

- —the non-microphonic tube socket strip, mounted on rubber—full floating
- —the wonderful speedometer type precision dials
- —the jack for power amplifier on first stage audio
- —the large size powerful transformers and many other features bearing out the fact that this set should sell for much more.

Freshman—Cunningham—Westinghouse
Three of the Greatest Names in Radio Included in this Offer

We believe that the day is past in radio when the public is satisfied to take "bootleg" tubes and other cheap equipment at any price—and certainly when they can buy such an outfit as this with such high-grade equipment at prices heretofore offered only by dealers who "take it out of the equipment."

The C Battery Attachment Improves the Tone and Saves Your B Batteries

Heretofore, only high-priced sets were made for use with C Batteries. This feature enables you to use A and B Electric Power Supply Direct from A. C. lighting socket, if you desire. Also enables you to use a CX112 Power Tube in the last audio stage.

This Set May Be Electrified—
It is so constructed that it will operate with A and B Battery Eliminators without making any change in the circuit.

The Speaker Is the Soul of Your Radio

So we have selected the mellow voiced Herald, free edge cone-type Speaker for this superior outfit. The tone control lever is an important feature of the Herald Speaker.

The sturdy frame, the classic design of both pedestal and circular frame of heavy metal casting finished in Roman gold and black, make this Speaker worthy to stand beside the finest radio.

The Shielded Radio Is the Set of the Future!

The two highest-priced radio sets on the market are shielded. Here is your opportunity to buy a Genuine Freshman with Shielded all-metal front and sub-panel at a ridiculously low price.

What You Get for $69.75

For Roosevelt Memorial Stadium.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, has introduced a bill to determine the feasibility of erecting a 100,000-seat athletic stadium in Potomac Park, in memory of Theodore Roosevelt. The measure provides $10,000 for a survey.

28 MEN KILLED, FIVE MISSING IN MINE BLAST

Twenty-Eight Other Workers in Shaft Near Princeton, Ind., in Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 10.—Another explosion today prevented recovery from the subterranean passages of the Francisco Coal Co.'s No. 2 mine at Francisco, seven miles from here, of the bodies of the men who remained in the workings after the explosion of Thursday morning, which killed 21 men.

The death toll now stands at 28, including the five bodies sealed in the burning mine. Twenty-one bodies were recovered yesterday and two of th injured taken from the shaft died today in a hospital.

The pitchy odor of smouldering pine drove the rescuers from the shaft last night after they had accounted for 66 of the 71 men who were caught by the explosion as they went to work yesterday. Pausing only for a few gulps of coffee, the bleary-eyed crew members gathered about a chart of the underground chambers and spent three hours checking and rechecking to determine which of the entries had been explored. Then, intent on reaching remote chambers unpenetrated since the explosion, they descended again into the shaft.

Twenty-eight victims remained in local hospitals today. All of them had been burned and some suffered broken bones when the impact of the explosion threw them against timbers and mine walls.

Mine officials were at a loss to determine its cause. The Francisco mine, long reputed to be one of the safest in the Indiana bituminous field, had virtually every known safety device and had been inspected thoroughly only a short time before the blast.

The dead include: Loren Bailey, J. A. Turner, L. J. Jenkins, Everett Saddler, Earl Gales, Frank Helsley, Wes Louis, John Drisjell, James Gates, Vic Hulet, Claude Stone, Warner Byrd, Roy Shaw, Will Cassidy Sr., William James, Harry Slater, Will McCannon, J. H. Creech and John Ireland.

Seaplane Shipped to San Diego.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, Dec. 10.—The United States transport Vega has arrived here from Guantanamo, Cuba, with the United States Navy seaplane PN-10 No. 1 on board. The seaplane, which was unsuccessful in the recent attempt at a nonstop flight from Norfolk, Va., to Colon, will be taken by the transport to San Diego, Cal. The sister seaplane, PN-10 No. 2 already is on its way to California. Lieut. Connell, commander of the PN-10 No. 1, says the failure to carry out the flight direct from Norfolk to Colon was due only to the accidental breaking of a connecting rod.

Boy Injured When Pole Vaulting.

John LaChance, 14 years old, of 1319 Chambers street, suffered a fracture of his right arm during a pole vault contest yesterday afternoon in a yard at 1904 North Fourteenth street. John essayed to vault a five-foot fence. He failed, crashed into an ash pit, and was taken to City Hospital.

JARDINE FOR TARIFF TO BENEFIT FARMERS

Secretary of Agriculture Suggests Duties to Secure Home Market to Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Agriculture is unquestionably on the up grade, as a result in a large measure of the intelligence, energy and determination of the farmers themselves, Secretary Jardine says in his annual report.

Everything necessary for reconstruction on a sound footing cannot be done by the farmers themselves, however, Jardine declares, and the industry is entitled to assistance from other groups of the community and from the nation. He advances no new plan for farm relief.

"Further moderate improvement in the agricultural situation as a whole has taken place during the last year," said the secretary. "Certain regions have suffered reverses, notably the cotton states, whose principal crop, produced in exceptional abundance, is selling at very low prices. Parts of the spring wheat states have harvested a poor crop. Generally speaking, however, the position of agriculture is better now than it has been in any year since 1920. Livestock raisers, dairymen and winter wheat growers have earned good returns, and underlying conditions in the corn belt have improved.

"Farmers are getting results from the steps they took, following the depression of 1921, to curtail overproduction and to bring their leading enterprises into profitable balance.

Suggests Legislation.

Turning to the surplus problem, Jardine said he was convinced that through organized effort much more can be done than hitherto to eliminate the recurring surpluses so detrimental to the farming industry. Farmer-controlled agencies, he believed, could best effect an orderly flow of products to market.

"Legislative action should be designed to create and enlarge such agencies and supplement their efforts," said Jardine. "No general formula will cover all commodities and all regions. What is needed is concentrated and co-ordinated effort backed up by adequate resources. To do this may require further enabling legislation."

Declaring that farm commodity prices, especially in areas distant from markets, are seriously depressed by high freight rates, Jardine said it was his conviction there must be substantial rate readjustments.

Tariff on Farm Products.

Drastic reduction in farm taxes cannot be expected at the present time, in the opinion of the Secretary, who said the demands of the users of automobiles for better and more improved roads and the necessarily high costs of education will keep the expenses of states and local units close to their present level. It was a mistake, he said, to suppose that the tariff system benefited industry greatly and agriculture little. He says:

"Tariff duties on farm products prior to the war were largely hypothetical. Now, with increasing population, with relatively declining farm population, with declining farm acreage per capita, and with increasing efficiency of farming, the tariff is becoming protective for crops formerly influenced mainly by the world market. Under our high-tariff regime, such tariff rates should be placed on farm products, article by article, as will insure the producer the home market. The experiences of recent years have convinced me that the system of basing tariff rates on differences in production costs is inapplicable to agricultural products. The only method is to do what used to be done decades ago for manufacturing industries, namely, to fix rates at such a height as effectively to give the home market to domestic producers."

LIBERIA RATIFIES FIRESTONE RUBBER PLANTING PROJECT

Tire Manufacturer to Spend $100,000,000 on 1,000,000-Acre Plantation.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., Dec. 10.—Harvey H. Firestone's $100,000,000 Liberian rubber-growing project has received final ratification by the Liberian Congress and will be pushed to completion immediately along lines already laid out, it is announced by officials of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

With the approval of President C. B. D. King and Secretary of State Edwin Barclay of the West African republic, two Firestone expeditions have entered the country and have started harbor and sanitary improvement at Monrovia, the Liberian capital, preparatory to actual plantation work in the jungle.

Under the terms of the agreement with the Liberian Government, Firestone is granted a 99-year lease on 1,000,000 acres of land suitable for crude rubber production, and upon 2000 acres planted 16 years ago and now in full production. The cost of reclaiming the African jungle will be a minimum of $100 an acre, or $100,000,000, Firestone estimates. To operate the development will require, he says, the services of 35,000 native laborers, who should be able to make the 1,000,000 acres produce approximately 200,000 tons of rubber annually, or 50 per cent of the total amount produced today.

Two Children Perish in Fire.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 10.—Two sons of John Tweryon, four and three years old, respectively, were suffocated by smoke and their charred bodies were found in the ruins of their home after fire which started from a defective flue. The children were left alone in the house while the mother went to a grocery store.

SAY FEDERAL BUILDING SITE IS WORTH UP TO $6,000,000

Cost $368,882 in 1884; Sale Would Afford Index to Increase in Realty Values.

Sale of the Federal Building block, bounded by Eighth, Ninth, Olive and Locust streets, now being discussed in connection with plans for a new downtown Federal Building, would afford an index to the increase of realty values since the Government bought the site in 1884.

Real estate dealers believe the block would bring from $4,800,000 to $6,000,000. The purchase price, 42 years ago, was $368,882.65. The building of massive granite, on heavy piling, cost $5,686,854.68.

Sale of this block, and of two other downtown sites owned by the Federal Government, is part of the plan for a new building, the cost of which may approach $10,000,000, besides the cost of the site. The question of a new building, and proposals for the site, in the Memorial Plaza district and elsewhere, are in the hands of W. F. Field, site agent of the Treasury Department, who has headquarters at room 207, Federal Building.

Credit Men Elect Officers.

The Associated Retail Credit Men, at their annual Christmas party last night at Hotel Statler, elected the following officers: President, G. J. Rothweiler; vice president, E. A. Ruebling; treasurer, Ray R. Behrens, and secretary, A. J. Kruse. Directors elected are: P. O. Greer, retiring president; William Meinberg, George L. Neuman, William Kitchin and Edward Meister.

VACCINATION FOR TUBERCULOSIS IS URGED ON SWISS

Canton of Geneva Asks Federal Government to Adopt Prof. Henri Spalinger's Method.

HE SPENT 20 YEARS ON HIS DISCOVERY

Treatment Said to Have Caused Improvement in 80 Per Cent of Cases in Which It Was Used.

By HIRAM K. MODERWELL,
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The cantonal Government of Geneva now is urging the Swiss Federal Government to adopt the methods of immunization from tuberculosis and the successful treatment of the disease itself, said to have been perfected by Prof. Henri Spahlinger at Geneva after 20 years of experiment to which he devoted his entire private fortune of $400,000. The discovery was first announced in 1914.

After the most severe tests of cows immunized by Prof. Spahlinger which resisted inoculations of tuberculosis poisons, President Bron of the Geneva Government declares the Spahlinger method is successful beyond all earlier hopes and opens a new horizon for the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis. Records of all known cases in which the Spahlinger vaccine has been used on human beings, most of them in advanced stages of the disease, are claimed to show 80 per cent of great improvement if not cures.

Prof. Spahlinger is not a physician but a lawyer by training. He began the study of medicine, but quit because of his horror of the vivisection of animals. After acquiring his law degree he took up bacteriology as a hobby, finally abandoning his law career.

Receives $100,000 Gift.

Recently, his fortune exhausted, he was obliged to sell some of his animals to pay his creditors, but an English admirer rescued his life work by a gift of $100,000. Throughout his struggles Spahlinger's wife has been his devoted laboratory assistant.

The Spahlinger discovery is double—a serium for the treatment of tuberculosis and a vaccine for immunization. Both are produced in animals by the usual methods.

Spahlinger's achievement, which is said to make possible for the first time a practical serum and vaccine, consists first in isolating 20 varieties of tubercular poisons and the corresponding serums, which are combined according to a balanced formula to make the complete serum; second, in splitting the components of the baccilius and administering them in graduated form to the patient, so that he gradually develops his own antitoxins. The patient would succumb if it were administered complete. The vaccine process is kept secret.

Refuses Commercial Offers.

Prof Spahlinger is said to have refused large offers for the commercialization of his discovery. He wishes to produce sufficient serum and vaccine for independent tests in the chief laboratories of Europe, after which he says he will give his formula to the medical world.

The correspondent has seen one of Prof. Spahlinger's patients and a photographic record of the seemingly complete cure of malignant bone tuberculosis.

Spahlinger, who is a quiet, modest man in the middle forties, is especially proud that his collaborators—cows, horses, goats and chimpanzees — love him and come when called by name.

A visitor recently had ocular evidence of this upon Spahlinger's return from a journey, when a chimpanzee, chattering excitedly, thrust his hand through the bars of his cage and offered his master the remainder of a banana.

D. A. Day Jr. Held on Auto Charge.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Arrested as "John Doe" and charged with driving an automobile when intoxicated, a Police Court defendant was identified today as Darby A. Day Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago insurance man, and who only yesterday was granted a divorce from Berenice Lunstrom Day, who threw acid in his face. The young woman is serving a one to 14 year sentence in the San Quentin, Cal., penitentiary. Day, who was granted a jury trial, said he had been celebrating the legal separation from his wife when he was arrested early today after an argument with a taxicab driver.

Plan $12,500,000 Industrial Fund.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Creation of a $12,500,000 industrial development fund to be loaned to industries now in operation in Arkansas to increase their business, and to otherwise encourage industrial development, is the plan advanced by Charles Griffith, vice president of the Arkansas Power and Light Co. says the December issue of the Dixie Magazine.

GRAND JURY WOULD MODIFY VOLSTEAD ACT

Federal Body in New York Denounces It as a Breeder of Criminals.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The Volstead act is a breeder of "ruthless and dangerous criminals" and should be modified, in the opinion of the November Federal grand jury, as expressed in a resolution adopted 19 to 4, after consideration of liquor cases.

The jury adopted the resolution upon its dissolution Dec. 6, but it was not published until today. Copies were sent to Senators from New York, Federal judges and public prosecutors. Officials here said they believed this to be the first expression of its kind by a grand jury. The copies were signed by L. W. Flaunlacher, foreman of the jury, who said that 95 per cent of the cases handled during November were prohibition cases.

The resolution says: "We, as members of the grand pury of the Second District of New York, sitting for the November term, having had during this period ample opportunity to observe, by reason of personal testimony and evidence presented to us, the baneful effects of the Volstead act, under the workings of which has evidently been developed a very ruthless and dangerous set of criminals, have reached a full realization, and it is our opinion (only four dissenting) that this law in its present form cannot be enforced.

"We therefore submit that such modification of this law as will bring it within the bounds of reason and possible enforcement is necessary for the general good of the nation, and recommend and urge that at the next regular session of Congress that body recognize the result of the vote of the several referenda had Nov. 2 as indicative of the opposition of a large part of the population of the United States toward this law as it now stands and so modify it that it may become safe, sane and workable."

Most of the men on the grand jury are retired manufacturers or officers of companies.

$1000 RING MISSING IN HOME

Detectives are investigating the disappearance of a diamond engagement ring, valued at $1000, from among other jewels Thursday from a dresser in the home of Mrs. Adele Meyer of 5607 Waterman avenue, reported by her husband, Abraham P. Meyer.

The jewels had been cleaned and left on the dresser preparatory to a trip to New York. The ring was missing when Mrs. Meyer put on the jewels later.

GRAND
Delivered to Your Home for Christmas

On an Initial Payment of Only

$25

The Balance May Be Paid as Low as $2 Weekly

A continuation of our remarkable Holiday Sale offer on this beautiful Grand Piano. A rare opportunity to secure, at small cost and on exceptionally liberal terms, a Piano of very high quality. This is not a mere shell, made to sell at an almost unbelievable advertised price, but is a high-grade, standard make Piano with many features incorporated in it that are seldom found in Pianos at this price range.

It is made by the Smith & Nixon Co., now in their 60th year as makers of fine Pianos. To the reputation and endorsement of the maker this old, responsible St. Louis Institution, the House of Lehman, is glad to add its enthusiastic recommendation. We heartily urge all lovers of music to see and play this wonderful Piano . . . for then, we are sure, they, too, will be won by its beauty and by the excellence of its tonal qualities.

An unsurpassed Christmas gift suggestion!

PASTOR DEFENDS DRYS' SUPPORT OF F. L. SMITH

Anti-Saloon League Doesn't Pass on Nominee's Morals, the Rev. C. T. Wilson Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The Anti-saloon League, in its support of Illinois' Republican Senator-elect, Frank L. Smith of Dwight, was not concerned in where or how he got his campaign funds or how he spent them, the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, declared in his annual report today.

He said Smith and George E. Brennan, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate, probably were on the same level in financing their campaigns, "but on the question of prohibition or nullification, the one was right and the other wrong."

"The league does not pass upon a man's religion, moral character, past life, bank standing or the expenditures of his campaign funds," said Wilson.

He said there was just one issue —Smith obtained the Republican nomination on a declaration of support for the eighteenth amendment and he was the strongest candidate with such sentiments.

Wilson's report was made to the board at its annual meeting today in Washington, but that part pertaining to Illinois was made public here by the World Service Agencies office of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

While not referring by name to Hugh S. Magill, independent candidate, Wilson discussed the efforts of "a few of our influential people to drop Smith and take up a third candidate," after the controversy over campaign expenditures arose.

"The only effect of that," said Wilson, "would have been to elect Brennan, the wet who wishes to nullify his country's Constitution."

SUIT TO ENJOIN FORECLOSURE ON ASSETS OF BANKRUPT FIRM

R. L. Hedges and G. C. Griffith Alleged to Be Really Partners in Sacramento Tie & Lumber Co.

Suit was filed in Federal Court yesterday to enjoin Robert Lee Hedges, former owner of the St. Louis Browns, and a business associate, George C. Griffith, from foreclosing on the assets of the bankrupt Sacramento Tie & Lumber Co. and the New Mexico Tie & Lumber Co. A hearing on the petition has been scheduled for Dec. 26.

Hedges and Griffith testified last month before Bankruptcy Referee Coles that they loaned about $70,000 to J. H. Hines of Memphis, who operated the two companies in New Mexico.

The petitioners for injunction— The American Grocery Co., Brecht Candy Co. and Heid Bros., Inc., creditors with total claims of $7087 —allege that Hedges and Griffith, instead of lending money to others, actually were partners in the enterprises and expended the $70,000 as working capital. They allege, moreover, that Hedges and Griffith arranged for some of their employes to bring bankruptcy proceedings, so Hedges and Griffith might foreclose on assets covered by the mortgage, to the disadvantage of general creditors.

Among the assets are a contract to deliver 200,000,000 feet of ties to the Southern Pacific Railroad, and a permit from the Government to cut timber on the Mescalero Indian Reservation in New Mexico. These are listed at $1 and $100, respectively, in the bankruptcy schedules, but actually have "great value," according to the petition. One attorney who filed the petition said the value might be as much as $1,000,000.

EVIDENCES OF ASIATIC MIGRATION DISCOVERED

U. S. Coast Guard Crew Find Bones of Humans on Islets in Bering Sea.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 10.— Half-buried mud hovels of primitive design, held upright by ivory tusks, found on uninhabited, rocky islets in Bering Sea, have furnished additional evidence that the first inhabitants of America might have come from Asia, by way of Alaska.

The dwellings were discovered by officers of the cutter Algonquin of the United States coast guard's Arctic patrol, while cruising the eastern edge of St. Lawrence island, midway between Alaska and Siberia.

The islets were off the southeast cape of St. Lawrence Island. In the frozen earth the guardsmen uncovered skulls and bones of humans and lower animals and crude metal implements.

Two of the skulls were forwarded to the Smithsonian Institution. A peculiarity of the skulls found on the island was that one side of the jaws of each appeared to be more developed than the other.

Nominated to Be Rear Admiral.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Capt. Yates Stirling Jr. of the Navy, was nominated by President Coolidge today to be a Rear Admiral. Capt. Charles H. T. Londes was named medical director with the rank of Rear Admiral and Capt. George H. Rock to be naval instructor with the rank of Rear Admiral.

Ellen Terry Sits in Royal Box.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Ellen Terry, queen of the English stage, ventured from her close retirement of the last few months to take a seat in the royal box at the Haymarket Theater. In spite of her increasing deafness, she heard Robert Atkin pay tribute to her lovely voice. She sat with her face and snow white hair almost hidden by a wide black hat. She is 78 years old.

GOLDEN CALF, OLDER THAN MOSES, SHOWN

It Is Part of Royal Treasure Taken From Palestine Tomb.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—A golden calf, antedating by 500 years the golden calf of Moses' day, was revealed briefly to a select company last night by Prof. James H. Breasted, Egyptologist of the University of Chicago.

After being exhibited, the golden relic was returned to a secret vault from which it probably will not be taken again, at least for public exhibition.

The calf is part of a royal tomb treasure found in Palestine. The display included long strips of golden overlay adorned with scale patterns and believed to have been part of a golden serpent; two tiny golden vessels; a golden girdle, such as a King might have worn; golden pins for a Queen; and a pitcher of blue stone, adorned with bands of gold.

From the point of view of the goldsmith's art, the most important piece exhibited was an open work breast ornament, once encrusted with semi-precious stones, now mostly fallen out. The design included the Egyptian goddress Hathor, the source, Prof. Breasted explained, of the Hebrew "Golden Calf."

Also there was what remains of the golden calf itself, a statuette 15 to 18 inches high and overlaid with sheet gold. The overlay is crushed and crumbled, but the four golden hoofs are perfectly preserved in the overlay work.

"In the records as far back as 1600 B. C., said Prof. Breasted, "the King of Egypt give lists of the golden treasure which they carried away from the palaces of the Kings of Palestine, before the Hebrews settled there. The tombs of these pre-Hebrew Kings have never heretofore been discovered. Somewhere on the hillsides of the holy land these royal burial places remain to be found. From the first such tomb has come the royal treasure snown here."

Plan Flower Show in Spring.

Tentative plans were made yesterday by the St. Louis Florist Club at a meeting of that organization at 1416 Pine street, for a flower show to be held next spring at Shaw's Garden. The show will be free to the public. George H. Pring, horticulturist at Shaw's Garden, was appointed chairman of the committee to complete arrangements.

DELMAR CROSSING ARGUMENTS HEARD IN SUPREME COURT

Decision Hinges on Jurisdiction and Effect on "Complete" Plans and on State Service Board.

JUDGES QUESTION OPPOSING COUNSEL

Wabash Attorney Pleads City's Program Is Only Step Toward Viaducts All Along the Line.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—From the searching questions put to the attorney for the City of St. Louis and the Wabash and Rock Island Railroads in the Delmar grade crossing suit, heard in the United States Supreme Court today, the Court was apparently interested in only three of the many issues of the case. These were:

1. The jurisdiction of the court.
2. The effect of a decision on the "complete" plans of the city and the railroads, respectively.
3. And what effect the law passed in 1925, declaring for a 22-foot clearance for viaducts over roalroads, would have on the Missouri Public Service Commission's order for an 18-foot clearance at the Delmar boulevard crossing.

Court Questions Lawyers.

Homer Hall, attorney for the Wabash Railroad, was put through an hour of close questioning by the Justices. He was followed for a half hour by Oliver Senti, first Associate City Counselor for St. Louis, representing the city, the commission and certain landowners.

The suit came to the United States Supreme Court from the Missouri Supreme Court, which had reversed the order of the Missouri Public Service Commission for a viaduct over the Wabash tracks at Delmar boulevard. The commission had decided in favor of the so-called "city plan," calling for a viaduct," against the "railroad plan" for elevation of tracks, both at Delmar and Hamilton.

Throughout his argument, Hall attempted to show that the "city plan" for the Delmar crossing was only a step toward the realization of the "complete city plan" for viaducts over all the grade crossings south of Delmar.

Interested in Delmar Case Only.

He was interrogated closely whenever he mentioned "city plan," to ascertain whether he referred only to the Delmar crossing or to the "complete city plan." From the questions directed to him, the Justices indicated that they were interested only in the Delmar crossing and would pass on the "complete" plan when the occasion demanded.

At the close of his argument, Hall mentioned that the State Legislature had passed a law in 1925, declaring that wherever practicable, viaducts should have a clearance of 22 feet. When asked what effect this law would have on the commission's order, he replied he believed an affirmation by the United States Supreme Court of the Missouri court's decision would be taken as an order for an 18-foot clearance.

This same question was put to Senti. He answered that this was a matter for the Missouir courts to decide, contending that an affirmation or dismissal of the case by the United States Supreme Court would put the case back into the jurisdiction of the commission, which recently held that it could not hold further hearings on the question while the suit was pending in the Supreme Court.

Senti was followed by Marion C. Early, attorney for Frank H. Gerhart, who briefly stated that the railroad plan would mar the West End residential section.

COTTON FARMERS AGREE TO REDUCE 1927 ACREAGE

Representatives From Eight States Attend Memphis Conference, to Make Further Efforts.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 10.—Hundreds of thousands of acres have already been pledged for diversion to other crops in the cotton acreage reduction campaign, a spokesman for the cotton conference declared last night in summing up reports made by State committees to the Executive Committee of the movement in conference here.

Dr. Tait Butler of Memphis, chairman of the executive group and his associates announced that the organization in each state had made good progress except in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. The conferes decided to line up growers, bankers and handlers of the crop in these three states by immediate strenuous organization work.

Committee men attended its conferences from Alabama, Arkansas Oklahoma, Mississippi, Louisiana Texas, Tennessee and North Carolina. They agreed to push an aggressive follow-up campaign which purposes to give every grower an opportunity to pledge acreage reduction for the coming season.

JOINS W. C. T. U. IN DRY ENFORCEMENT DEMAND

State Anti-Saloon League Assails Prosecuting Attorney in St. Louis.

The Headquarters Committee of the Missouri Antisaloon League has joined in the demand made upon Gov. Baker and Attorney-General Gentry by the St. Louis Federation, Women's Christian Temperance Union, that the Attorney-General take over enforcement of the State prohibition law in St. Louis.

A resolution identical with that adopted by the women's organization was approved by the Headquarters Committee yesterday and was sent out by the Rev. Dr. C. B. Boving, secretary. It states that "the Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis have never enforced the State prohibition law or made any effort to do so, and for that reason prohibition is not now, and never has been, in effect in St. Louis."

The resolution charges further that the Prosecuting Attorney has refused to co-operate with the police in efforts to stamp out moonshining and bootlegging and has failed, neglected and refused to use the injunction remedy provided by the law. Albert L. Schweitzer, Prosecuting Attorney, was reelected recently for a four-year term.

Gov. Baker said yesterday that he would talk with the Attorney-General, who at that time was not in Jefferson City, before announcing any decision as to the request. The State prohibition law says it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General to undertake enforcement in any county where the local prosecutor fails or refuses to act. Gentry said he would await an order from the Governor.

MERGER OF TWO OFFICE EQUIPMENT FIRMS HALTED

Federal Judge Stops Purchase of Globe Wernicke Stock by Competing Concern.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Merger of Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc., and the Globe Wernicke Co., manufacturers and dealers in office equipment, has been halted by Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow, who entered a decree ordering the Rand company to turn over to David H. McAlphin of New York City, as trustee, about 1,100,000 par value of stock of the Globe Wernicke company, now held by Rand, Kardex Bureau, Inc.

The trustee is ordered to dispose of this stock before Dec. 31, 1928.

Judge Winslow held that the purchase of Globe Wernicke stock by the Rand, Kardex Bureau violates the provision of the Clayton act that no corporation shall acquire the capital stock of another corporation in like business "where the effect of such acquisition may be to substantially lessen competition between the corporation whose stock is so acquired and the corporation making the acquisition or to restrain such commerce in any section or community or tend to create a monopoly of any line of commerce."

Wilson Heads Rivers Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Congressman Riley J. Wilson of Louisiana has been re-elected president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, in session here. The congress voted it unalterable opposition to control of waterway traffic by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and also opposed taking the work of improving waterways from army engineers.

KANSAS CITY LIKELY TO SHARE BANK LOSS

Attorney-General Holds $300,000 Guaranteed Deposit Not Exempt in Liquidation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 10.—City funds totaling $300,000, deposited in the defunct Federal Trust Co., appear to have been imperiled under a ruling by Attorney-General Gentry. The city must bear its share of the loss in the crash of the bank, now estimated at about $500,000.

Gentry's ruling holds a bank's assets may not be pledged as securities for deposits. The Federal Trust Co. placed its own bonds with the First National Bank as a guarantee for the city funds.

Depositors yesterday filed suit in Circuit Court to restrain the First National Bank from releasing the bonds and the effect of the suit, if sustained, will be to give the Federal Trust Co. depositors about 12 per cent more in the liquidation and the city will take its share of the loss along with other depositors.

Liabilities Total $2,687,793.

The Federal Trust liabilities include demand deposits of $2,087,933; time deposits of $162,000; rediscounts of $233,769, bills payable to the amount of $175,000, and cashiers' checks for $29,091—a total of $2,687,793.

Judge H. F. McElroy, City Manager, declined to accept the Attorney-General's view. "It was just an attorney's opinion," he said, "and the city does not accept it."

Inventories filed in connection with the liquidation procedure for the Federal Trust Co., and the Waldo State Bank showed that among the paper held by the Federal Trust Co., was a $25,000 demand note, dated Oct. 22, 1926, signed by Carl J. Peterson, former Kansas State Bank Commissioner, and indorsed by J. S. McMahon, president of the closed Terminal Trust Co., and M. F. Rinehart, a business associate of Peterson. McMahon served as a Kansas bank examiner under Peterson, as did Rinehart.

C. U. Becker of Note for $18,840.

Another Federal Trust Co. note, for $18,840, as has been told, was signed by Charles U. Becker, Missouri Secretary of State, as president of the Missouri Press Publishing Co., and George F. McKinney, associated with nim in the publishing company.

A. P., P. E. and J. G. Laughlin, brothers, carried a number of notes in the Waldo bank. J. G. Laughlin was cashier of the depository. P. E. Laughlin was president of the Federal Trust Co.

Notes in the Federal Trust Co. of David M. Proctor, former State Senator, and of his Westmoreland Land and Investment Co. were considered safe. In the Federal, Proctor and his company had notes totaling $32,650, none due at the time the bank closed. He and his company also had $5550 in notes at the Waldo Bank, of which he was a director.

BOY, 10, ASLEEP IN THEATER CAUSES BURGLAR ALARM

Police, With Revolvers Drawn, Find Homeless Waif Behind Popcorn Machine in Lobby.

A telephone call that burglers, possibly safe robbers, were in the office of the Gem Theater, 16 South Sixth street, at 1 a. m. today caused a rush of detectives and policemen to the office.

The front door was unlocked. Invading the office with weapons drawn the policemen found behind a popcorn vending machine, Anthony Stoduski. He was just getting comfortable preparing to take a nap when the police disturbed him.

Anthony is 10 years old. Having no home and being an orphan he had sought a place to sleep out of the cold. The door of the theater lobby gave when he tried it and he walked in. He had taken to the House of Detention to a warm bed and efforts will be made to find him a home.

Paris Gropes in a Heavy Fog.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 10. — Paris today was enveloped in the worst fog in years. Street traffic was greatly reduced in speed and business seriously hampered. Breakdowns in the lighting current added to the difficulties. The Curb Market which operates on the steps of the Bourse delayed its opening hour because of the darkness. Playful brokers set off fireworks pending the arrival of fire department searchlights, which were stationed on either side of the steps to illuminate the scene and allow trading to proceed.

LEAGUE TO INVITE U. S. TO MEETING ON ARMS CONTROL

Council Decides to Call Session Next Autumn Unless Disarmament Conference Is Held Previously.

ECONOMIC SESSION AT GENEVA, MAY 4

Swiss Site Selected for Meeting Despite Unwillingness of Russia to Send Envoys There.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—Despite the repeated declarations of American delegates to Geneva that Washington opposes a conference on control of private manufacture of arms, the League of Nations Council decided yesterday to convene such a conference next autumn and to invite the United States to participate. The conference is conditioned on the postponement of a general disarmament conference.

The American attitude has been that such control would be an unconstitutional infringement of states' rights, but since publicity is contemplated as the chief instrument of control and production figures already are printed League officials hope Washington will be able to approve the program.

Despite pressure to insure the participation of Russia in the international economic conference by holding it in Amsterdam, the Council has decided to open it in Geneva May 4. The United States is expected to take part. Russia, since the assassination of the Soviet Envoy Vorovsky in 1923, has avoided meetings on Swiss soil.

Hope for U. S. Participation.

The tenor of yesterday's discussion indicated that the League Council attaches importance to participation by the United States in the arms control conference.

The report, which was adopted, declares that the Council bases its hope that the United States will participate on formal statements by representatives of the United States at the conference on traffic in arms.

League officials said afterward that this was an allusion to a remark made by Theodore E. Burton that the United States would willingly join in a convention that will compel arms producing states to publish statistics concerning the production of munitions and the implements of war. Thereby nonproducing states would be at no disadvantage as compared with manufacturing countries.

Economic Conference.

Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, who has been suffering from nervous indigestion, was recovered sufficiently to attend the session. He surprised everyone by the excellence of his English when he read a report convoking the economic conference at Geneva on May 4, 1927, and inviting the United States, Turkey, Mexico, Ecuador and Egypt, as nonmembers of the League, to participate.

Former Premier Theunis of Belgium, who has been designated president of the economic conference, warned the Council that a world economic conference would be more difficult than the Brussels financial one because it would require international collaboration to insure success.

War Debts a Factor in American Attitude on Economic Conference.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Apparently the main point for the American Government to consider in connection with the economic conference next May is the question of war debts.

Heretofore, the administration has rejected suggestions for participation in European economic discussions which touched in any way on the debts, taking the position that the American policy in that respect had been determined by Congress and that the function of the executive had been limited to negotiation of terms of payment.

As to exercising direct control over arms manufacture, the Government has held that it is without authority to intervene with their production and transportation within the United States and is able only to prevent exportation through embargoes, such as now apply to Mexico and Central America.

Until the invitations are received, no attempt will be made to formulate American policy with respect to them.

U. S. BEHIND OTHER NATIONS IN BUILDING FIGHTING CRAFT

Figures on Construction in Other Countries Given to House Naval Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Testimony that the United States has lagged behind other nations in building fighting craft for its navy since the Washington arms treaties were signed was given the House Naval Committee yesterday by Capt. A. J. Hepburn, who said Great Britain, Japan and France had outstripped this country in new construction. While the United States has a total of 16 ships built and building since the treaties, Great Britain has 37; Japan 101; France 95, and Italy 16, he said.

The expression that in his opinion, not more than a half dozen of America's fleet of submarines are "worth a damn," was made by Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking Republican on the committee.

Testimony showed that out of 121 undersea craft listed on the navy's register, 45 are out of commission, he said. Of the remainder, 62 were derscribed by him as being of the "mule" type.

"Will they float?" he asked Capt. Hepburn.

"Yes," he answered, but added that a number of them were not capable of sea duty with the fleet.

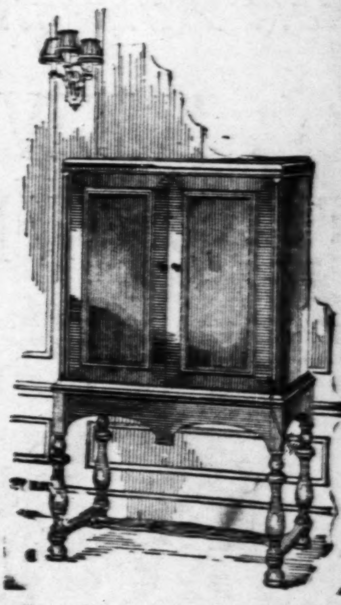
New Orthophonic
Victrola
Electrolas and RCA Radiola Combinations



—all styles are available on the AEOLIAN Christmas Purchase Plan

The new Orthophonic Victrola! Musical marvel of the age. Entirely new in everything but name. New in conception, in principle, design, and finish. In performance it eclipses the finest results hitherto obtainable from any instrument of its type. There is nothing with which to compare it except the actual performance of the living artist whose genius it reproduces with flawless realism.

This new Orthophonic Victrola, through the scientific Victor-controlled principle of "matched impedance," reproduces all tones, high or low, soft or loud, with incredible clarity and naturalness.

Plan now to visit the Aeolian Company where all styles of these remarkable new instruments are on display...be prepared to hear your favorite music, just as you would expect to hear it played if the living artist stood before you.

There are beautiful models of the Orthophonic Victrola priced as low as $95. Any one of these may be had on our special Christmas Purchase Plan. Let us tell you about it.

Open Evenings Until Christmas

The Tuscany Electrola illustrated above is a Victrola in which the music is electrically reproduced and amplified to any desired volume through Radiotrons. It may also be used as the power loud speaker for your present radio with astounding results. We invite you to hear it this week.

COCKLE-BURR EXTRACTED FROM MAN'S LUNG IN HOSPITAL

Ellis Haiden of Poplar Bluff Swallowed One When Picking Them Off Mittens With Teeth.

A cockle burr three-quarters of an inch long and three-eighths of an inch thick, was removed from the right lung of Ellis Haiden, 27 years old, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., last night in the bronchoscopic department of Jewish Hospital.

It was the second such operation in medical literature, said the surgeon today, for such burrs generally lodged in the throat. Also it was especially difficult, because the burr did not show on X-ray examination. The operation was decided upon because Haiden was coughing constantly and there was a slight indication of congestion in the right lung, although he had been in St. Louis a week and was told by several physicians and one hospital that there was nothing the matter with him.

Last week Haiden was trying to remove cockle burrs from mittens he was wearing. When he picked a burr from one mitten, it stuck to the other. He resorted to picking them off with his teeth, and in that manner the burr entered the lung.

ONE OF SHELTON BROTHERS RELEASED ON $60,000 BOND

Carl Freed From Peoria, Ill., Jail; Earl and Bernie Are Still Held.

Carl Shelton, one of the leaders in the Williamson County gang feud, is at liberty again, after having spent almost a month in jail at Peoria on a Federal indictment charging complicity in the $15,000 robbery of a mail messenger at Collinsville on Jan. 27, 1925.

He was released yesterday afternoon after six sureties had scheduled property worth more than $120,000 to secure their signatures on his $60,000 bond. His brothers, Earl and Bernie, also charged with the Collinsville robbery, still are in jail at Peoria and Bloomington, respectively.

The signers of Carl's bond are George Blockberger, Henry Droege and J. M. Jones of Granite City, Jesse Nichols of East St. Louis, John P. Harley of Venice and Sam Sabotnik of Springfield.

E. L. DOHE

He Declares He Was Arms Parley Wa Stave Off W

Admiral Robison Pictured as Making a Belgium o Magnate Tes

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, made a corking good witness for himself and his old pal, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, yesterday. If they are acquitted on the charge of conspiring to defraud the Government on the lease which Fall gave Doheny on the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve, it will be largely another instance in which Fall can thank Doheny and Doheny can thank himself. It was Doheny day at the trial.

The little old terrier with the ruddy weather-beaten face and the white mustache that covers a long upper lip, was a picturesque and appealing figure on the witness stand. It was a strange story that he told, but he told it amazingly well. He has 70 years behind him, and many of them were colorful and adventurous years.

Perched high on the stand, with his infected arm in a gaudily striped sling, he bent his faded blue eyes on the jury box and in his brisk chirpy voice told the romantic story of his career as waiter, mule driver, gold miner, prospector and oil driller who finally struck it rich—rich beyond his purplest dreams—and the jury of youthful clerks and mechanics listened in obvious fascination. Old man Doheny can spin a yarn, and yesterday he was spinning for a big stake.

Some of It Hard to Believe.

By the world at large, some of his testimony will be read with frank incredulity. The world, for example, will find it difficult to believe that we were on the verge of war with Japan in 1921. It is hard to credit that President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes called the Washington disarmament conference because of warlike preparations in the Pacific, especially when the world recalls that the conference was forced by Senator Borah, and only after a long crusade.

Likewise, the assertion that Doheny leased the reserve and contracted to build storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, purely as a measure to meet the threat of immediate war with Japan, presents some difficulties when it is learned that the tanks could not possibly be ready for use within a year and a half.

Nevertheles, the little multi-millionaire was entitled to his day in court, and he certainly made the most of it. Of course, he was in the hands of his own lawyer throughout the session.

Main Points of His Story.

Aside from his colorful autobiography, the main points in Doheny's testimony and those affecting the issue of the trial were as follows:

1 That he and Fall have been friends for 40 years and the $100,000 which he sent Fall by his son, Edward L. Doheny Jr., in a little black bag on Nov. 30, 1921, was a "loan" made to an old pal in need, and had nothing whatever to do with the leases which Fall gave him a few months later.

2. That he accepted Fall's unsecured note because he trusted him to pay if he ever was able, and that he tore the signature off the note so his executors would not collect it from Fall if Doheny should die suddenly.

3. That—and this was a complete surprise—since they were first indicted in this case Fall had transferred to him a third of Fall's land and cattle holdings, a share now worth $200,000, or twice the amount of the "loan."

4. That prior to the leasing of the reserve, Fall and Doheny never discussed it, all the negotiations being carried on between officers of Doheny's company and officials of the Government.

5. That Capt. (then Rear Admiral) John K. Robison persuaded him to bid for the lease by telling him that war with Japan was imminent, that unless tanks were constructed at Pearl Harbor, Japan would invade this country and "make a Belgium" of the Pacific coast states, and that President Harding and Secretary Hughes had called the disarmament conference out of alarm over the situation in the Pacific.

6. That Doheny was mistaken when he forecast that he would make $100,000,000 on the lease and that it had proved unprofitable.

Doheny Tells About "Loan."

Under the suave and soft-voiced guidance of his attorney, Frank J. Hogan, Doheny gave this story of the $100,000 "loan":

"You lent Mr. Fall some money?" asked Hogan. "Yes, sir."

"How much did you lend him?"

E. L. DOHENY'S DEFENSE OF OIL LEASES AS HE GAVE IT TO THE JURY

He Declares He Was Told Arms Parley Was Move to Stave Off War With Japan

Admiral Robison Pictured Impending Attack as Making a Belgium of Pacific Coast, Magnate Testifies.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, made a corking good witness for himself and his old pal, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, yesterday. If they are acquitted on the charge of conspiring to defraud the Government on the lease which Fall gave Doheny on the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve, it will be largely another instance in which Fall can thank Doheny and Doheny can thank himself. Perched high on the stand, with his infected arm in a gaudily striped sling, he bent his faded blue eyes on the jury box and in his brisk chirpy voice told the romantic story of his career as waiter, mule driver, gold miner, prospector and oil driller who finally struck it rich—rich beyond his purplest dreams—and the jury of youthful clerks and mechanics listened in obvious fascination. Old man Doheny can spin a yarn, and yesterday he was spinning for a big stake.

Some of It Hard to Believe.

By the world at large, some of his testimony will be read with frank incredulity. The world, for example, will find it difficult to believe that we were on the verge of war with Japan in 1921. It is hard to credit that President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes called the Washington disarmament conference because of warlike preparations in the Pacific, especially when the world recalls that the conference was forced by Senator Borah, and only after a long crusade.

Likewise, the assertion that Doheny leased the reserve and contracted to build storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, purely as a measure to meet the threat of immediate war with Japan, presents some difficulties when it is learned that the tanks could not possibly be ready for use within a year and a half.

Nevertheles, the little multimillionaire was entitled to his day in court, and he certainly made the most of it. Of course, he was in the hands of his own lawyer throughout the session.

Main Points of His Story..

Aside from his colorful autobiography, the main points in Doheny's testimony and those affecting the issue of the trial were as follows:

1 That he and Fall have been friends for 40 years and the $100,000 which he sent Fall by his son, Edward L. Doheny Jr., in a little black bag on Nov. 30, 1921, was a "loan" made to an old pal in need, and had nothing whatever to do with the leases which Fall gave him a few months later.

4. That prior to the leasing of the reserve, Fall and Doheny never discussed it, all the negotiations being carried on between officers of Doheny's company and officials of the Government.

5. That Capt. (then Rear Admiral) John K. Robison persuaded him to bid for the lease by telling him that war with Japan was imminent, that unless tanks were constructed at Pearl Harbor, Japan would invade this country and "make a Belgium" of the Pacific coast states, and that President Harding and Secretary Hughes had called the disarmament conference out of alarm over the situation in the Pacific.

6. That Doheny was mistaken when he forecast that he would make $100,000,000 on the lease and that it had proved unprofitable.

Doheny Tells About "Loan."

Under the suave and soft-voiced guidance of his attorney, Frank J. Hogan, Doheny gave this story of the $100,000 "loan":

"You lent Mr. Fall some money?" asked Hogan. "Yes, sir." "How much did you lend him?" "One hundred thousand dollars."

"When did you lend it to him?" "On the last day of November, 1921."

"Tell us, Mr. Doheny, how the subject came up between you."

"Well," the witness began, "it was sometime in November, I think, and he was telling me about his desire to acquire the Harris ranch lying between his ranch and the mountains, which was very necessary to complete the water privileges to his ranch, and the death of the owner made it possible for him to get it reasonable. And he told me he was talking to his friend in Washington, Mr. Edward McLean (owner of the Washington Post), about taking an interest in it.

"He was not sure Mr. McLean would go in with him, but he said he thought he might get the money from Mr. Price McKinney, with whom he had some interests in New Mexico. I think I said to him, in just a casual way, 'If you fail to do that, Senator, if you care to get it from me, I can let you have it. I can spare you that amount.'"

Offered Mortgage as Security.

"How much did Mr. Fall want to complete the transaction?" asked Hogan. "He wanted to raise $100,000. He said the ranch would cost over $90,000," Doheny replied.

"What was said about security?" "He offered me a mortgage on the ranch."

Doheny then explained the vital necessity of having adequate water rights on a ranch such as Fall's in New Mexico, which was in a valley, and consisted of several thousand acres. He said the desire to acquire the Harris ranch had become "an obsession" with Fall.

"Where did that conversation take place?" "At the Wardman Park Hotel here, in his rooms."

"When did you hear from him again about it?" "He telephoned me in New York from Washington. He said he was going to New Mexico, and he would like to close up that ranch deal, and wanted to know if I could let him have the money, as he hadn't gotten it from the other sources."

"What did you tell him?" "I said yes, that I would be glad to do it, and asked him in what form he wanted it. He said he wanted it in cash, that it would be a cash transaction, and that currency would be convenient for him.

Told Son He Expected Note.

"I spoke to my son, Edward, about it," Doheny continued, "and arranged with him to get the money at the bank, and bring it down and hand it to Mr. Fall. I told him I was expecting Mr. Fall to hand him a note for the amount."

"What had been said about security?" "He offered me mortgages on both the old and new ranches, but I told him not to bother with it, that his note was good enough for me."

"When you were getting the cash, did you make any inquiry about your company's balances?" "No sir, and I want to say right now, Mr. Hogan, that this was not a company matter in any way. At that time our company had between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 in various banks."

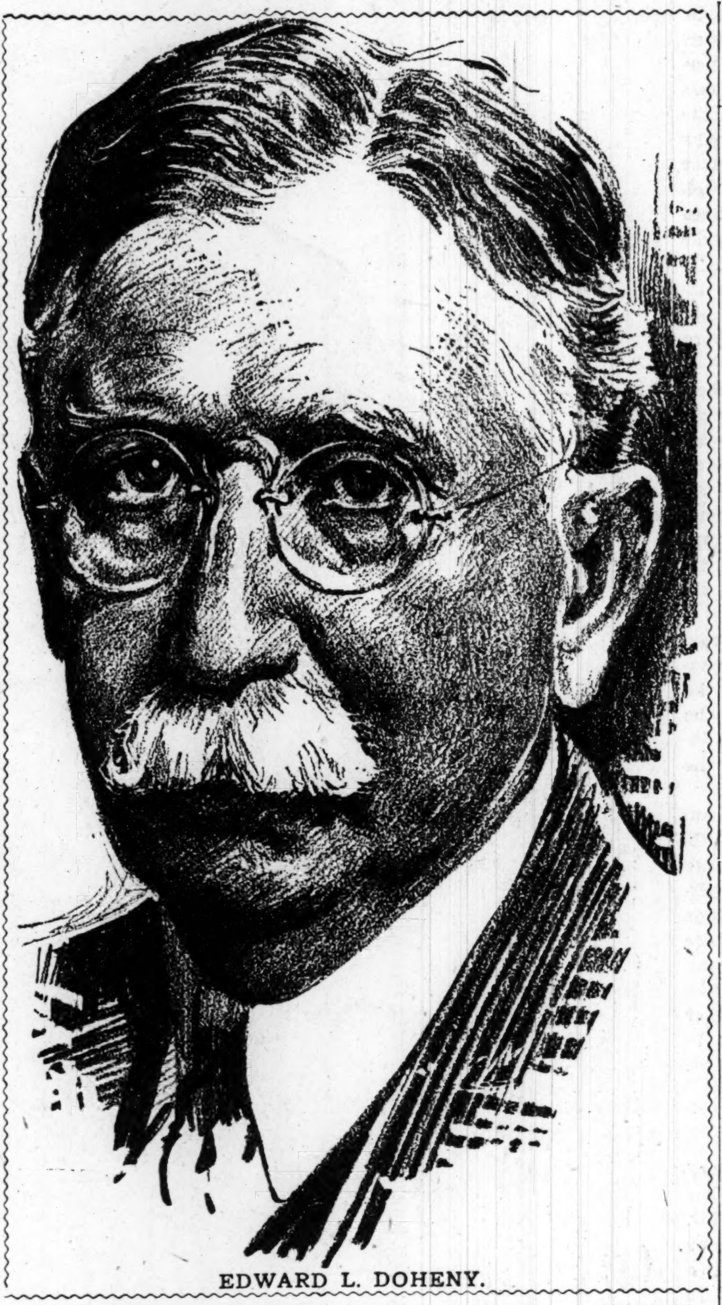
"What did your son say when he returned from Washington?" "He handed me the note, and told me he had spoken to Mr. Fall about his failure to put the interest rate in it and that Mr. Fall had said I was to fix the interest. I put the note in my wallet."

Tore Note to Protect Fall.

"What next?" "My wife and I were starting back to Los Angeles three weeks later and before we left the hotel I pulled out this note and I said to her, 'I have an idea I will tear this note apart, so that if anything should happen to us on the way home, it would not be an instrument of torture to Mr. Fall instead of an assistance. "We had in mind several collisions that had happened on the railroads, and I know of one family that had been wiped out, and I just happened to glance at the note. It occurred to me that if we should happen to be wiped out it would be an instrument of torture to Mr. Fall rather than an assistance, because our executors would try to collect it from him and he would be in a worse fix than if he had never got the money.

"So I tore it in two pieces and handed her the signature, and told her to keep it carefully and we could put it together when we arrived home safely. I said if the note should be found on us this way the executors would show it to Ned (their son), and he would surely understand."

"Have you received any security for this note?" "I have." "When?" "About a year ago. It was right after the quashing of the first indictment against us." As will be recalled, this was more than a year after the disclosure of the loan had been made before the Walsh Oil Investigating Committee of the Senate.



EDWARD L. DOHENY.

Identifies Ranch Shares.

Hogan introduced in evidence 33 shares of the Tres Ritos (Three Rivers) Land and Cattle Co., under which title Fall's properties are incorporated, and Doheny said it was the stock, representing a third of the value of Fall's holdings, which Fall had transferred to him a year ago.

"What did he say to you about the value of this company's holdings?" "He said they were worth at least $600,000, so I got at least $200,000, or double the value of the note."

Doheny testified that between the making of the "loan" in November, 1921, and the granting of the first lease on Elk Hills, April 25, 1922, he never saw Fall, and never had any discussion with him on the subject of a lease. Previously in July, 1921, there had been some correspondence between them on the subject of Doheny surrendering half of an offset lease which he already held in the reserve. Doheny willingly gave it up and Fall wrote his appreciation, telling Doheny that he had mentioned it to President Harding in commendation of Doheny's "patriotism." In his reply Doheny had thanked Fall for "the complimentary way in which you mentioned me to the Big Chief."

Doheny Grateful to Fall.

Earlier, the irrelevant but interesting disclosure was made by Doheny that up to a few years ago his company was the largest single property owner in Mexico. As Senator, Fall had served on a committee which investigated the Mexican situation as affecting the interests of American property owners in Mexico, and Doheny mentioned that he was extremely grateful for Fall's attitude in the investigation.

Fall's attitude was one of extreme hostility to the Mexican Government and of extreme solicitude for the rights of American oil men in Mexico. In the report which he made to the Senate afterward he urged that strong measures be taken for the protection of those rights. As a matter of fact, Fall was largely responsible for inaugurating the policy which is now being pursued by Secretary of State Kellogg.

When Doheny came to tell of his part in the making of the leases on Elk Hills, it was chiefly to insist that he did nothing except consent to bid and that all the details were carried out by the officers of his company. He related, however, how Admiral Robison persuaded him to make the first bid, which involved the construction of tanks at Pearl Harbor.

Tells of Robison's War Scare.

In October or November, 1921, he said, Fall asked him to get some estimates on the cost of constructing tanks at Pearl Harbor, and that he got this data and sent it to Fall, but received no reply. A few weeks later, he continued, Admiral Robison called him to the Navy Department and discussed the tankage project.

"When I got back to Washington in January, 1922, he approached me on the subject again," Doheny went on. "I told him I wasn't interested in it, that I didn't care to go into the construction business and that, while I had got some facts and figures together for Secretary Fall, I wasn't keen on bidding on the project.

"So he began to argue with me about it and told me the real necessity for it and appealed to my interest in the security of the country. He said the intelligence department of the Navy had reports from Admiral Gleaves (commanding the Asiatic squadron) and others that order had been issued for mobilization along the Oriental order, and the Board of Strategy of the Navy had urged the Secretary of the Navy (Edwin Denby) to make preparations to offset any steps the Japanese navy might take."

Japan's name, which Robison had so laboriously avoided during his testimony, held no terrors for Doheny. He rattled it off incessantly.

Harped on Horrors of War.

"Admiral Robison told me they had a room with charts and models, where all the possible maneuvers were shown, and they had it all worked out that with an adequate supply of oil at Pearl Harbor the navy could prevent the invading force from reaching our Pacific coast. Without a supply there, he said, our navy could be easily overcome, and that we would find ourselves in the position of Belgium when it was invaded by the Germans.

"He kept talking about the horrors of war, and said if the navy was not fully prepared there would be a reign of terror along the Pacific coast.

"There was a real menace, Admiral Robison said, and trouble could be expected in the Pacific any time. He told me that the disarmament conference called by President Harding and Secretary Hughes had been necessitated by the emergency brought about by the menacing gestures and movements of the Japanese navy, and that the purpose of the conference was to confront Japan, and bring about a cessation of her maneuvers.

Doheny "All Worked Up."

"He got me all worked up about it. He was very earnest. The efficiency of our fleet would be more than doubled by having a fuel base at Pearl Harbor, he said, and reminded me of Lord Curzon's comment about the allies floating to victory on a tide of oil."

"Finally, he got me to give my assurance that my company would submit a bid. I told him that I would not figure on any profit in connection with the contract, if it was necessary for the national security. I told Mr. Cotter (a vice president of Doheny's Pan-American Oil Co.) to take charge of the matter and to put in a bid at cost."

After that Doheny said he had very little to do with the negotiations, which were carried on entirely by his subordinates up to and including the making of the contract. That contract, it will be recalled, contained the "preferential right" under which Fall eight months later secretly leased the whole reserve to Doheny.

Asked about the "preferential right," Doheny burst out:

"Dense as a Fool" Abut It.

"I'm as dense as a fool when it comes to that 'preferential right.' It wasn't my idea. I never did understand it, and don't care anything about it now. Some of my people seemed to think it was important."

As for the second contract, under which he got the entire reserve, Doheny had even less detail to give. Between the date of the first contract, April 25, and the second, Dec. 11, he saw Fall but once, and that occasion was a call by himself and Mrs. Doheny on the Falls at their apartment, during which business was not discussed.

Again it was Admiral Robison who inveigled him, he declared. This time Robison approached him and disclosed that the tankage provided under the first contract, 1,500,000 barrels, was deemed inadequate by the Navy, and that it was desired to increase it to more than 4,000,000 barrels. Robison said that since Doheny was already on the job and could do it better than anybody else, he wanted him to do the work.

Robison himself testified that he approached Doheny because of Doheny's existing "preferential right," and that officers of Doheny's company had been pressing for more leases.

Ordered Contracts Accepted.

Officers of the company were dissatisfied with the terms offered by Robison and Fall, Doheny declared, and J. C. Anderson, the president, became sullen and angry about it, and said he wanted nothing to do with the project, as he was positive the company would lose money.

"I told Cotter to accept the Government's schedule, as I believed the price of oil would go up and that we had a good chance to come out all right. I attended one conference at which Admiral Robison said something indicating he thought we were trying to four-flush him, or something. I got up and started to walk out, and he caught me and apologized, and said he'd take what we offered. But we really took what the Government offered."

Doheny proceeded then to explain that when he calculated he would make $100,000,000 on the lease, he was figuring on an investment of $200,000,000 over a period of from 25 to 40 years, and that it really would have amounted only to about 6 per cent on the money. He said he gave the navy various concessions which amounted to a bonus of more than $10,000,000 for the lease.

He did not explain why he should have done so when the lease, as he had just described it, was so unattractive. Of course, he said, he would have made more in the event of war, but added, "but nobody has a right to base anything on the probability of a war."

His earlier testimony had indicated that a good deal had been based on the probability of a war.

Says Lease Was Unprofitable.

The outcome, he said, had been very unsatisfactory. The lease "had not been profitable," and "toward the end there was a loss." "The end" of which he spoke occurred when the courts ordered him out of the reserve, and held that the lease had been obtained through fraudulent means.

But Doheny certainly gave the impression that Secretary of the Navy Denby, Robison and the rest of those smart fellows working for the Government had slicked him. His chirpy voice grew sad toward the close. The white mustache drooped. He shifted his sore arm tenderly. One gathered that this is a hard world for a trusting old ex-prospector.

SOVIETS PLAN OBSERVATORY

Is in Anticipation of Flight Around North Pole by Dirigible.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

MOSCOW, Dec. 10.—In anticipation of a circular flight around the North Pole by dirigible, under the auspices of the nations which participated in the recent Polar Congress at Berlin, the soviet government has started preparations for a scientific observatory on Novo Sibirsk islands, 75 degrees north latitude and 140 degrees east longitude. A German group will furnish the airship.

Prof. Roman Samorlovitch, director of the soviet Institute for Investigating the Arctic Regions, says the flight will start from Leningrad and will proceed by way of Murmansk to the Novo Sibirsk Island. Among other scientific stunts will be an investigation to determine whether the fabled island, Sannikov, exists near the Pole. The date for the start has not yet been fixed.

French Budget Provides Surplus.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—For the first time in many years the Chamber of Deputies, driven by M. Poincare, Premier, has voted a budget with a substantial surplus before the end of the year. The Chamber on Dec. 4 adopted the appropriations section of the budget, and last night adopted by 410 to 135 the revenue section, which involves no new taxes.

PACHITCH, SERBIAN PREMIER WHEN WAR BEGAN, DIES

Jugo-Slav Statesman, About to Form New Cabinet, Succumbs to Long Illness.

TWICE UNDER DEATH SENTENCE

Prevented Conflict Over Bosnia—Received Austrian Ultimatum That Precipitated World War.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Dec. 10.—Nikola P. Pachitch, former Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, died today.

M. Patchitch had been in ill health for months. He would have been 81 years old Dec. 19.

He continued active, however, during the latest political crisis in Jugoslavia, growing out of the signing by Italy and Albania of a treaty that has been considered by the people generally as detrimental to the interests of Jugoslavia.

It appeared certain that he would form a new ministry to take the place of that of Premier Ouzounovitch, which resigned several days ago in consequence of the Italo-Albanian treaty.

Received Austrian Ultimatum.

It was Pachitch, Premier of Serbia and Jugo-Slavia, a dozen times and Cabinet Minister probably 30, who received in 1914 the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia that precipitated the World War.

He was at the helm in the winter of 1923-24 when a crisis arose over the disposition of Fiume, the fate of which had not been definitely settled by the treaty of Rapallo. Restraining the hotheads who demanded forceful action, Pachitch negotiated an agreement by which Fiume went to Italy and Baros to Jugo-Slavia. His last Cabinet was that which resigned in April of this year.

M. Pachitch died from apoplexy which is believed to have been brought on by excitement over the crisis centering in the Italian-Albanian treaty, in addition to a political scandal in which his son is involved.

Rademir Pachitch, the former premier's son, and several ministers have been accused of corruption by the opposition radical leader, Stefan Raditch. The elder Pachitch smarted under this attack on the honor of his family and recently made a public demand that the charges be threshed out in parliament.

Twice Pachitch Was Sentenced to Death, Frequently Exiled.

Nikola P. Pachitch was a Serbian statesman with a tempestuous career.

He was born in 1845 and educated at the Polytechnic School in Zurich, Switzerland. His public life was punctuated with two death sentences and several exiles, as a result of which he became an extreme radical. At the time of his death, however, he was known as one of the most conservative statesman in the Balkans.

He was, successively, Mayor of Belgrade, president of the Skupshtina, head of the first radical Cabinet and Minister to Russia when, in 1899, the attempt was made to assassinate King Milan in the streets of the Serbian capital. Pachitch was placed on trial as one of a number of conspirators responsible for the attempt on the King's life. He was sentenced to prison but afterward pardoned.

In 1902 King Alexander asked him to form a ministry, but he failed in the task. After the assassination of Alexander and his consort, Queen Draga, Pachitch became Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Gruitch Cabinet. Subsequently he was Premier during the reign of King Peter and occupied this position when the World War broke out.

His Policy in 1908 Crisis.

In 1908 the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary and the revolution in Turkey brought about an acute crisis. The whole nation clamored for war with Austria-Hungary to bring about the realization of the dream of many Serbs of the union in a single empire of Serbia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Montenegro and the Sanjak of Novibazar, including Northwestern Macedonia.

Serbia demanded compensation from Austria-Hungary for the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, but neither the dual monarchy nor the young Turks would consider the cession of any territory, and in January, 1909, the outcry for war was renewed.

Pachitch induced Serbia to abandon her claim to territorial "compensation" and leave the Balkan question for solution by the Powers.

Pachitch was a close friend of the late Emperor Nicholas of Russia. His policy was upheld by Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy.

During the World War he was a frequent visitor to Paris, where he represented Serbia at the Inter-allied Conference. He was a strong advocate of punishment for all German leaders "responsible" for the crimes of war.

On Jan. 17, 1919, he resigned the Premiership. Meanwhile he had served as the Jugo-Slav delegate to the Peace Conference. He was a leading figure in the negotiations with Italy in the settlement of the Adriatic question.

Less than two years after his withdrawal from the Government in 1919, he was again called upon to form a cabinet, which he succeeded in doing. It was in this Government that he undertook the portfolio of Minister of Foreign Affairs as well as the premiership. Eight months later he submitted another resignation, but was requested by King Alexander to continue in office and form a new cabinet. In complying with this request, he relinquished the portfolio of Foreign Minister and retained the premiership.

The Premier's opposition to the formation of a Croatian republic within the monarchy of Jugo-Slavia, together with his loss of control over the Belgrade Parliament, however, forced him from office in December, 1922. The downfall of his Government on this occasion was said to have been due to M. Raditch, a Croatian bookseller, who controlled a bloc of 60 peasants holding the balance of power.

WOMAN DIPLOMAT HAS MORE BOOKS THAN DRESSES

Russian Minister to Mexico Carries Entire Wardrobe in One Trunk.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10.—The first woman diplomat to serve in the Western Hemisphere brings more books than dresses to her new post. The luggage of the newly arrived Russian minister, Alexandra Kollantay, consisted of only two trunks. She laughed heartily when the Associated Press correspondent asked her about the report that she had brought 60 trunks containing the latest Paris gowns.

"If the world must know the terrible truth," she chuckled, "one of my two trunks contains books only, and the other trunk has my wardrobe."

Her library consists of a wide range of general literature in half a dozen languages, with philosophy, treatises on government, history and poetry predominating.

"I am accredited to Mexico," said the soviet minister when asked as to reports that she might use Mexico City as a base for propaganda in the United States. "I have nothing to do with any other country and will have no activities in the United States. It would be going beyond the bounds of diplomacy if I did."

LIBERALS GROOMING GREY FOR LLOYD GEORGE'S SHOES

With Financial Backing Ready, Asquith Faction Prepares to Offer Sir Edward Reins.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Viscount Grey of Falloden, who, as Sir Edward Grey, was Secretary for Foreign Affairs at the outbreak of the World War, is spoken of as leader of that section of the Liberal party over which the Earl of Oxford and Asquith held sway until he withdrew from the leadership of the party about a year ago.

The Evening Standard announces that Viscount Grey will accept if assured of adequate support. This would indicate that former Premier Lloyd George, the parliamentary leader, is still the center of fierce admonishments in the party ranks. Lloyd George, by his control of huge funds, holds the power of the purse. He has offered to use these funds to the party's advantage, but only on condition that he be allowed to reorganize the party's headquarters staff, whereby he would be enabled to nominate candidates of his own choice at the next general election.

The Asquith faction, including those numerous leaders who joined in the movement to read Lloyd George out of the party after the recent general strike, refused to give this power to him. A dinner is to be given in honor of Vivian Phillips, the Asquith chief organizer, next Monday, at which it is believed Lord Grey will be offered the leadership.

Report has it that £50,000 ($250,000) has already been subscribed to finance the Grey faction, and it is rumored Lord Cowdray is offering to provide the party with election funds, but on condition that Lloyd George is excluded from the party.

1925 NOBEL PRIZE GIVEN TO DAWES AND CHAMBERLAIN

Peace Award for 1926 Voted to Briand of France and Stresemann of Germany.

WILSON FOUNDATION PRIZE TO ROOT

This Award Is Based on Work of Ex-Secretary of State Toward Founding World Court.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10.—The Nobel peace prize for 1925 has been awarded to Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the United States, and to Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

This announcement was made today at a meeting of the Nobel Institute by Prof. Stang.

It was also announced that the 1926 peace prize had been awarded to Aristide Briand, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, and to Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Germany's Foreign Minister.

King Haakon, Crown Prince Olaf, representatives of the Storthing, the Government and the diplomatic corps and other prominent persons were present.

Nansen's Speech.

Dr. Fritjof Nansen in a speech recalled the feeling of helplessness of Europe during the post-war days. He said the first light shed on the darkness was by the adoption of the Dawes plan, which permitted Germany to rehabilitate her finances and commence payment of reparations.

The United States, he said, stretched a helping hand when the darkness was thickest. The Americans recognized their duty to assist Europe in her reconstruction.

The idea of Secretary of State Hughes in December, 1922, to appoint a commission of experts to inquire into Germany's ability to pay reparations had culminated in the adoption of the Dawes plan. This had been of the greatest importance to Germany, the allies and the whole of Europe, and also the United States.

It was an important condition, Dr. Nansen added, to the policy of peace which led to the Locarno conference, the outcome of which was the Rhine pact and four arbitration treaties.

Original Decision Was to Withhold 1925 Prize.

On Dec. 2 of last year the Norwegian Storthing, which awards the Nobel prizes, said it had been decided to withhold the peace prizes for 1925. In authoritative circles in Oslo it was said this decision was due to the fact that candidates for the honor had to be submitted to the Nobel committee before Feb. 1, 1925, and that none of the statesmen concerned in framing the Locarno treaties could have been considered as candidates for the 1925 prize.

Unofficially, it was reported that Dawes, Sir Austen Chamberlain, M. Briand, Prince Charles of Sweden and Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany had been mentioned as candidates.

Origin of Nobel Prizes.

The Nobel prizes, which in addition to work for the preservation for the peace, also are awarded for achievements in literature, physics, chemistry, medicine and physiology, grew out of the munificence of the Swedish scientist, Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, who died Dec. 10, 1896, leaving a fortune of some $8,750,000.

The first awards, each of a value of about $37,500, were distributed on the fifth anniversary of Nobel's death, Dec. 10, 1901.

The Nobel peace prize was previously awarded to Theodore Roosevelt for his efforts in ending the Japanese-Russian War, to Elihu Root for distinguished services in behalf of peace, and to Woodrow Wilson for his efforts to end the World War.

Elihu Root Receives Woodrow Wilson Peace Prize.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, has been awarded the Woodrow Wilson Foundation peace prize for 1926.

The honor was accorded to Root because of his efforts toward founding the World Court of International Justice.

Only one previous peace award has been made by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. The other was to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Great Britain's chief representative on the League of Nations. It was given in 1924 for meritorious service to peace through justice.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"A Tremendous Book."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE just heard that a demand is being made that the publishers withdraw from publication Mr. Samuel Hopkins Adams' book "Revelry." I am certain that they will pay no attention to this challenge, from what must be questionable sources, save to push the book more vigorously than ever.

I have read "Revelry" and am grateful for it as a ruthless and therefore wholesome portrayal of the spirit, atmosphere, purpose and consequence, if not the precise facts, of the most corrupt administration this country has ever known. Why should anybody object to this thrilling narrative of what was going on in Washington in the days of Harding and his "Ohio Gang?" Why should not every honest citizen rejoice that a trained novelist has had the insight and courage to seize upon these events of recent history and use them for his purpose? Mr. Adams has acted entirely within his rights as a literary interpreter of modern life. With a perfectly proper mingling of fact and fiction, he has given us more essential truth in "Revelry" than can be found in anything that has yet been written of the days which began with the election and ended with the death of Harding.

"Revelry" is an historical novel which uses contemporary instead of ancient material. How old does such material have to be before it can be legitimately employed? How many books would have to be suppressed if the judgment suggested in this case were made universal? Mr. Adams has simply done his work more bravely, relentlessly, righteously, than other men, and he deserves reward and not punishment. Congratulations to Mr. Adams, and to the publishers, for a tremendous book. Keep it on the stalls, advertise it, push it hard, until all men know the book and most men read it.

"Bill of Rights—1927 Model."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOU suggested that each Federal Judge should frame your editorial "Bill of Rights—1927 Model" in the issue of Sunday, Dec. 5, and place it above his bench for convenient reference.

I commend your suggestion, but it ought not to be limited to the Federal Judges. Trial Judges of many of our states are construing and applying the Bill of Rights in accordance with the "1927 Model." I wish this were printed in form for framing. Not only would I like to have it for my office, but would appreciate the opportunity of using it as a present to others.

Need for Poultry Inspection.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ON looking over the editorial page of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch I became very much interested in the article on "The Federal Chicken Inspector" of New York City.

I wonder if you know that St. Louis, Mo., is badly in need of a poultry inspector? Every day in the year poultry badly infected with diseases, as roup, cholera, septicemia and tuberculosis, reach your St. Louis markets. In the past year in a survey of 157,950 flocks of poultry containing 14,012,923 birds, 9751 flocks showed physical evidence of disease. After post-mortems were held on 15,363 birds, 10,279 showed lesions of tuberculosis alone, besides lesions of numerous other diseases.

Inspection of poultry is as essential as inspection of milk or meat, for the benefit of the general public. If you will give "Poultry Inspection," just a little of your time and thought, you will find that it is not "child's play" but really the work of a "grown man," who has been educated along this line of work.

Bail for Mrs. Bailey.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SINCE the Bailey tragedy, we find that Mrs. Bailey is in the Police Station not having secured bail. Being poor, we can see that she has no influential friends to offer bail. But, simply in the interest of womankind, is there no one to offer some aid in the way of bail? We offer no sort of excuse, do not want to interfere with process of law, but cannot one of the various women's organizations come forward now? She needs a friend.

British Income Tax Claims.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MAY I draw the attention of your readers to the fact that the above claims for the financial year 1920-21, which is the first year for which they can be preferred, must be definitely lodged with the inland revenue authorities here by April 5 next. After that date these claims will become statute-barred.

"BUNK."

In his budget message, referring to prohibition, President Coolidge remarked that "whatever funds may be necessary to vindicate the law and secure compliance with all its provisions should be provided," and he recommends the appropriation of $30,000,000 for this purpose.

It is to laugh. There will be broad smiles on the faces of Gen. Andrews and other honest and conscientious prohibition enforcement officials when they read that the President suggests only $30,000,000 for the complete enforcement of prohibition.

Mr. Coolidge knows, or ought to know, that $30,000,000 would be only a drop in the bucket towards the thorough enforcement of the Volstead act. If he really means what he says and is not dealing in "bunk" for the delectation of the Antisaloon League, he would recommend $100,000,000 or $150,000,000. Of course, that would not reach the goal, and much of it would be wasted on corrupt officials. But his recommendation of such a sum would indicate sincerity. It would be a test of the sincerity of the drys in Congress.

UP GO INSURANCE RATES.

Liability insurance rates have been greatly increased—in some instances almost doubled—since the ratification of the workmen's compensation act at the November election. The commission created to administer the act thinks the increase is unfair and is planning to protect employes who are unable to get insurance at a reasonable price.

The Post-Dispatch is unable to say at this time whether the new rates are unfair or not. The commission, however, is presumably acquainted with the operation of similar acts in other states, knows what increases in rates have been found necessary in other states and is passing informed judgment on the new Missouri rates. Anyhow, if the commission has not already obtained such information it will, of course, do so; and if the facts sustain its present attitude the insurance companies will find themselves in an untenable position.

The commission, as it explains, has no jurisdiction over rates, but this lack of authority will not present a serious disadvantage. Public opinion will handle this problem. The State itself can, if it will, go into the insurance business. It will do so in self-defense if the insurance companies undertake to collect all the traffic will bear.

HERE'S TO YOU, FUZZY-WUZZY.

From beyond the desert's rim by way of Cairo comes news of the death of one of the most "eminent Victorians." Osman Digna does not appear by name in Strachey's gallery, but a British minstrel immortalized him in a ballad which the young intelligentsia of the nineties spouted on convivial and romantic occasions.

The prowess of Fuzzy-Wuzzy is hardly more than a vague legend to the sophisticates of 1926, but what a hero he was in that vanished juvenilia which had already begun to fashion the Kitchener myth and was wearying of the Fabian goodness of Gladstone. There was tragedy as well as comedy in those "frenzies of empire," there was rancid treachery beneath the bloom of loyalty. It was a greater figure but a blood-brother of Osman Digna who sowed the desert with glittering spears and remorselessly closed in on Khartoum, where "Chinese" Gordon, with his Bible and brandy awaited the arrival of the cautious, meticulous Wolseley and perished gloriously while waiting.

"All 'ot sand an' ginger" in his warrior youth, 22 years in prison, then the long twilight's tented ease of forgiveness and now dead at last at four-score-and-ten. Let the farewell be Kipling's rollicking chantey:

"So here's to you, Fuzzy-Wuzzy, at your 'ome in the Sowdan;
You're a pore, benighted heathen, but a first-class fightin' man;
An' here's to you, Fuzzy-Wuzzy, with your 'ayrick 'ead of hair—

NOT FOR 4000 YEARS.

Mr. W. L. Dempsey, before the Engineers' Club recently, said that every man, woman and child in America had five horsepower working for them—equal to 60 servants taking care of their every want. He pessimistically proclaimed the present era a "power drunken age" and believed we should pause and consider the dire catastrophe which would engulf us when our present natural power resources had been exhausted. He said our motor fuel requirement would soon exceed our production. He pointed out that all the grain supply of the country would furnish but a few days' supply of alcohol a year and that our total possible water power supply will be inadequate to meet our needs.

We had rather preened ourselves in the thought that if five horsepower per person in this marvelous modern civilization has lifted many of the intolerable and irksome manual burdens from the shoulders of mankind that 10 horsepower per individual might give us the dreamed-of millennium—nobody works except the automatic machine.

Indeed, Mr. Dempsey painted a gloomy picture in his admirable plea for greater conservation. It was calculated to make one go home and garage his car permanently, at least for the winter, turn off the electric light and go back to the use of tallow dips, and scrap the electric toaster, the iron, the coffee urn, the chafing dish, the washing machine, the ironer and the carpet sweeper—provided the housewife would permit—for we, too, believe in conservation.

With great relief, however, we find that the scientist and the geologist, with their bulwarking statistics, come to our rescue and once more the radiant sunshine of optimism envelops the earth. They show that after the proven and known oil fields go barren generations hence, and the million odd square miles of geologically potential but yet unexploited oil lands have been sucked dry, there still remain immense areas of rich oil shales which may keep us going for a few hundred years longer, and this is not all by any means, for the geologist calculates that the United States still has 3,700,000,000,000 tons—read the figures carefully or you will lose some cyphers—of coal and lignite to draw upon, and the scientist tells us that every ton of this coal is good fo the production of 45 gallons of gasoline, valuable by-products and a large volume of smokeless fuel.

If we treble our annual gasoline consumption this last rich resource will supply us with power fuel for 4900 years. Even for the sake of posterity we refuse to calculate farther ahead.

ART AND BUSINESS.

The Symphony Orchestra is in trouble again, and Mr. George D. Markham, chairman of the Board of Control, says that unless $50,000 can be raised to pay some of the outstanding bills the orchestra may not be able to complete the present season.

The Post-Dispatch would regret exceedingly to see the orchestra disband. Being careful to preserve the integrity of its critic, this paper has supported the orchestra as, to use the words of Mr. Markham, "a cultural asset"; the attitude of the Post-Dispatch toward the orchestra is that of friendly support. Nevertheless, we feel the time has come to ask some pertinent questions of those responsible for the business management of the orchestra, to ignore for once the cultural aspects of the organization and to ask why it is, for example, that St. Louisans, in the summer time, flock nightly in their thousands to the Municipal Opera, but in the winter time stay away from the Symphony, and why it is that as year by year the Municipal Opera finds its profits growing a little bigger, so year by year the Symphony finds its indebtedness growing a little bigger? Does this not suggest efficient management of the Municipal Opera and inefficient management of the Symphony?

Mr. Markham says one of the reasons the orchestra is in its present parlous state is because $20,000 was lost on the spring tour of the orchestra this year. Why was $20,000 lost? Why was the tour undertaken if such a loss was anticipated, and if not, who is responsible for such an unfortunate miscalculation? Assuming the willingness of the management to count this loss as advertising, ought it not to have been provided for by profit at home or with municipal advertising funds?

Mr. Markham says the influence of the movies contributes to the decreasing revenues of the organization. We venture to say, on the contrary, that the improved orchestras in the movie houses and the semi-classical music programs they offer actually increase the number of potential customers of the Symphony.

The management of the Symphony either has antagonized a large body of people so that they deliberately stay away, or has failed to attract a large body of people by offering them unpalatable fare, perhaps both. Mr. Markham says the drive for funds will come in the days after Christmas. We hope the board will utilize the days before Christmas in giving a complete account of their stewardship, so that the people of the city may judge for themselves whether the orchestra is efficiently managed and explain to their own satisfaction why it is that so many St. Louisans stay away from the concerts.

MR. FLEXNER'S INCONSISTENCY.

Consistency, that priceless jewel seldom attained by the practician, seems still more elusive for the theorist. Even as clear-thinking a person as Mr. Abraham Flexner, the director of Mr. Rockefeller's General Educational Board, permits his love of theorizing to lead him into a strange inconsistency in an otherwise admirable interview, in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, on the subject of educational reform.

Mr. Flexner's observations naturally group themselves into a syllogism. His major premise is the unquestionable fact that present-day education fails because it does not take account of the peculiar potentialities of each pupil. His minor premise is that this is the result of forcing all students to apply themselves to many subjects which are of no real value to them. But the unwarranted conclusion he draws from these valid premises is that the only remedy is the abolition from the curriculum of Greek, Latin, much of literature and mathematics and most of the history now taught except such as that "of modern England or of New York City."

So Mr. Flexner comes to grief by formulating a conclusion which is highly inconsistent with his major premise. After pleading for the adaptation of education to the talents of the individual pupil, he denies to a large class of pupils the opportunity to engage in studies for which they may be admirably fitted.

ONE FALSE ECONOMY.

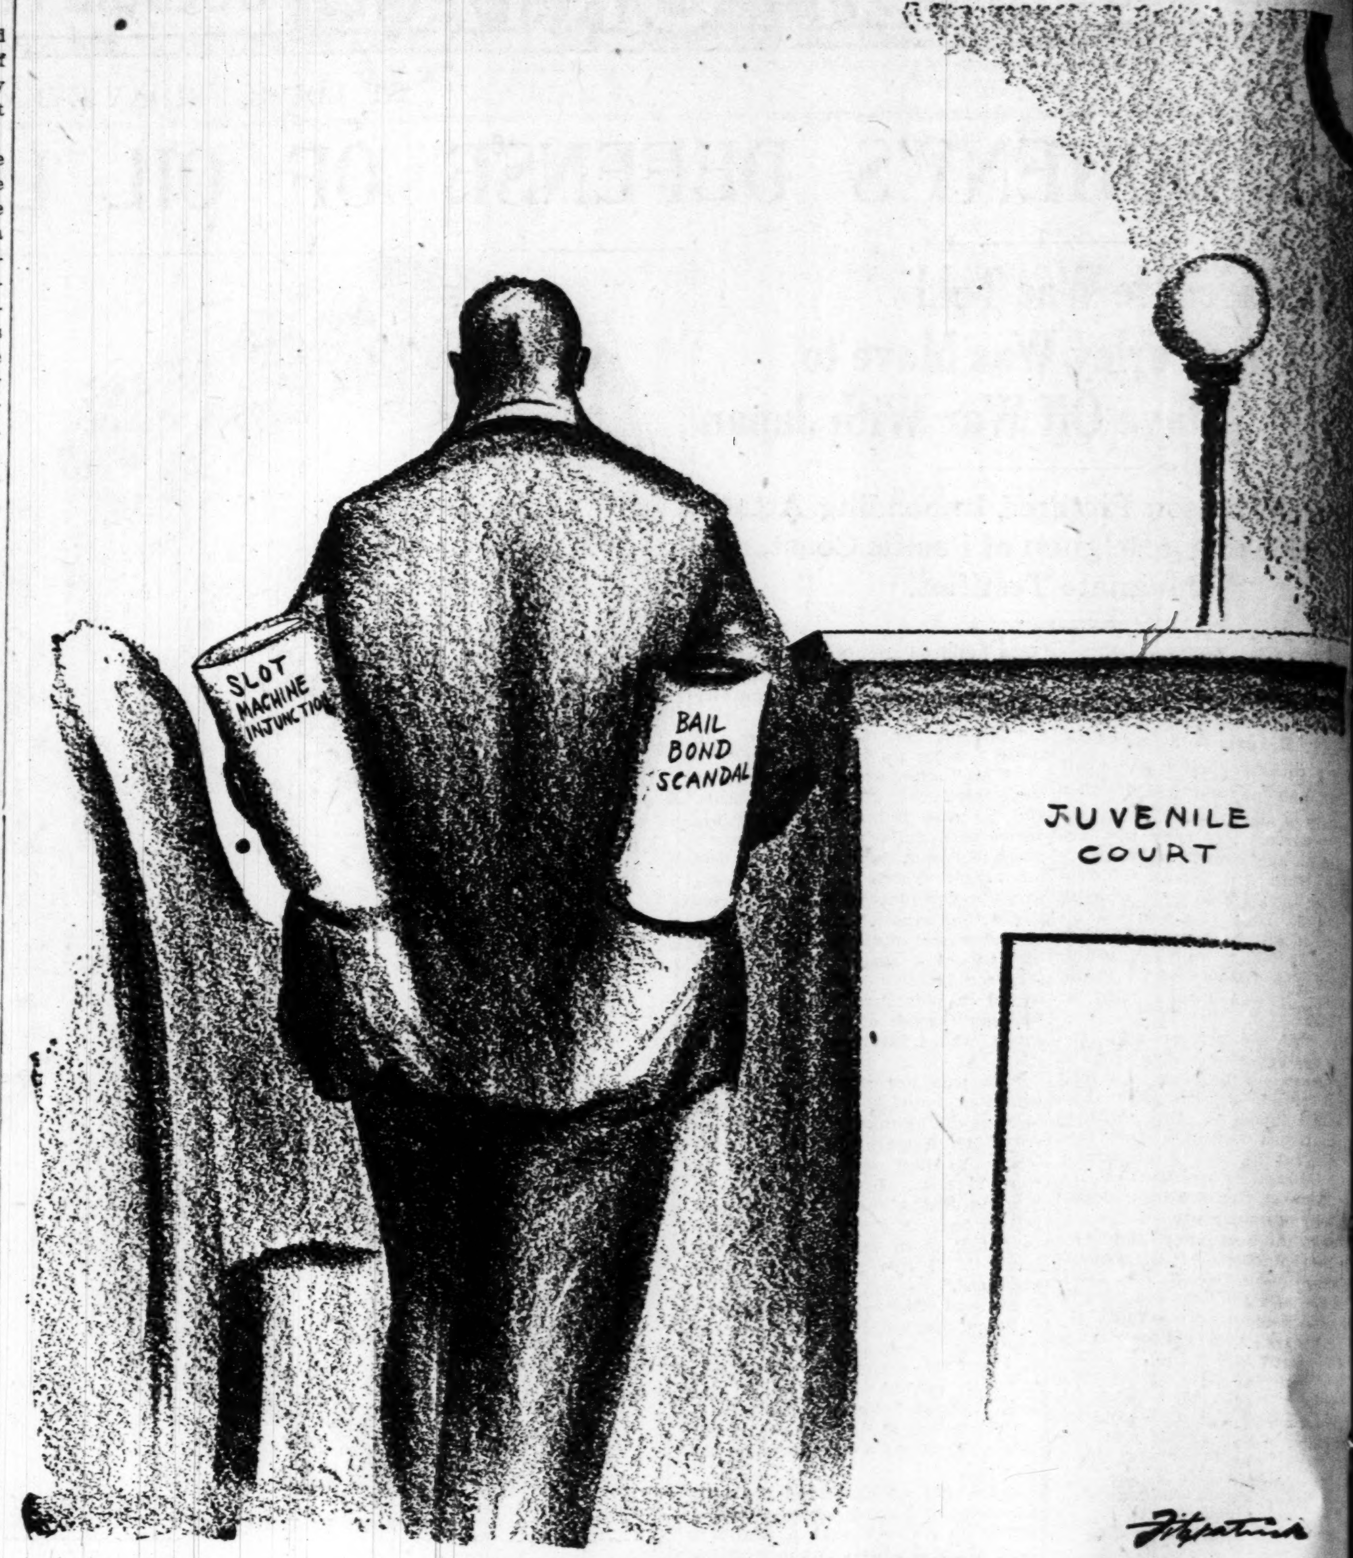
The useful activities of the Federal Power Commission are being strangled by a policy of false economy on the part of the administration. The appropriation to this department of $100,000 in 1920 was cut down to $33,400 in 1926.

The commission was created for the purpose of investigating, supervising, regulating and controlling the projected interstate and navigable river power enterprises, in process of construction and in operation. There is no question but that this constitutes a man's size job. To properly protect the interests of the public and the Government necessitates a staff endowed with high engineering ability and financial acumen. Exhaustive research must precede the issuing of preliminary permits and final licenses. The commission must determine the technical phases, the economic feasibility and the adaptability of the plans to a comprehensive scheme of development. They must satisfy themselves that the investment and construction cost sheets are honest ones, for on them are based what shall be a "fair" rate charge to the consumer of power.

The power projects now before the commission for which permits have been issued and licenses granted entail the expenditure of nearly a billion dollars and represent 24,000,000 horsepower. The supervision of these stupendous works, being undertaken in widely separated places in the United States, has been in the hands of nine engineers and four office accountants, together with some "loaned" assistants from the War, Interior and Agricultural Departments—in all, 32 people. We are not surprised that the commission, in its annual report, states that with the present staff it will require five years to catch up with the accumulated work, and that this statement does not include the work which must be done on new power applications which are being filed at the rate of 100 a year.

The commission humbly begs that some of the money being paid into the United States Treasury by the power corporations for public lands and other charges be turned over to the Federal Power Commission. They claim these extra funds will provide the necessary staff and that Congress will not be asked for further appropriations.

Perhaps a few dollars have been saved on the administration's annual budget by this niggardly policy, but indirectly millions of possible earnings are being lost to the manufacturing world by the delay in providing needed power plants. The policy is a dribbling economy at the spigot and a woeful waste at the bunghole.



SOMETHING FOR THE KIDDIES.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

DRY RAIDS IN CLEVELAND.

From the Washington Post.

IT MUST have looked for a while last Thursday night that the gunman's millennium had arrived at Cleveland. It seems that the Ohio prohibition law contains a clause which permits villages and townships on the outskirts of large cities to form roving dry raiding squads whose jurisdiction extends beyond their own township or village. Squads of this sort had been active in Cleveland, and in many instances apparently had overlooked the formality of obtaining first a search warrant empowering them to enter the residence under suspicion. So prevalent had the custom become that the safety director of Cleveland was waited on by a committee of citizens protesting against the violation of their homes at any hour of the day or night.

The safety director was quick to take up the challenge, issuing an order to the police of Cleveland to arrest any prohibition agent found entering a home without a proper search warrant, and advising persons whose homes were raided to call headquarters immediately so that police might be dispatched to see that the papers were in order. Whereupon, in answer, the secretary of the Dry Maintenance League ordered his agents to arrest any and all police interfering with any dry raiding activities.

The law-abiding elements of Cleveland must have had fearful dreams that night of everybody arresting everybody else. The State prohibition inspector came to the rescue, however, by ordering his 25 inspectors and their assistants to conduct no more raids on private homes until the validity of the $25,000 verdict received some time previously by State Senator Bender from State Prohibition Inspector Patrick because of an alleged unlawful raid on the former's home, had been decided by the State Supreme Court. It is certain that this court will rule, as have all others, that a raid is unlawful without a proper search warrant, and Cleveland can rest easier without the prospect of gunmen overrunning a city whose policemen have all been put in jail.

THE AMERICANIZATION OF NORTHERN IRELAND.

From the Irish Statesman.

TO anyone who knows Northern Ireland well, the progress of total abstinence during the last 25 years is very marked. A quarter of a century ago the 12th of July was the occasion for an orgy of drunkenness; today the sight of a drunken man is rare, and a drunken member of the procession is hardly to be encountered. Then the majority of diners at a public dinner in Belfast drank wine or spirits; today those who do so are in a minority. The change has been due to persuasion and reason.

But the temperance people, or rather a section of them, are not satisfied; they feel, apparently, that they have persuaded as many people as are going to listen to them, and that the people who have not yet listened are not entitled to exercise their own judgment in the matter any longer. They have decided that spiritual influence is in the long run not nearly so satisfactory as calling in the police. I am inclined to believe that this prohibitionist policy, being a violent and forceful policy, is receiving a considerable measure of support in Northern Ireland, and among people, too, who might be expected to know better.

THE LAME DUCK SESSION.

From the Kansas City Times.

IN England, when a new house of commons is elected, the members take their seats as soon as Parliament opens. If some issue—say, the tariff—has come to the front in the campaign, the new house proceeds at once to carry out the mandate of the people. In the United States the Congress elected last month will not convene normally for 13 months, in December of next year. The old Congress convened yesterday and will do the nation's legislating until March 4. The American procedure is in striking contrast to the English. It is clumsy and undemocratic. A Congress whose mandate has been superseded by another mandate ought not to be in charge of legislation. The proposal now being urged by Senator Norris of Nebraska, that the Congress elected in November should begin to function in January, two months later, would do away with the present absurdity. A constitutional amendment would be necessary for the change, but such an amendment ought to be easily obtained.

A NATION OF GOLDFISH.

From "Passing By," a story of JOHN GALSWORTHY, in Scribner's Magazine.

NOTHING in America had struck Soames so much as the lack of privacy. If you wanted to be private you had to disconnect your telephone and get into a bath—otherwise they rang you up just as you were going to sleep, to ask if you were Mr. and Mrs. Newberg. The houses, too, were not divided from each other, nor even from the roads. In the hotels the rooms all ran into each other, and as likely as not there'd be a drove of bankers in the hall. Dinner, too—nothing private about that; even if you went out to dinner, it was always the same; lobster cocktails, shad, turkey, asparagus, salad and ice cream; very good dishes, no doubt, and you put on weight, but nothing private about them.

Younger Than Ever

THE CANDLE IN THE CABIN. By Vachel Lindsay. (Appleton.)

IT would be interesting to know what Mr. Vachel Lindsay has been taking for his glands of late. Certainly he seems to have been growing younger rather rapidly—so rapidly that if the process continues we may expect to hear any day of Vachel Lindsay's birth. What interesting publicity that would make, if followed up from time to time, by anecdotes of the promising infant, red hot bulletins announcing the achievement of a tooth or some skirmish with the colic or the first expository comment on the mystery of the world, such as "Goo." (We may be sure that there are those ingenious, vogue-ridden critics who would find profundity in the utterance.)

Dragon Flies

• • •

MR. LINDSAY has always been essentially young, despite the fact that he is now nearing the half century mark. His youth, at its representative best, has been the immortal youth of poetry, and he has contributed to American literature some of the most original and stirring things we have. It is good to remember this fact after reading "The Candle in the Cabin," and to remain grateful to the poet for his golden best.

To be young is glorious—but not too young.

• • •

A CERTAIN complacency has been characteristic of Lindsay from the beginning, and there has been not a little of unconscious clowning in his career. It is essential that any genuine maker should have a well fortified ego, even at the cost of arousing a running titter here and there; but when complacency develops to the point where anything an author writes seems excellent to him, it is time that he should pinch himself awake and realize that there are intelligent people in the world. Lindsay seems to have reached that point, if the present volume is to be regarded as symptomatic of his present condition.

Coeur d'Alene

• • •

The Lady Slippers.
By Rising Wolf
The lady-slippers
Grow on a green ladder
In a pretty row.

Coeur d'Alene.
There blooms
In the Lodge-Pole forest lane
The flower called
"The pointed heart"
Or, sometimes
"Coeur d'Alene."

IT is not difficult to imagine a bright little boy of five or six writing such poetry for his adoring mamma; and no doubt papa would join in applause, saying: "Pretty good for a youngster! If he goes on, he may become as great as Edgar Guest and make a lot of money when he grows up." Whereupon, little Willie would go on at once, producing something like this (still quoting from Mr. Lindsay, however incredible it

KEEP YOUR CHIP.

If the chip is on your shoulder,
It doesn't mean you're right,
And it doesn't always mean—
You're looking for a fight.
For your boyhood days will tell you,
That the fellow with the chip.
Very seldom had a worry
From the other fellow's "lip."
The moral, as you run you'll read,
And mighty well to know—
Keep the chip right on your shoulder—
And you'll seldom get a blow.

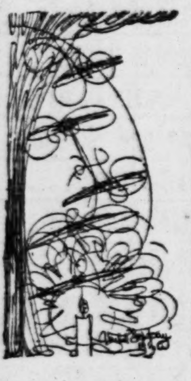
"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Younger Than Ever

THE CANDLE IN THE CABIN. By Vachel Lindsay. (Appleton.)

IT would be interesting to know what Mr. Vachel Lindsay has been taking for his glands of late. Certainly he seems to have been growing younger rather rapidly—so rapidly that if the process continues we may expect to hear any day of Vachel Lindsay's birth. What interesting publicity that would make, if followed up from time to time, by anecdotes of the promising infant, red hot bulletins announcing the achievement of a tooth or some skirmish with the colic or the first expository comment on the mystery of the world, such as "Goo." (We may be sure that there are those ingenious, vogue-ridden critics who would find profundity in the utterance.)



Dragon Flies

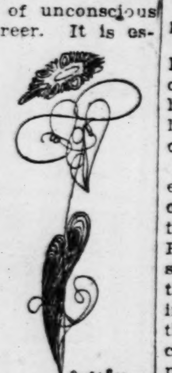
* * *

MR. LINDSAY has always been essentially young, despite the fact that he is now nearing the half century mark. His youth, at its representative best, has been the immortal youth of poetry, and he has contributed to American literature some of the most original and stirring things we have. It is good to remember this fact after reading "The Candle in the Cabin," and to remain grateful to the poet for his golden best.

To be young is glorious—but not too young.

* * *

A CERTAIN complacency has been characteristic of Lindsay from the beginning, and there has been not a little of unconscious clowning in his career. It is essential that any genuine maker should have a well fortified ego, even at the cost of arousing a running titter here and there; but when complacency develops to the point where anything an author writes seems excellent to him, it is time that he should pinch himself awake and realize that there are intelligent people in the world. Lindsay seems to have reached that point, if the present volume is to be regarded as symptomatic of his present condition.



Coeur d'Alene

* * *

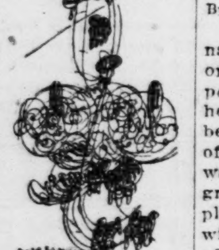
The Lady Slippers.
By Rising Wolf
The lady-slippers
Grow on a green ladder
In a pretty row.

Here is another:

Coeur d'Alene.
There blooms
In the Lodge-Pole forest lane
The flower called
"The pointed heart"
Or, sometimes
"Coeur d'Alene."

IT is not difficult to imagine a bright little boy of five or six writing such poetry for his adoring mamma; and no doubt papa would join in applause, saying: "Pretty good for a youngster! If he goes on, he may become as great as Edgar Guest and make a lot of money when he grows up." Whereupon, little Willie would go on at once, producing something like this (still quoting from Mr. Lindsay, however incredible it may seem):



Lady Slippers

The Curling Waves.
The curling waves
In Iceberg Lake
Wind and wind
Before they break:

Or this:

The Dragon Flies.
The dragon flies of the Silver Lake
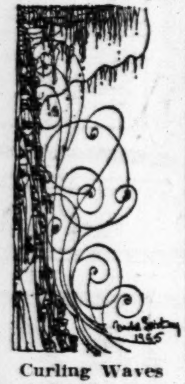
Were flying machines
Of an ancient make.

Or this:

The Leaves Fall.
The Indian summer wind grieves
With the falling of
The first leaves.

* * *

THERE are longer compositions in the book, differing not at all in quality from the conveniently quotable verses here presented. Everywhere in the volume it is evident that sheer childishness has been mistaken for sublime simplicity, after which so many of our writers now seem to be striving.



Curling Waves

With such things coming from celebrated poets and being praised (as these infantile verses are certain to be praised) by celebrated critics, it is not strange that the average practical man, with some sort of honest-to-goodness job on his hands, should regard poets in general with amused contempt.

In the author's pen-and-ink sketches there is often a touch of beauty, for which many will be grateful.

PADEREWSKI DENIES ENCORE

Pianist Displays Dislike for Too Much Applause.

By the Associated Press.

OXFORD, England, Dec. 10.—Paderewski has his own ideas concerning inconsiderate applause and he did not hesitate to show his dislike to the custom of prolonged clapping during a concert here.

The pianist responded for several encores. After completion of one of his best known pieces, however, the applause was louder than ever. Paderewski finally went to the instrument and held his hands over the keyboard indicating his willingness to give an encore. Nevertheless, the audience continued to clap with unceasing vehemence, meant to convey enthusiasm, but which Paderewski considered altogether tactless and with the result that he frowned, ran his fingers through his hair, and stalked off the platform.

GIRL SCOUTS TO HOLD JUBILEE

Chorus of 200 Will Sing Carols at Doll Show.

A Christmas jubilee will be held by the Girl Scouts of St. Louis at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in connection with the Girl Scout doll show now being held in the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney music room. A chorus of 200 will sing Christmas carols, Santa Claus will speak, and folk dances and a tumbling act will be given by the girls. A silver cup will be awarded by Mrs. Guy Oliver, local commissioner, to Troop 53 for the best exhibit in the doll show.

Nearly 1000 dolls are on display. They were bought and dressed by the girls for distribution by charitable agencies among sick and needy children at Christmas. The show is open to the public.

SHAW'S VOICE IS RECORDED

Noted Writer's Words Preserved for British Museum.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—George Bernard Shaw has recorded his voice on a phonograph record so that posterity might hear just exactly how his rasping Dublin accent has been smoothed down by 40 years of London prosperity. The record was made by a leading English gramaphone company and will be placed in the British museum along with similar physical perpetuations of other famous voices, among them being Caruso, Melba, Tolstoi and Adelina Patti.

"Shaw spent several hours at the recording rooms together with Albert Coates, the famous composer. Shaw's record includes a section of dialogue from his own "Androcles and the Lion," a long prose passage from the preface of "Man and Superman," and then, possibly as a gesture to the past, he recited the opening soliloquy of Shakspeare's "Richard III."

QUEEN BUYS CHRISTMAS GIFT

British Princess' Son to Get Toy Yacht Disabled Soldiers Made.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Queen Mary chose some very orthodox Christmas presents for her royal grandchildren.

Princess Mary's elder son will get a magnificent toy yacht, more than 24 inches in length and with picturesque white sails. Princess Elizabeth will have a big white, wooly doll with very pink cheeks and most up-to-date red, Russian boots. The little Princess also will receive a gorgeous nursery cushion, with animal figures embroidered on it. The presents are the work of disabled soldiers and sailors.

MORDKIN'S BALLET DANCING EFFECTIVE

Small Orchestra and Poor Scenic Equipment Mar Artistic Russian Performance.

DESPITE the limitations of a too small orchestra and a sketchy scenic investiture which is effective only to those who sit in the back rows of the theater, Mikhail Mordkin and his Russian ballet offered an interesting evening to their audience at the Odeon last night.

The chief bit of the evening was "Carnival," an elaborately developed episode in choreography, in which the participants told the old story of Pierrot and Pierrette. Somewhat inauspiciously introduced by Edmund Bradley, who got off a rhymed prologue in the manner of a high school elocutionist, the story itself proved to be capably told by Mordkin and his troupe.

The second number, entitled "Souvenir of Roses," was an artistic arrangement, also by Mordkin, which featured Hilda Butsova, the Colubine of "Carnival," and Pierre Vladimiroff, who had been the Harlequin of the first number. Vladimiroff's dancing, which is a marvel of grace and indirection of line, served as an admirable foil for the work of Mordkin, whose style is essentially masculine, with electric, straight-line movements featuring his every expression.

The divertissements which concluded the program included the Egyptian Dance, with Mordkin's famed "Bow and Arrow," a dancing doll episode, artistically done by Marvin and Arshansky, two solo dances by Vladimiroff and Mlle. Butsova, and "Melodie Hebraique," a luxurious thing done by the ballet, with Mordkin and his first danseuse, Vera Nemtchinova, featured.

The dancing by the members of the ballet was fairly adequate and the work of the orchestra was particularly featured by the playing of Victor Bay, a violinist with a wealth of splendid tone and expression. This evening Mordkin will give an entirely new program. His final performance is tomorrow afternoon.

Olga Warren Appears in Concert at Sheldon Memorial.

Olga Warren, a coloratura soprano, made her first appearance here last night in concert at Sheldon Memorial. Included in her program were Hahn's "L'Heure Exquise," Massenet's "Dans le Sentier" and a group of Norwegian and German numbers.

Mme. Warren, a Texan, received the greater part of her training in Europe and has appeared in operatic productions in Germany and England.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD MAGNUS of 4 Hortense place will entertain a group of the sub-debs at a dance the evening of Dec. 28 at their home complimenting their daughter, Miss Lily Magnus, who will return Dec. 17 from Miss Wright's school in Bryn Mawr, Pa., for the holidays.

A group of guests who came to St. Louis for the Magnus housewarming party Saturday departed last night for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Book and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Book have gone to Detroit; Mr. Magnus' mother, Mrs. J. W. Loeb, has returned to Chicago, as has her son, Adolph Magnus. Mrs. Horace Flanigan of New York and Mrs. Sidney Berg, sisters of the host, departed Wednesday. A number of parties were given the visitors, including a house party by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Orthwein of Lindell boulevard, at the Busch shooting lodge at St. Peter's, Mo., from Sunday to Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. August A. Busch will entertain their entire family at a Christmas dinner party at their home, Grant's Farm, in accordance with their annual custom. Mr. Busch's mother, Mrs. Adolphus Busch, will depart after the holidays for her winter home in Pasadena, Cal. She spends her summers at her estate on the Rhine in Germany.

The most important social function on the calendar for today is the dinner dance to be given tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Lee I. Niedringhaus of 29 Portland place to present their daughter, Miss Marjorie, to society. The party will be given at the St. Louis Country Club, where the unusual has been promised in the way of decoration. A number of out-of-town guests will arrive today for the affair.

Miss Eppes Hawes, daughter of Senator Harry B. Hawes, of 64 Vandeventer place, departed yesterday for Washington, D. C., to join her parents.

Mrs. O. Kenneth Townsend and her small son will depart Wednesday for their home in Baltimore after a visit here with Mrs. Townsend's mother, Mrs. Murray Carleton, in the Oxford Apartments. Mrs. Townsend has been entertained informally by friends during her stay.

MISS MILDRED ENGEL.

THE engagement of Miss Engel, daughter of Mrs. A. Engel, of 746 Westgate avenue, and Harold Schweig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schweig, of 570 Bedford avenue, University Hills, was announced recently. The wedding date has not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Hope Carleton of Shoemaker, N. M., and their baby, are planning to come to spend Christmas with Mrs. Carleton.

Among the large holiday social affairs for the school and college set will be a dance at the St. Louis Woman's Club, the evening of Dec. 29, which will be given by Miss Mary Emily Niedringhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace C. Niedringhaus of University City; Miss Dorothy Wetterer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wetterer of 4200 Cleveland avenue, and Miss Dorothy Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hogan, of 4500 Arsenal street. The young hostesses are students of the Sacred Heart Convent and have sent out cards to 350 guests.

Mrs. Charles C. Von Brecht of Forest Ridge, has issued invitations for a tea which she will give the afternoon of Dec. 27, for her daughter, Miss Florence, who is a student of Sacred Heart Convent, Maryville. Another holiday tea for which cards have been received will be given by Miss Virginia Marie Fusz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Firmin D. Fusz of 44 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, Dec. 28. Misses Isabelle and Fanita Fry, daughters of Thomas W. Fry, 6420 Cecil avenue, will give a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 29, for a large number of school friends. The Misses Fry are students at Sacred Heart Convent.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson will be hostess at a tea this afternoon following the Symphony concert in honor of Henri Deering, soloist for this week, and a former St. Louisan. The affair will be given at the Johnson home, 38 Westmoreland place.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Scott of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott Jr. of Philadelphia, all former St. Louisans, will arrive in 10 days to spend the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott of 7156 Pershing avenue.

Harvey B. Magner, son of Mrs. Ferdinand H. Manger of the Embassy Apartments, will return home Dec. 18 from Harvard University for the holiday season. Other St. Louis men from the same university include Henry Boeckeler, son of Mrs. Henry Boeckeler; Corwin von Brecht of Forest Ridge and Lesser Goldman.

Mrs. Ferdinand H. Manger will entertain 30 children at a party Dec. 18 at the Forest Park Hotel complimenting her young daughter, Mildred Claire, who will celebrate her ninth birthday.

Henry Thornton Jones, student in the college department of Kemper Military School, will return home to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Louise G. Kurtzeborn, of 5118 Raymond avenue.

EAST ST. LOUIS VIADUCT PLANS ARE SUBMITTED

Railroads and Civic Agencies Interested Confer—Cost Estimate $500,000.

Tentative plans for the construction of two viaducts across State street in East St. Louis, between Nineteenth and Twenty-first streets, to eliminate two railroad crossings were submitted by representatives of the Terminal and Southern railroads at a conference called yesterday by Mayo M. M. Stephens.

The project, Mayor Stephens estimates, will cost $500,000. State street is the main route of east and west traffic through East St. Louis, leads to Belleville and intersects five State highway routes.

In addition to the two railroads, the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway, the Greater State Street Improvement Association, owners of property abutting the project site and the city were represented. Action was taken a year ago to obtain co-operation of the various interests in a satisfactory plan.

Copies of the plans were submitted to the street car company officials for consideration. A heavy share of the cost of the improvement would fall to the car company, whose car sheds adjoin the site.

In connection with the project, the street improvement association proposes that State street be widened 14 feet under the viaducts and eight feet from Tenth to Thirty-eighth streets. The estimated cost to the city, exclusive of condemnation proceedings, if necessary, would be $70,000, and to the railroads $100,000 each.

The plans submitted by the railroads provide for lowering the street six and eight feet below the present level, the viaduct would extend from Ridge avenue to a point between College and Summit avenues, a distance of about five city blocks.

MAN KILLED BY GAS FUMES

William Schneider, 50 years old, a laborer, was asphyxiated in the kitchen of his home at 1916 Blair avenue, police think, when a pot of soup he was preparing boiled over and extinguished the flame of a gas stove. Schneider was found dead in the kitchen at 7:45 a. m. today, when neighbors reported they had noticed gas fumes. A pot of partly cooked soup was over the burner from which gas escaped.

the Wilson Foundation prize to Root was made by Norman H. Davis, president of the foundation. The presentation of the award and of a medal to commemorate the honor will be made to Root on the seventieth anniversary of Woodrow Wilson's birth, Dec. 28. The function will take plabe at a dinner at the Hotel Astor in New York.

In his announcement last night Davis said that the importance of Root's services were made manifest during the last few years "by the growing prestige of the World Court and its success in preserving peace through the settlement of international questions of a justiciable character."

Davis cited that as Secretary of State, Root formulated instructions to the American delegates to the second conference at The Hague in 1907, the object of which was to supersede The Hague tribunal with a genuine international court. Difficulties in deciding how the judges of the court should be chosen caused a failure of this conference, and it was not until 1920 when Root solved the difficulty.

The American statesman recommended that the nominations be made from among the different groups of nationals represented at The Hague tribunal and sent to an electoral college composed of members of tht council and assembly of the League of Nations, where both great and small nations were adequately represented. The judges thus chosen were to constitute the bench of the World Court. A protocol to this effect was drawn up and the World Court was established.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation was established Dec. 23, 1920.

BEATS MAN AND WIFE TO DEATH AND KIDNAPS THEIR DAUGHTER

Demented Farmhand Kills Employer, 60, and Wife, After Being Refused Money.

By the Associated Press.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Dec. 10.—A demented farmhand today beat to death his aged employer and wife when they refused his demands for money, and then kidnaped their daughter.

The victims were George D. Shull, 60 years old, and his wife, Ella. Their heads had been crushed by blows from a heavy club.

Their alleged assailant, Paul Sheaffer, seized Mrs. Elster Kell, a daughter, dragged her into Shull's automobile and started away with her. After traveling almost to Harrisburg, sometimes went wrong with the car. When Sheaffer got out to repair the trouble Mrs. Kell drove away and collapsed some time later, after colliding with a heavy truck.

CHURCH TRUSTEES SUED ON PASTOR'S AGREEMENT TO SELL

Jewish Congregation Seeks Aid of Court to Acquire Property of Presbyterians.

The Congregation Brith Sholom today sued the University Presbyterian Church, alleging breach of contract in the failure of the Presbyterian Church's board of trustees to convey title to its property at 6166 Delmar boulevard to the Jewish congregation.

The petition alleges that an agreement was executed Oct. 18, last, with the signature of the Rev. James Hardin Smith, pastor of University Church, whereby the property and certain church furniture was to be sold to the Jewish congregation for $46,000. On Nov. 19, it is charged, the trustees refused to perform their part of the sale agreement and failed to transfer title or return $500 earnest money.

Neither the Rev. Mr. Smith nor attorneys for the congregation could be reached. The Brith Sholom temple is at Kingshighway and Enright avenue.

EXPLORER TO LECTURE HERE ON THE FORBIDDEN CITY

Dr. W. M. McGovern to Tell of His Adventures on Visit to Capital of Tibet.

Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, explorer, will give a lecture, illustrated by motion pictures, at the Principia at 8:15 p. m. today. His subject will be "To Lhasa in Disguise."

In the disguise of a coolie, Dr. McGovern reached Lhasa, the Forbidden City, capital of Tibet, and probably was the first white man ever to view the Buddhist rituals in that country. He has the only motion pictures ever taken in Lhasa. His adventures, as related in a book, were reported in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, Oct. 5, 1924.

The explorer is an American, formerly a New York newspaper man, who settled in England some years ago. He is an Oxonian doctor of philosophy. To undertake the trip to Lhasa, he got leave of absence from the University of London, where he is lecturer in Chinese and Japanese.

MONEY MESSENGER ROBBED AS HE HAD PREDICTED

Polar Wave Employe Held Up on Fifth Trip Across Street, $108 Taken From Him.

After making four trips across the street with money yesterday from the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. yards at 4416 Duncan avenue to the branch office at 4423 Duncan, George W. Hose, 21 years old, of 5534 Davison avenue, predicted that sooner or later he would be held up.

He started on his fifth trip of the day at 5:10 p. m. Presently he came running back, with the breathless announcement, "It's happened." He had been stopped by two men with revolvers in the street, he said, and robbed of $108 in cash and $61.75 in checks.

BOYS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Russell McLane, 16 years old, of 50 Gore avenue, Webster Groves, suffered a fractured skull, and Russell Berry, 16, of 1915 America avenue, was cut and bruised at 9:40 o'clock last night when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into an iron electric light standard in the center of Oakland avenue, near Forest Park Highlands. City Hospital physicians reported both youths had been drinking.

Others injured yesterday by automobiles are: Patrolman John N. Higgins, 54, of 1317A Semple avenue, fractured left leg and possible skull fracture; George Irwin, 61, of 1113 South Eleventh street, fractured skull, and August Mueller, 76, of 5058 Kensington avenue, fracture of the right thigh.

BARTENDER IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER OF DELIVERY TRUCK

Driver's Helper Points Out Prisoner as Man Who Covered Him With Overcoat.

Shortly after the Famous-Barr Dry Goods Co. posted a $1000 reward for the arrest and conviction of any highwayman who molests one of the company's delivery trucks, city detectives and policemen raided a saloon at 4106 Jennings road, St. Louis County, near the spot where a Famous-Barr truck was looted of 180 packages Wednesday afternoon.

They arrested three men, who were viewed by Peter Burger, 17 years old, the truck helper, kidnaped by two highwaymen while sorting packages in the truck in front of 5740 Kingshighway place. He declared that a bartender was the man with a revolver who covered him with an overcoat and made him lie on the floor of the truck while it was driven to St. Louis County, where two men transferred the packages to a roadster, leaving the boy in the empty truck. Police will seek a robbery warrant against the bartender today. He denied the charge.

ODOR OF WHISKY MASH LEADS TO STILL IN HOME

The odor of whisky mash attracted police to a house at 5331 Wilson avenue at 8:45 o'clock last night. In one room they found a 200-gallon daily capacity still in operation; in another containing about whisky mash, and cans of alcohol, other moonshining fire department was pump the mash into

"THE GRAY PHANTOM'S ROMANCE"

A Mystery Story to Baffle the Shrewdest

By HERMAN LANGDON

Adventure--Thrills--Suspense--Surprises

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-FIVE.

"There are other charges waiting for you in court. You've been leading a gay time for a good many years, but this is the end of it. You've done some very fancy wriggling in the past, but you can't wriggle out of this."

"Perhaps not." A great gloom seemed suddenly to fall over the Phantom. "It looks as though you had me, Culligore. I can't fight the whole New York police force single-handed. All you have to do is to blow your whistle ——"

"I'll be hanged! I'm not going to give you the satisfaction of saying that it took a regiment to get you. I mean to arrest you just to prove that you're not as smart as some people think."

The Phantom glowed inwardly. His adroit and subtle appeal to the Lieutenant's pride had produced the desired effect. Culligore felt sure of his advantage that he would not summon help, and this was an important point in the Phantom's favor. Yet he knew the situation was critical enough. On other occasions he had gambled lightly with death, often winning through sheer fearlessness and audacity, but much more than his life was at stake now. He looked in vain for a loophole in the situation. All he could do for the moment was to spar for time.

"I see," he murmured. "The achievement of taking the Phantom single-handed would put a big feather in your cap. But look here, Culligore. Fame is a fine thing, but you can't eat it, and it won't buy clothes. Isn't it just as important to find the murderer of Mrs. Trippe and Gage?"

"I'll attend to that, too." The Lieutenant inserted a hand in his pocket and drew out a pair of handcuffs. "Out with your hands, Phantom."

The Phantom promptly put his hands in the pockets of his trousers. "Why be in such a rush, Culligore? You know I can't get away as long as you keep me covered. Let's discuss things a bit. I don't think I committed those murders?"

"Not exactly," said the detective thoughtfully, the steel links dangling from his hand. "Whatever else you may be, I don't think you're a murderer."

"And that shows that you have more gray matter than some of your colleagues."

"Thanks," dryly; "but you'd better save the compliments. I haven't quite made up my mind about the murders yet. If you didn't commit them, there are a lot of things that will have to be explained. The threatening letter, for instance."

"Forged."

"And Gage's dying statement."

"Pinto lied, or else Gage was mistaken."

"Think so?" The Lieutenant's upper lip brushed the top of his nose. "It's a queer thing that nothing but the Maltese cross was taken."

"That was only a detail of the frame-up. Listen, Culligore. Isn't it your idea that the two murders were committed by one and the same person?"

"It looks that way, but——"

"Well, then, I happen to know who killed Mrs. Trippe, because I was there when it happened."

Culligore stared; and the Phantom knew he had gained another point.

"There when it happened? You saw the murder committed?" The Lieutenant seemed at once amazed and incredulous. "Just where were you? In the storeroom?"

"No; the murder was committed in Gage's bedroom, and the body was afterward removed to the storeroom by the murderer."

For a moment Culligore's astonishment was so great that he forgot to maintain his aim. He gathered himself quickly, but his face bore a look of bewilderment.

"He moved the body, eh? I wonder why. If the job was done by a certain person I have in mind, I don't see what object he could have in carrying the corpse from Gage's bedroom to the storeroom. The natural thing would have been to leave the body on the spot. You're not kidding me?"

"Absolutely not." The Phantom grinned at Culligore's perplexity. Evidently the Lieutenant's theories and calculations had been completely upset by what he had just heard. "Who is the certain person you had in mind, Culligore?"

"Never mind that. Let me get this straight. You were in Gage's bedroom when Mrs. Trippe was murdered?"

"Not in the bedroom, but—The Phantom checked himself on the point of explaining that he had witnessed the murder from his place of concealment in the narrow opening back of the window frame. In a flash it dawned upon him that he had another advantage over the detective. He had found the loophole in the situation for which his mind had been searching for the last ten minutes. Culligore, of course, was not aware of the existence of the tunnel. The stairs leading to the cellar were at the Phantom's back. If he could elude the detective long enough to slip down the steps and crawl into the mouth of the tunnel, he would be temporarily safe. It was a slender chance, but he had no other.

"Where were you, then?" demanded Culligore.

"My secret." The Phantom assumed a mysterious expression, meanwhile edging ever so slightly toward the stairs at his back. "I saw Mrs. Trippe and she saw me. She was in a terribly frightened condition, and she called out that some one was killing her. Then, of a sudden, a hand appeared, holding a knife. Before I could utter a word or move a muscle, the knife had done its work."

Culligore muttered something under his breath. He scanned the Phantom's face keenly, but what he saw evidently convinced him of the narrator's truthfulness. A noise, scarcely louder than the falling of a pin, sounded at the head of the stairs. The Phantom's sensitive ears detected it, but the Lieutenant appeared to have heard nothing.

"Well, what happened after that?"

The Phantom waited for a moment before he answered. A draft faint as a breath told him that the door at the top of the stairs had been opened. He had a vague impression that somebody was looking down on them, and he wondered whether Dr. Bimble or Jerome had returned. Not the slightest flicker in his face showed that he had noticed anything.

"I didn't see any more. The—the curtain fell a moment or two after the blow was struck."

Culligore regarded him narrowly. Another faint sound came from the head of the stairs, and in the same instant the draft ceased, indicating that the door had closed. The Lieutenant, his every faculty bent on the task of ferreting out the thoughts in the Phantom's mind, had heard nothing. He seemed inclined to doubt and scoff, but a stronger instinct compelled him to give credence to the story he had just heard.

"And all you saw of the murderer was a hand and a knife?"

"That was all."

"Do you remember the woman's exact words?"

The Phantom searched his memory for a moment. "She said: 'He's killing me! He's afraid I'll tell! He locked me in'—— She never finished the last sentence, but she had said enough. Evidently the murderer of Gage knew that the housekeeper was aware of his guilt, and imprisoned her in the bedroom so that she would not reveal what she knew. Later he returned with a knife in his hand, having decided it would be safer to kill her. The housekeeper must have had some warning of his arrival; perhaps she saw or heard him coming."

Culligore looked as though he had a baffling problem on his mind. "Who do you suppose was the 'he' she referred to?"

"I think that's fairly plain. She had previously made it known that she suspected Pinto of having murdered her employer."

The Lieutenant arched his brows and seemed to be revolving a new idea in his mind. "Just the same, we can't be sure she meant Pinto, so long as she didn't mention him by name. The fact that she suspected him once doesn't really prove anything. Something may have happened in the meantime that caused her to change her opinion. That 'he' might have been an entirely different person—maybe somebody she'd never seen before and whose name she didn't know."

"Possible," admitted the Phantom thoughtfully. Culligore had turned his thoughts into a new channel.

"Besides," added Culligore quickly, "even if Pinto was the 'he' she had in mind, she might have been mistaken, just as you claim Gage was mistaken."

The Phantom made another slight movement toward the cellar stairs. "I'm not at all sure Gage made the statement Pinto claims he made. My private opinion is that Pinto is a liar as well as a murderer. What the housekeeper said isn't the only evidence I have against him. I hadn't meant to tell what happened in the storeroom this morning, but since I was careless enough to leave my finger prints on the handcuffs, I might as well come out with it."

Culligore's mouth opened wider and wider as the Phantom related what had occurred in the storeroom during the early morning hours. When the story was finished, he seemed stunned, and the dazed look in his eyes told the Phantom his chance had come.

For an instant he flexed his muscles for action, then executed a swift and nimble somersault that landed him on his feet in the middle of the stairs. A spiteful crack told that Culligore had fired his pistol, but the Phantom was already at the bottom of the stairway. Then he dashed across the floor toward the point where the mouth of the tunnel was. He ran his fingers over the wall in search of the hidden door, the ingenious arrangement of which he had previously noticed.

Culligore, momentarily taken aback by the Phantom's quick and unexpected move, was losing no time. Already he was scampering down the stairs in pursuit of the fugitive. The cellar was dark, save for the narrow shaft of light slanting down from the basement, and the Phantom heard him muttering to himself as he picked his way through the gloom.

After a few moments' search the Phantom's fingers found the tiny rift in the brick surface that marked the location of the door. Culligore, evidently hesitating to use his electric flash for fear of becoming a target for the Phantom's pistol, was scudding hither and thither at the opposite end of the cellar. The Phantom crawled into the opening, feet foremost, and softly pulled the door to, then lay on his back, chuckling to himself as he pictured the Lieutenant's discomfiture.

He had no fear that Culligore would find his hiding place. The door was so carefully concealed that only a careful search would reveal its location, and the detective did not even suspect its existence. Yet the Phantom knew that he would not be safe for long. He could not remain in the tunnel indefinitely, and escape through the other end was impossible, for he had previously ascertained that the mechanism of the revolving window frame could not be manipulated from that side. All he had gained was time. He could only hope that his lucky star, which so far had never deserted him, would once more turn the situation in his favor.

His mind was working quickly while he listened to Culligore's movements in the cellar. Doubtless the detective would summon assistance and have the building surrounded, and then, unless some chance and unforeseen development came to his rescue, the Phantom's position would be critical indeed. Even if the searchers should not find his hiding place, he would eventually die from lack of air.

Suddenly his figure stiffened. He lay rigid, trying to account for the curious sensation that had just come to him. In a moment he knew what it was; a faint current of air was stirring in the tunnel. At first he could not understand, for he was certain that both exits were closed, and the tube itself was airtight. He worked deeper into the tunnel, trying to trace the mysterious current to its origin, and presently it came to him that through some unaccountable circumstance the other end must be open.

It was mystifying, but the stirring of air could be explained in no other way than that in some manner the revolving window frame had come open. He moved forward as rapidly as he could, hoping to gain the exit and get out of the zone of danger before the block was surrounded. By this time Culligore must have discovered that his quarry had in some inexplicable way escaped from the basement. Perhaps he was even now cursing himself for his vainglorious boast that he would take the Gray Phantom singlehanded and unaided.

The movement of air became more noticeable as the Phantom drew near the end of the passage. He proceeded more slowly now, moving forward by cautious twists and wrigglings, a few inches at a time, carefully calculating each motion so as to make no noise. There was something at once puzzling and ominous about the open exit, and he could not know what awaited him in the bedroom at the end of the tunnel.

His progress became more difficult as he reached the acclivity in which the passage terminated, for he had been moving crab fashion, having entered the tunnel feet first in order to be able to close the door behind him, and the width of the tube did not permit him to turn.

Silent as a mole, he twisted his body upward, all his senses on the alert against the slightest hint of danger. Now his feet were almost at the window frame. As he had surmised, the opening was clear, and a few more twists would land him on the floor of the bedroom.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

NEED OF NEW SYSTEM OF JUSTICE DISPUTED

Guy Thompson of St. Louis Tells Chicagoans Corrections in Procedure Are Required.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, in the preparation of a survey of the crime situation in Missouri, and its submission of a number of legislative recomendations, "is proceeding upon the theory that a new system for dealing with crime and criminals is neither necessary nor obtainable, but that our present system may be made sufficient by the correction of its manifest deficiencies."

This was the statement of Guy A. Thompson of St. Louis, a director and chairman of the Survey Committee of the association, in an address before the Industrial Club of Chicago here last night.

"We are not so sanguine as to believe the measures we propose will result in stopping crime," he said. "But we are confident they would vastly improve the machinery we have set up to deal with crime and criminals and that if to this improvement the public will add competent officials at all times in charge of the machinery, the result will be a wholesome, an awesome respect for the law by the criminal-minded and a vast diminution in crime."

Juries, he said, will not convict if verdicts of guilty will mean excessive punishments.

"What we need is certainty and not severity of punishment," Thompson said, "the judicious application of mercy and not its elimination; adequate education and a trade and honest means of livelihood for the imprisoned who need them, and not mere idle incarceration; an institution for the unfortunate mental defectives and criminal insane, and not their repeated liberations from jail and penitentiary to prey again upon the people; a penitentiary that will punish the professional and hardened criminal and not prematurely release him; a reformatory that will reform and give another chance to the youthful first offender and not train him for other crimes. We contend for great co-ordination and co-operation between the agencies that capture, that prosecute, that try, that punish, that treat and that reform."

The association, the speaker declared, has resolved "that the devices of law and the shams of practice that serve merely as avenues of escape for the guilty, shall be forever swept away."

FINE OF $250 IS UPHELD

A $250 fine assessed by Police Judge Beck against Louis Barricelli of 2127 Cooper street on a peace disturbance charge, was upheld yesterday by Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction.

Barricelli was arrested last July after he created a disturbance at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Pedacreda of 5237 Elizabeth avenue, when he called there to see his wife, who is separated from him, and their two children. Barricelli's wife and mother-in-law testified he used obscene and abusive language in talking to them. Barricelli denied these charges and asserted his mother-in-law fired three times at him with a revolver, forcing him to leave. Mrs. Pedacreda said she discharged the revolver only to frighten him.

VALLEY BURIED MANY CENTURIES IS FOUND

Nevada Site, Thought Buried as Pompeii Was, Is Called Veritable Eden.

(Copyright, 1926.)

RENO, Nev., Dec. 10.—Discovery of a mysterious hidden valley, apparently the site of a great buried city, in the isolated sheep mountains of Southeastern Nevada, near the Utah line, has been confirmed by Gov. James G. Scrugham. The valley was penetrated by adventuring prospectors, who found a tiny slit in the giant cliffs which admitted them to the hidden haven. For more than 70 years prospectors, cowboys and desert wanderers have passed the frowning mountains without suspecting the existence of the little wonderland.

Gov. Scrugham reports the valley is heavily timbered, with mountain sheep and other rare animals roaming its verdant hills and dales. Preliminary excavations have revealed the ruins of an ancient metropolis, believed to have flourished thousands of years ago. Arrangements are being made for national scientific societies to undertake a comprehensive examination of the prehistoric remnants. Archaelologists believe the ruins mark the last stand of an ancient people against the devastating forces of nature after savage tribes had been beaten back from the mountain bulwarks.

The valley is plentifully watered and described as a veritable Eden in a most desolate section of the country. Botanical interest has been aroused by the discovery of foxtail pines, the only ones known to exist in the world outside of California, where the trees are found occasionally on high granite elevations.

The cursory examination conducted by the exploring party headed by Gov. Scrugham indicates the ancient city was not overwhelmed by savage enemies or lack of rain, disasters believed to have destroyed the lost city in the Muddy River valley near Las Vegas, but probably was buried like Pompeii under a vast lava flow. Storms and the hot desert sun during later centuries softened the lava, winds wafted seeds from distant points, and a mighty forest eventually developed in the midst of surrounding desolation. The rare animals are supposed to have made their way into the valley over the precipitous crags, but were unable to escape from the natural trap.

The valley, when studied by scientists, is expected to tell its story of vanished ages, and possibly shed light on a civilization believed to have existed in far Western America when Europe was savage and nomads wandered over the seven hills destined to be the site of imperial Rome.

40 EXPEDITIONS SENT OUT BY SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Must Make Collections Soon Because Civilization Is Killisg Off Plants and Animals.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Forty scientific expeditions were sent out by the Smithsonian Institution during the last year in spite of a serious handicap in funds. In its annual report today the maintenance of this work is credited mainly to gifts of private individuals and organizations.

The major expeditions included one to Algeria, South Africa, Egypt and India, to locate a solar radiation station; an anthropological survey of Europe, Southern Asia, Java, Australia and South Africa, covering 50,000 miles; an expedition to East Africa to collect live wild game; and a study of the crustaceans of South America.

Archeology and ethnology claimed 16 of the institution's expeditions; geology, paleontology and mineralogy 10 and botany 14.

It is highly important, said the report, "that collections of materials throwing light on the history of the earth and early man and animal life be made in the next 50 years because of the rapid extinction of thousands of species of animals and plants due to encroachments of civilized man."

ANTI-EVOLUTIONIST CAMPAIGN

North Carolina Fundamentalists Plan to Outlaw Darwinism.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 10.—A capable Christian lawyer is to be retained by the North Carolina Fundamentalist Committee of 100 to examine the "legal and constitutional aspects" of proposed legislation to forbid the teaching of evolution in the State's educational institutions.

This was decided at an executive session at which plans to advance legislation to "outlaw the teaching of evolution" in tax-supported schools were considered. [illegible] Turlington of Mooresville, author of the State prohibition law, was named chairman of a subcommittee to formulate the legislation.

Chicago Man Found Shot to Death.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The body of a man, who apparently had been "taken for a ride" by enemies and shot to death, was found early today. Police found no one who had heard shots, leading to the theory that the killing must have taken place in an automobile.

Rockefeller to Play Golf.

Henry Ford Latest Hurdle Set Up in Al Smith's Path

Rumor That Flivver King Wants to Be President Cannot Be Traced, but It Is Gyrating Around Washington—Strategy of Dry Leaders Is to Do Anything to Block a Runaway for New York Governor—Coolidge's Message Is Notice of His Candidacy in 1928.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Now the name of Henry Ford is invoked to stop the nomination of Gov. Smith at the next Democratic national convention.

Nobody here professes to know the source of the rumor that the flivver king was sitting up and again taking notice. Perhaps it is only part of the wide campaign to stop the progress of the Smith boom; to counteract the tales constantly coming in of declarations by Southern politicians that sooner or later Smith must have his run and it might be as well to have it over as early as possible. Possibly Henry Ford is only one of the galaxy that is to head off Smith votes—McAdoo, Gov. Ritchie, Senator James A. Reed, Senator Joe Robinson and half a dozen others being expected to corral what votes they can, until the dry power can center on somebody. It makes no difference that Reed and Ritchie are wet and that their strength in the end is due to go to Smith. They will serve, in the dry strategy, to prevent a Smith runaway, and that is the first thing to be done.

Ford's Reported Candidacy.

Ford is a dry. Also he is reported to be apprehensive of the dangers that would follow the selection of a third term President. Moreover, he may well be annoyed that Mr. Coolidge did not go all the way on Muscle Shoals.

It is not remarkable if the automobile manufacturer is opposed to a President's occupying the White House more than eight years. There never was a candidate however remote who was not shocked at the idea. In fact, definite partisanship for a third term does not develop until one has passed out of the candidate class and is serving his second term.

It would cause no surprise if Ford cherished the idea of seeing the greatest American business man at the head of what Mr. Coolidge in his recent message described as a "going business of nearly $4,000,000,000." We all remember how, after his adventure against Newberry, Ford-for-President Clubs sprang up here and there, and presidential booms are no more the result of spontaneous generation than any other form of organic life. Presumably, if Ford is really going out after it, it would be as a Democrat, inasmuch as it was as a Democrat that he sought a Senatorship, though his support of Mr. Coolidge last time might constitute an obstacle.

Coolidge Announces—Quietly.

Like everybody else now, the automobile manufacturer believes that Mr. Coolidge is after the Republican nomination, if he can get it conveniently. The last doubt really vanished with the presentation of his opening message to Congress.

It was a Republican platform not only in what it stated than in what it omitted. But the zenith of the proclamation of neutrality on every important question was the paragraph dealing with prohibition. Gov. Smith could run on it and so could Wayne B. Wheeler.

"Such supplementary legislation as is required to meet existing condition should be carefully and speedily enacted," the President says.

Some people think this should be in the form of modification of the Volstead act. The drys think it should be in the form of making that act more drastic, but the President's platform does not indicate which he favors. Everybody, the President bravely admits, has a right to seek legal methods of a change in any provision of the constitution of which he disapproves, but the people ought to observe them all.

Taking it altogether the President's production may be construed as less a message to Congress than a notice of his candidacy for the Republican nomination in 1928.

BILL FOR BOLSTERING UP BANKING LAWS ADVOCATED

Comptroller Urges Congress to Pass McFadden Act; America Holds Half of World's Gold.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—An urgent appeal for enactment of the McFadden branch banking bill was made today by J. W. McIntosh, Comptroller of the Currency, in his annual report to Congress.

Reporting a "steady decline in the relative strength of the National Banking System," McIntosh declared the bill, which has passed both the Senate and House, but on which the two bodies have been unable to work out their differences, was required as a means of "resuscitation."

He reiterated his disapproval of the Hull amendment, the bone of contention between the Senate and House, which would restrict the branches of National banks hereafter in states which do not permit branch banks.

During the year ending October 1, 87 banks left the national system for state charters.

The world's gold stock was reported as $9,509,793,000 and of this the United States has $4,408,696,000, or almost half. Great Britain and France have the next largest amounts, with $712,086,000 and $710,968,000 respectively.

The number of savings depositors in national banks increased during the year from 11,867,948 to 12,573,001, and the deposits June 30 totaled $4,962,864,000, an increase of $403,965,000. An average rate of 3.63 per cent interest was paid on these deposits.

In all reporting banks of the nation, including state and private institutions, it was stated that on June 30 the savings deposits totaled $21,042,303,000.

Memorial to Dr. H. J. Waters.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 10.—County extension agents of the University of Missouri paid tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Henry J. Waters, formerly dean of the Missouri College of Agriculture, yesterday, by presenting a bronze tablet of the nationally known agriculturist to the university.

Pastor Accepts Call in County.

The Rev. H. Rahn resigned last night as pastor of the Evansville, Ind., Evangelical Church and announced he had accepted the pastorate of the Bellefontaine Evangelical Church on the Olive Street road. He said he would take up his new duties in the near future.

27 Lynchings, More Than in 1925.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 10.—Twenty-seven lynchings, nine more than for all of 1925, had occurred in the United States up to Nov. 15, 1926, the Committee on Race Relations reported to the Federal Council of Churches today. "This," said the report, "represents the severest setback since 1922 in the campaign to marshal churches against lynching, and the plea of the churches for a lynchless land seems farther from realization than any year since that time."

Origin of Ancient Illinois Forts Baffles Historians

Students Unable to Determine Who Constructed Old Fort Massac and Stone Fort, Says Representative Elbert Walles.

By the Associated Press.

TAMAROA, Ill., Dec. 10.—Mystery which may always remain unsolved surrounds the origin of several historic forts of Southern Illinois, in the opinion of State Representative Elbert Waller, Illinois historian.

"Students of history have stood among the ruins of Fort Massac and Stone Fort," Waller said, "and have asked questions—'Who built these forts? Why and Why?' But the only answer is a shake of the head and 'I don't know.'

"The most noted of these historic relics of the Ohio Valley is Fort Massac, located at the city of Metropolis, about four miles from the mouth of the Ohio River. Another, located about four miles east of the city of Stone Fort and 31 miles north of Fort Massac is known as Old Stone Fort, and still another is located a few miles west of there near the bluffs known as 'Giant City,' two miles east of Makanda.

Indians Had Guns at 1673.

"When Marquette made his memorable voyage down the Mississippi in 1673 he saw Indians with guns at the mouth of the Ohio. Tradition has it that they were Piankeshaws and that all this territory at that time was their hunting ground. They said they had always lived there. That is all we know about it. Where did they get the guns, and did they build the forts? A map published in London in 1699 shows that there was then a French trading post at the present site of Fort Massac.

"It is not known that a white man ever visited the Wabash Valley before Queen Anne's war, but then the Indians south of the Great Lakes and the French formed alliances and soon thereafter a profitable fur trade was built up to the southward. In 1735 Post Saint Vincent was built by the French on the Wabash. A map published in 1755 shows another fort at the mouth of the Wabash River.

Information Is Sought in Vain.

"Before Fort Massac was built by the French in 1758, Representative Waller said, tradition has it that Ferdinand de Soto built a fort there in 1542 and that the French occupied it as early as 1701, but that has not been verified.

"We seek in vain for information. Who built these other forts? In the meantime, the Indians had wars among themselves and the Shawnees came in, probably from Georgia, though the Piankeshaws say they came direct from hell. They crowded the Piankeshaws further North. It is not entirely reasonable to believe that Old Stone Fort, just 31 miles north of Fort Massac and the other stone fort of Giant City, were built by the French and Piankeshaws to defend themselves against the Shawnees."

DEMOCRATIC LEADER MOCKS AT G. O. P. ECONOMY CLAIMS

Accuses Republicans of Playing Politics and Calls Coolidge White House's Biggest Spender.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The concerted move by Democrats in Congress for tax reduction at this session was taken to the House floor yesterday by one of the party's financial spokesman, Representative Byrns of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee.

He accused Republicans of "playing politics on tax reduction, charged them with attempting to postpone a revenue cut until the eve of the 1928 presidential election, and indorsed the $335,000,000 Democratic tax measure introduced Wednesday by Representative Garner of Texas.

Byrns said tax rates could be raised or lowered "easily" by adoption of a joint resolution and that it was "ridiculous to say it cannot be done at this session."

"The widespread impression" that national expenditures have decreased due to "alleged economy of the present administration" was declared faulty by Byrns, who asserted all governmental bureaus except the Interior Department had increased expenditures since President Coolidge took office. Reductions by the Interior Department were due, he said, to decreases in Civil War pensions.

Byrns asserted that while President Coolidge "is persistently pictured as the greatest economist who ever sat in the White House," he nevertheless "has spent more of the people's money for official household expenses, care, upkeep and policing the White House, and under the head of traveling expenses, than any of his predecessors."

TREATY TO ABOLISH POISON GAS IN WAR OPPOSED IN SENATE

Two Senators Take Issue With Borah, Who Urges Favorable Action on Protocol.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Geneva treaty to forbid poison gas warfare, favored by the State Department but opposed by the American Legion and other organizations, was taken up yesterday by the Senate in open session.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee urged favorable action on the protocol, but his position was challenged by Chairman Wadsworth of the Military Committee. He questioned Borah's statement that the War Department favored the treaty, declared that gas was the least cruel of all warfare weapons, and added: "When wars break out treaties and conventions perish."

Borah said the treaty, signed by 30 powers, was the consummation of 30 years' effort to control certain instruments of warfare, including gas.

Senator Tyson (Dem.), Tennessee, who commanded a division overseas, called gas warfare "the most humane and effective of all weapons," and said experts in the War Department would consider ratification of the Geneva treaty unfortunate.

Thought his case was hopeless
Resinol cleared away pimples in a week
Lexington, Mass., March 5:—"I had been suffering from shaving pimples on my neck for years and, I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Resinol Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this cure! You can be sure that henceforth you have one more loyal booster for your product." (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 8 Bloomfield St.

Macaroni Is Considered A Nourishing Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator From New York,

Macaroni is looked upon by most of us as essentially an Italian food It is true that Italy deserves credit for early appreciation of its qualities and devotion to its values.

The fact is, however, we must give credit for its discovery and invention to the Chinese and for its European introduction to the Germans. The Italians learned to make macaroni from the Germans, but once in possession of the formula, Italy held the secret of making this delicious food for more than a century.

Macaroni is composed of ground wheat and water and nothing else I say "ground wheat" and not flour, because originally macaroni was not made of soft or rolled flour, but of wheat cut fine by rollers so as to resemble grits.

Macaroni is made into many shapes. Certain factories use as many as 200 different styles, resembling tubes, ribbons, snails, couch shells, hearts, spades, alphabets, etc. The very thinnest macaroni threads are called "Capeili D'Angelo" or angel's hair.

The macaroni dough is forced through copper forms. These shape the product into the many designs. After the moulding process the product is hung on wooden poles, or spread on tarpaulin covered trays. Thus placed it is permitted to dry.

It used to be the practice to dry the macaroni in the open air, but this method has been discontinued on account of health laws. It is claimed that the open air drying produces a better product. Of course such a method of preparation could not be countenanced in the dusty and dirty air of the cities.

In certain cities of Italy, there are special preparations of the paste, but these are seldom shipped to America as they do not keep well. Such forms of macaroni may be colored yellow, green or red. The yellow color is produced by the addition of eggs. Spinach gives the green color and the juice of beet furnishes the red.

Spaghetti, vermicelli and noodles are really different styles of macaroni.

New York city consumes nearly two hundred million pounds of these foods yearly, the principal consumers being Italians, of course. Practically all of the macaroni consumed in New York City is manufactured in local factories, although a good deal comes from Italy, France, Switzerland and China.

Macaroni is rich in food values. Its chief ingredient is the carbohydrate, yet it is quite high in protein. Because of its low moisture content, it is a concentrated and nourishing food.

When macaroni is made from whole wheat and contains eggs instead of artificial yellow coal tar dyes, it constitutes one of the most healthful and beneficial foods in the human dietary. Under the strict enforcement of our food laws we may expect to have sold us only a high grade, chemically pure and nourishing article which is a valuable addition to the dietary.

FOR SUNDAY NIGHT COMPANY SUPPER

Several Dishes Which Are Ideal for the Informal Sunday Supper.

Entertaining informally on Sunday evening for supper is becoming quite the thing, particularly with couples who live in small apartments. An unusual dish, a fruit or seafood cocktail, something unique in stuffed celery, hot rolls or hot biscuits and a dainty dessert of some kind, is easily gotten together and easily served. Here are recipes for several dishes suitable for Sunday night suppers.

Sunday Supper Dish.

This is a combination of cold cuts with stag sauce. Sliced cold chicken, ham, tongue and roast beef make a combination cold plate which appeals to men and women guests alike.

For stag sauce one cupful of whipped cream, one-half cup grated apple, one-half cup grated horseradish makes one of the sauce portions. For the second portion take one cup of mayonnaise dressing, one sour pickle, six olives and two shredded anchovies.

Arrange the cold cuts around the outside of a platter and garnish with potato salad which has been marinated with French dressing. In the center of the platter pile the sauces in two separate mounds. Stuffed tomatoes may also be served around the meat. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

Eggs a la King.

Melt two tablespoons of butter. Add four tablespoons of flour mixed and sifted with one teaspoon of salt, and gradually two cups of cream or milk. Cook until thickened. Add one-fourth cup of canned pimientoes cut into strips, one-half cup of sauted, sliced mushrooms and beat slowly into two slightly beaten egg yolks. Cut hard cooked eggs into quarters, place on slices of toast and pour the mixture over both eggs and toast.

Molded Vegetables.

Peel three small tomatoes, cut into slices and mash through a sieve to remove the seeds. Chop two small cucumbers fine, discarding their seeds. Remove seeds from a sweet green pepper and chop it and one small onion fine. Soak one tablespoon of gelatin in one cup of cold water and heat until the gelatin is dissolved. Do not allow it to boil nor simmer. Mix with the vegetables, add two tablespoons of vinegar, two tablespoons of lemon juice, one tablespoon of chili sauce or catsup, and salt and pepper to taste. Turn into one large or several small molds rinsed with cold water, spread with waxed paper, put on the cover and pack in two parts of ice and one of salt for three or four hours; if the large mold, about three-fourths to an hour for the small molds.

Chicken Salad Rolls.

Mix equal parts of cooked chicken and crisp celery, cut in pieces and mix with salad dressing. Cut small rolls in halves and remove soft center. Spread with butter. Put a tablespoon of the chicken salad in center, press two halves together and wrap each one in paraffin paper. Lettuce may be carried separately in a damp cloth and each roll served on a crisp lettuce leaf.

Cranberry sauce is just as good with beef, lamb, pork or veal as it is with turkey. Its slight tartness is exceptionally valuable when served with fatty meats. Hash is especially delicious with cranberry sauce.

Special Luncheon Dish.

The meat often constitutes the most serious problem, when one has ordered, say, chops for the family, and the arrival of guests suddenly doubles the size of the family. Probably there is plenty of bacon in the ice-box, and if so, the hostess may put away the chops and in a few moments have a platter of crisp bacon with pineapple served on curly lettuce leaves that has all of the earmarks of a very special occasion.

It is prepared by first frying twelve strips of bacon, pouring off the fat as it forms in order that the bacon may be dry and crisp. Remove to a hot platter and keep hot. Season a little flour with salt and pepper. Dip the luscious slices of pineapple (or the contents of a large can) into the flour and cover both sides. Brown in a very little hot bacon fat. This may be served with crisp cold lettuce.

Cranberry Short-Cake.

The best cranberry short-cake is made with a rich baking-powder biscuit dough. Roll out lightly in two cakes, placing one on top of the other, with a generous supply of butter between. Take from the oven and split. Spread cranberry sauce between the two layers and on top. Serve with plain whipped cream or whipped cream to which a very few thin slices of bananas have been added. This dessert is quickly made if you use some of your canned cranberry sauce.

Add one spoonful of vanilla extract to the rice while it is boiling. It adds zest to the dish.

BEGIN YOUR DINNER WITH A CREAM SOUP

Few Appetizers Serve the Purpose Better Than Does Soup.

In the preparation of any cream soup, the vegetable or fruit puree should always be poured slowly into the white sauce and with constant stirring. More acid is present in the puree than in the milk and in this method the acid of the small amount of puree comes in contact with the large amount of white sauce so gradually that the milk has a far less tendency to curdle than if the process were done in the reverse order.

After combining puree and milk or white sauce, the mixture should never be reheated, because additional heat causes curdling. It is essential, therefore, that the components of cream soups be very hot when combined, thus eliminating reheating and facilitating the making of a smooth creamy soup.

Recipes for several cream soups follow:

Asparagus Cream Soup.

Drain a can of asparagus, reserving the liquid. Cut about three inches from the tip end. Set this aside to use as a salad or a hot dish. Cut the remaining end of the asparagus stalks in small pieces and simmer 10 minutes in the liquid which was drained off. Strain through a coarse sieve and rub as much of the asparagus as possible. Melt two tablespoons of butter or other shortening in a large saucepan, add two tablespoons flour, mix until smooth, then add two cups cold milk and stir until hot. Add the asparagus liquid and puree, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon butter. Serve with croutons if desired.

Tomato Bisque.

Cook one quart tomatoes one-half hour, add one teaspoon salt, strain, heat three pints milk, add one tablespoon butter, tomatoes, salt, pepper, one and one-half tablespoons each of flour and cornstarch. Cook till creamy. Serve with toasted crackers.

Creamed Bean Soup.

Take one cup of dried beans and soak over night. Use a small piece of ham, one carrot, one turnip, one quart boiling water and one or more cups of milk.

Stew the ham for a few moments in a little butter, then add the carrot asd turnips, letting this simmer for 10 minutes; then add the beans and cook until thoroughly done. Take out the ham, mash the vegetables and beans and run through a sieve, add the milk and reheat. This may be served with croutons.

Lima Bean Soup.

For this palatable soup take one cup dried lima beans, four slices of carrot, six cups cold water, two slices of onion, two teaspoons salt, four sprigs parsley, two cups evaporated milk, three teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of tobasco sauce.

Wash and soak beans several hours in half the water. Add rest of water and cook slowly until tender. This requires about [illegible] minutes. After cooking 20 minutes, add carrot, onion, parsley and pepper-corns. When tender, rub through a sieve. There should be three cups of pulp and liquid. Should there be less than this amount, make up the quantity with water. In the meantime have the evaporated milk heated to scalding point. Add bean pulp and seasonings to milk and serve at once.

Split Pea Soup.

Take one cup dried peas, six cups water, one small onion, one stick celery, one cup milk, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and two tablespoons butter.

Wash clean and soak peas in six cups water over night. In morning add onion, celery and salt. Bring to boiling point and simmer gently three hours. Force through fine sieve; add pepper, butter and milk; reheat and serve.

Potato Soup.

Take two large or four medium sized potatoes, three cups water, one onion, one-third cup green peppers, one-third cup pimentoes, one and one-third teaspoons salt, two cups milk, three tablespoons butter and one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Wash potatoes clean and cut small. Add water, salt, onion, green pepper and pimento. Bring to boiling point; boil 20 minutes or until potato is soft. Push through fine sieve, add milk, butter and pepper. Reheat and serve at once.

Onion Soup.

Three large or six small onions, two cups white stock, two cups milk, two-thirds tablespoon flour, two-thirds tablespoon butter or other fat, one tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Make a white sauce with stock, milk, flour and butter. Cook onions in water until very tender. Drain, rub through sieve. Combine onion and sauce. Season with salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Beat with egg beater and serve.

Sliced pineapple added to boiled or fried ham and sweet potatoes makes a dish of rare delicacy.

Cranberries contain a combination of mild, healthful acids not found in other fruits.

Christmas Small Cakes And How to Make Them

These Delicious Cakes Are Made from Valued Recipes Handed Down from One Generation to Another.

Entertaining friends seems to be very heart of the Christmas spirit. Consequently, even the casual visitor who happens in during the holiday season, is offered refreshments of one kind or another. From this general custom of serving refreshments to Christmas guests we have christened a certain type of small cakes, Christmas cakes. These cakes are generally of German origin or else of the English type of cooking. In one case we have springeles, lebchuchen and others of that sort, while the English type of Christmas cake partakes of the fruity variety, with raisins, currants and nuts.

These cakes may be made several weeks before Christmas and put away until the holidays arrive. Some of the cakes are difficult to make, but they repay the trouble expended. Recipes follow for several of the more popular of these Christmas cakes.

Springerle.

For this sweet take three eggs, one cup sugar, one tablespoon anise seed and one and one-half to two cups of flour.

Stir eggs and sugar for one hour, stirring in one direction only. Add sifted flour gradually, stirring all the time, until dough is stiff. Roll out one-eighth inch thick, press floured springerle board down very hard on dough to emboss designs. Cut out squares; let dry 10 hours on floured board. Bake on greased tins sprinkled with anise seed, in moderately slow oven (325 degrees) until light yellow, about 30 minutes.

Anise Seed Cakes.

For these Christmas cakes take two eggs, one cup sugar, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder and one teaspoon anise seeds.

Beat eggs very light; add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add flour sifted with baking powder and anise seeds, which have been pounded to a fine powder. Drop a little from a teaspoon on cookie sheet one inch apart. Let stand over night, or about 10 hours, at room temperature to dry. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes.

Rocks.

The ingredients needed are one cup shortening, one and one-half cups sugar, two and three-fourths cups flour, three eggs, one teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one pound dates, one pound chopped nut meats, one-half cup strawberry or cherry preserves.

Sift dry ingredients, flour, fruit and nuts. Cream shortening, and sugar, add eggs well beaten, preserve, fruit and dry ingredients. Drop on buttered tins. Bake in hot oven 15 minutes.

Pfeffernuesse.

This is a famous type of Christmas sweet which will keep for several weeks.

To make them use two cups sugar, four cups flour, grated rind of one lemon, one-half cup citron, one-fourth cup mareschino cherries, one-fourth cup orange peel, one tablespoon cinnamon, one-half tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon ground nut meats, two teaspoons baking powder and five eggs.

Sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs without separating and add to dry ingredients with mixed chopped fruits and lemon rind; mix well. With hands slightly buttered, roll into small balls size of hickory nuts. Place on cookie sheet one inch apart and bake 15 minutes in a quick oven.

Christmas Cookies.

Take two cups brown sugar, one-half cup syrup or honey, one-fourth cup butter, one egg, juice and rind of one-half lemon, two tablespoons milk, two ounces of citron ground fine, two and one-half cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg.

Add sugar to syrup or honey; cook till sugar is dissolved. Add butter, cool. Add beaten egg with juice and rind of lemon, milk and citron; stir well. Fold in flour sifted with spices. Roll one-eighth inch thick and cut with fancy cutters. Bake on cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven 8 to 10 minutes.

USE PASTEL SHADES FOR COLORING CAKES

Artistic Talent Useful in Modern Art of Cake Decoration.

The housewife who desires to make an artistically decorated cake for some special purpose or other will find the appended article on candy decorations for cakes by Alice Bradley particularly helpful.

Very tiny colored candies, which are called "hundreds and thousands," slightly larger candied cardamon seeds and candied caraway seeds may be used for decorating cakes.

The cardamon seeds may be placed individually to represent mistletoe berries or tiny flowers. The caraway seeds may be arranged like daisies, forget-me-nots, jonquils, sprays of drooping flowers or goldenrod. A fine paint brush and green color paste make the best stems and leaves to go with these decorations.

Gum drops in various colors, shapes and sizes may be cut with the scissors in thin petals and arranged like roses and other flowers. Stems and leaves may be made of ornamental frosting or with a fine paint brush.

Candied rose leaves, violets and cherries may be used attractively, with angelica for leaves and stems.

Red cinnamon candies make holly berries to go with leaves and stems made from green ornamental frosting or angelica, or pistachio nuts may be used for leaves and stems.

Silver dragees are attractive on cakes that are decorated with white frosting, and on whipped cream-covered cakes.

Chocolate shot, which are tiny bits of sweet chocolate, may be used on the sides and tops of frosted cakes.

With a tiny paint brush and color paste for paint, flowers, stems and leaves may be drawn on frosted cakes. Or the flowers may be any of the candies or nuts suggested above.

For many cakes a frosting of two or more colors is desirable—green for stems and leaves, yellow for flowers and centers, pink for sweet peas and roses, lavender for violets and sweet peas, and pale blue for forget-me-nots.

Put a small portion of frosting on a saucer, having a separate dish for each color. Color pastes or liquid colors may be used. Color pastes do not dilute the frosting, but liquid colors are satisfactory and may be more easily available.

Place a bit of the color on one side of the saucer; add a little frosting and mix thoroughly. Then add this colored frosting carefully to the white frosting on the saucer, and fold together gently until the desired shade is obtained.

A good shade of green is made by combining yellow and blue. A little rose or scarlet makes a pretty pink. Blue and pink may be combined to make a delicate lavender shade. In general, frosting should be colored in light pastel shades, almost never in deep colors.

Fruit Pudding.

Another type of plum pudding, but one which should be made the day it is used, is the dried fruit pudding made of one cup flour, three-fourths cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons melted shortening, one egg, two cups stewed dried fruit, not broken or chopped, and one teaspoon butter.

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into bowl, add the milk, well-beaten egg and melted shortening; mix well. Brush bake dish with butter. Pour in the stewed fruit, then pour the dough over the top and sprinkle with sugar. Put in moderate oven and bake 30 minutes. Serve warm with fruit juice, which has been thickened with a little cornstarch and sweetened to taste.

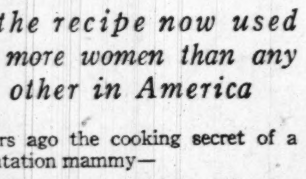
NEVER REVEALED BUT ONCE



—the recipe now used by more women than any other in America

Years ago the cooking secret of a plantation mammy—

Today the most widely used recipe in the world.

Down South before the Civil War the fame of Aunt Jemima's light, tender pancakes spread to other plantations far and near. But no other cook could equal their wonderful flavor. Today millions of women are serving golden-brown, fragrant cakes just like Aunt Jemima's own.

After the Civil War, with her master dead and the old manse deserted, Aunt Jemima finally consented to disclose her secret. Down the river by steamboat came the representative of a milling company to buy the recipe for her wonderful cakes.

Today her own ingredients, proportioned exactly as she used them, come to you ready-mixed in Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour. It is the only way to have these light, fluffy pancakes with her old-time plantation flavor.

Watch your family cheer up when they get their first taste of Aunt Jemima's cakes. Plan now to test her recipe—ready-mixed. Your grocer has Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour and her Prepared Buckwheat Flour.

Coupons for valuable premiums come in every Aunt Jemima package.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Jaded Appetites Stimulated by Changing the Manner of Cooking Foods.

Frozen Rice Dessert.

For frozen rice dessert take one cup boiled rice, four egg yolks, three tablespoons sugar, two cups milk, one cup whipped cream, one tablespoon vanilla.

Cook the milk and egg yolks in a double boiler until smooth and thick. Take from the fire and have ready the rice which has been pressed through a strainer and mix with the vanilla and sugar. When this mixture is cool add the whipped cream and combine with the mixture. Pack in a mold and let stand for about an hour. Serve with fruit sauce.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Three cucumbers, one-quarter pound American cheese, one-half cup bread crumbs, six teaspoons margarin, pepper and salt to taste.

Peel the cucumbers and cut them in halves, removing the pulp. Mix the cheese, margarin and bread crumbs and seasoning. Scoop out the center of each cucumber and fill the cavity with the bread mixture. Take care to have a little cheese sprinkled on top. Bake the cucumber shells for about one-half an hour in a moderate oven. They should be light brown.

Hermits.

One-quarter cup butter, one cup light brown sugar, two cups flour, one egg, two tablespoons milk, one-half cup light brown nutmeg, seedless raisins, two tablespoons baking-powder, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon cloves.

Cream the butter and sugar together, beating until very creamy. Add the egg and raisins and beat again. Have ready the dry materials. Sift and combine these with the first mixture. Make a soft dough and roll out on a floured board until about one-quarter inch thick. Shape with a cookie cutter and bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes.

Kuchen.

Three cups flour, one egg, one-quarter cup butter, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon of sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one cup milk, one-quarter cup dried figs.

Sift all dry material together with the sugar; then add the butter, rubbing it in well. Have ready a mixture of the egg and milk and beat this slowly into the flour mixture. Make a soft dough and then roll out very thin. Have ready a buttered baking pan. Roll the dough out thin and cover the bottom of the pan. Add a layer of thinly sliced raw apples sprinkled with cinnamon, nutmeg and sugar. Bake in a moderate oven until apples are cooked.

Cucumber Soup.

Two cucumbers, three tomatoes, one onion, six cups water, two tablespoons butter, two cooked potatoes, pepper and salt to taste.

Peel the cucumbers and cut them in pieces. Place in a sauce pan with a little water and let them simmer. Have ready in another pan tomatoes, cut up onion and the butter. Cook these together for 10 minutes and then stir into the cucumbers. Cook for about 30 minutes. Strain through a soup strainer, adding mashed potato gradually. Return to the fire for a few moments. Stir in the seasoning and serve very hot.

COMBINE FRUITS AND MEATS

Veal chops and cutlets served with broiled or sauted bananas and sauted orange slices; plum or cranberry jelly.

Pork chops served with fried bananas or apples; cranberry sauce.

Roast beef served with a relish of grated pineapple mixed with horseradish, apricots browned in the pan with the roast just before meat is done.

Pot roast cooked with cranberries in pan with meat.

Fried or roast chicken, served with sauted pineapple slices; plum jelly, cranberry jelly or sauce, currant jelly and gooseberry conserve; pineapple salad, or orange salad.

Pot roast or ham with sliced apples cooked with the meat.

Broiled slice of ham, when brown pour over a sauce of lemon juice (one tablespoon of lemon juice and two tablespoons of boiling water) and serve with orange slices which have been prepared by sprinkling lemon juice and sugar over them.

Fricassed Oysters.

Take two quarts of oysters, one cupful of butter, half a cupful of cream, two well-beaten whites of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, and pepper and salt to taste. Heat the butter in a frying pan, and put in the oysters. When heated through, add the other ingredients.

HINTS ON COOKING THE JUICY OYST

Have This Delicacy on Y Menu Frequently During the Season.

In cooking oysters be very [illegible] ful to subject them only to a [illegible] erate degree of heat; this is [illegible] sary, as oysters contain an [illegible] nous substance which [illegible] (like eggs) in hardness with [illegible] crease in temperature. A [illegible] to follow is to simmer them [illegible] until the edges of the shells [illegible]

This does not, however, apply oysters that are egged [illegible] crumbed for frying or when [illegible] ered with crumbs and baked [illegible] the covering protects the [illegible] from the heat of the fat or [illegible] as the case may be.

When oysters are drained [illegible] culinary purposes, save the [illegible] for oyster broth. This is [illegible] heated, seasoned with salt, [illegible] and butter, and served in [illegible] cups with a tiny mound [illegible] whipped cream. If desired, [illegible] paprika may be omitted and a [illegible] of pimento pulp added to [illegible] cream.

Several recipes for oyster [illegible] follow:

Oyster Loaf.

Take French rolls, cut the [illegible] off, remove the inside and dry [illegible] shells in oven. Then fill w[illegible] creamed oysters. Replace the [illegible] garnish with lemon and [illegible] Serve smoking hot.

Oysters and Rice.

Carefully remove all bits of [illegible] from one quart oysters, add [illegible] cups boiled rice, one and one-[illegible] cups milk, one-half cup [illegible] melted, two teaspoons salt and [illegible] half teaspoon pepper. Stir [illegible] fork, turn into buttered pan, cover top with buttered crumbs and bake about one hour.

Oyster Salad.

Drain the liquor from the oysters, put them into hot [illegible] and remain until they are [illegible] but not cooked, then drop [illegible] water and let them remain [illegible] chilled. Cut oysters, chop [illegible] and celery and mix well, [illegible] seasoning. Mix thoroughly [illegible] Mayonnaise dressing. Serve [illegible] tuce leaves, garnish with celery [illegible] and hard-boiled eggs.

Creamed Oysters.

Take one-half cup oysters, [illegible] fourths tablespoon butter, one [illegible] spoon flour, one-half cup [illegible] milk, few grains of salt, pinch [illegible] pepper and a little celery [illegible] Wash and pick over oysters, [illegible] cook until plump and edges [illegible] Drain and add sauce made of [illegible] remaining ingredients. Put hot [illegible] sters into sauce and pour [illegible] slices of dry toast.

VARIOUS NEW WAYS WITH CRANBERRIES

This Beautiful Crimson Berry Makes Many Delightful Desserts and Sauces.

While from time immemorial cranberry sauce has always accompanied the Thanksgiving turkey and cranberry pie topped off the Sunday roast beef dinner, strange to relate, many cooks are of the impression that the usefulness of cranberries begins with sauce and ends with pie. In reality, this is their mistake for this attractive crimson berry is most versatile as the following suggestions and recipes will demonstrate.

Cranberry Roll.

Three eggs, one cup sugar, three tablespoons cold water, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-third teaspoon salt. Beat the eggs and sugar till quite thick; add the water; then the flour, salt and baking powder, sifted together twice. Line a shallow pan with greased paper; pour in the batter evenly, and bake in a quick oven about 12 minutes. Turn out onto a cloth or paper sprinkled with sugar; tear off the paper and spread with warm cranberry sauce. Roll up quickly.

Cranberry Blanc Mange.

Cook and strain cranberries as for jelly and add one cup of sugar to each pint of juice. Heat in a double boiler. When boiling hot add, for each pint, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, which has been wet with cold water. Boil three minutes and turn into molds. Serve, ice cold, with sugar and cream.

Candied Cranberries.

Large, red cranberries, candied or preserved, are fully equal to candied cherries for garnishing desserts, salads, etc., and are less expensive. Select perfect berries for these purposes; cook slowly, with plenty of sugar, until tender, but do not allow the skins to break. Place on a buttered paper to dry.

Cranberry Ice.

Boil one quart of cranberries in one pint of water until the skins are soft, and strain through cheese cloth. When cool add the juice of two lemons. Make a syrup with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water; when cool add to the cranberry juice and freeze.

Many persons add one tablespoonful of gelatin which has been soaked 10 minutes in one-half a cup of cold water.

Spiced Cranberries.

A delicious relish with game or wild fowl may be made by adding to cranberry sauce, while cooking one teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ground cloves and one-half teaspoon ground allspice.

HINTS ON COOKING THE JUICY OYSTE

Have This Delicacy on You Menu Frequently During the Season.

In cooking oysters be very care-ful to subject them only to a mod-erate degree of heat; this is neces-sary, as oysters contain an albumi-nous substance which increases (like eggs) in hardness with an in-crease in temperature. A wise ru to follow is to simmer them only until the edges of the shellfish cu

This does not, however, apply to oysters that are egged an crumbed for frying or when cov-ered with crumbs and baked, a the covering protects the shellfish from the heat of the fat or oven as the case may be.

When oysters are drained for culinary purposes, save the liquor for oyster broth. This is delicious heated, seasoned with salt, paprika and butter, and served in bouillon cups with a tiny mound of whipped cream. If desired, the paprika may be omitted and a bit of pimento pulp added to the cream.

Several recipes for oyster dishes follow:

Oyster Loaf.

Take French rolls, cut the tops off, remove the inside and dry the shells in oven. Then fill with creamed oysters. Replace the tops, garnish with lemon and parsley. Serve smoking hot.

Oysters and Rice.

Carefully remove all bits of shell from one quart oysters, add three cups boiled rice, one and one-half cups milk, one-half cup butter melted, two teaspoons salt and one-half teaspoon pepper. Stir with fork, turn into buttered pan, cover top with buttered crumbs and bake about one hour.

Oyster Salad.

Drain the liquor from the oy-sters, put them into hot vinegar and remain until they are plump but not cooked, then drop into cold water and let them remain until chilled. Cut oysters, chop pickles and celery and mix well, adding seasoning. Mix thoroughly with Mayonnaise dressing. Serve on let-tuce leaves, garnish with celery tips and hard-boiled eggs.

Creamed Oysters.

Take one-half cup oysters, three-fourths tablespoon butter, one table-spoon flour, one-half cup scalded milk, few grains of salt, pinch of pepper and a little celery salt. Wash and pick over oysters, then cook until plump and edges curl. Drain and add sauce made of the remaining ingredients. Put hot oy-sters into sauce and pour over slices of dry toast.

COMBINATION DISHES CONTAINING PRUNES

Many Other Articles of Food Combine Attractively With This Fruit.

Of all the dried fruits, prunes are probably the most popular. Modern cookery continues to increase their popularity through originating new dishes in which the fruit is used in combination with other articles of food.

Ordinary boxed prunes must be cleaned, soaked overnight and cooked in the water in which they were soaked, until the fruit is soft.

Here are some new prune recipes which the housewife on the lookout for delightful dishes will take pleasure in trying out.

Pineapple Prune Salad.

Wash and soak the prunes in cold water for several hours; drain and dry on piece of cheesecloth; split and remove the stones. Put four halves into individual molds and fill with the pineapple gelatin, which is made as usual. When firm, turn out on individual plates that have been covered with the lettuce; put one teaspoon of dressing on top of each.

Sautered Prunes.

For this breakfast or luncheon dish take 12 large prunes, 12 thin strips of bacon, three-fourths of a cup of toasted and buttered bread crumbs, one tablespoon grated rind and a few grains of salt.

Wash and soak prunes over night. With a sharp knife slit each prune and carefully remove stone. Add grated lemon rind and salt to the toasted buttered crumbs. Stuff prunes with this mixture and wrap each in a thin strip of bacon, fastening it with a toothpick. Saute in hot frying pan until bacon is a golden brown. Drain on brown paper and serve hot.

Prune Pudding.

Soak one-half pound prunes over night, then place over fire with enough water to cover; add four tablespoons sugar and simmer until tender. Drain off juice and set aside until needed. Stone and chop prunes. Beat yolks of three eggs, add prunes with two tablespoons sugar and three tablespoons chopped nut meats and when well blended fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into greased baking dish, bake one-half hour in moderate oven and serve immediately with cold sauce made of one and one-half cups cream, three tablespoons sugar, one-third cup prune juice and dash each of cinnamon, nutmeg and salt.

Prune Pie.

Cook prunes until tender and run them through food chopper. For each pie add one large apple chopped very fine, teaspoon of mixed cinnamon and nutmeg and allspice. Sweeten to taste and dot with butter. Add enough of the prune juice to make the consistency of mincemeat. Bake in two crusts.

MODERN COOKERY MAKES USE OF NUTS

Addition of Nut Meats Raises the Food Value of Dishes.

Modern cookery is endeavoring to incorporate into the daily food of the individual and of the family all the necessary foods that are needed to conserve health and build up a healthy people. Consequently, nuts which are rich in nutritive value are being used with many other articles of food in making combination dishes. Recipes for several of these dishes follow:

Pecan Gems.

Pecan breakfast gems, with fruit and coffee, are a simple but nourishing breakfast. To make the gems, sift a teaspoon of baking powder into one and a half cups of flour, add one egg, a cup of milk and a teaspoon of salt and beat for five minutes; then add two cups of rolled or ground pecan nuts. Bake in hot gem pans and sprinkle nuts over the tops before putting them into the oven. This makes a dozen gems.

Potatoes With Nuts.

Select large potatoes, scrub them well, then cut them in halves lengthwise and bake them in a hot oven. When done scoop out the pulp, mash it very thoroughly, and season it well, adding to each pint of pulp one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, a tablespoonful of butter, enough rich milk or cream to moisten slightly—about half a cupful—and also half a cupful of chopped nut meats, preferably walnuts or pecans. Heap the pulp into the shells, lay a thin slice of bacon on each and place in a hot oven to crisp and brown.

Nut Muffins.

To make these dainty muffins take two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, three-fourths cup nut meats, one egg, one cup milk or water and two tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add chopped nuts, unbeaten egg, milk or water and liquid fat. Mix thoroughly and quickly, keeping spoon on bottom of bowl and stirring in ever-widening circles. Pour into well-greased muffin tins and bake in a hot oven 20 minutes.

Almond Soup.

This is a company soup which is made of one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon cornstarch, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half quarts chicken, veal or fish stock, one cup cream and two ounces of almonds.

Cream butter, flour and cornstarch well. Add hot stock, stirring constantly; let boil five minutes. Add cream and finely chopped almonds. Serve hot.

Almond Pie.

Take six ounces of blanched almonds, six tablespoons powdered sugar, two eggs, unbeaten, four tablespoons melted shortening, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon orange flower water, two eggs beaten separately, four tablespoons coffee extract.

Grate almonds; add to the two unbeaten eggs and sugar. Then add melted shortening, cinnamon and orange flower water. Beat together the two beaten egg yolks and two stiffly beaten whites. Add coffee extract. Beat again. Combine mixtures and fill unbaked crust. Bake 40 minutes in hot oven. For glaze, cook to boiling point two tablespoons sugar and one tablespoon water. Serve cold.

Chestnut Muffins.

Chestnut muffins are equally delicious. Boil one quart of chestnuts, shell and rub them through a sieve. Add a level teaspoon of salt, the yolks of two eggs beaten with half a cup of milk and half a cup of flour sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. Fold in the well-beaten whites of the eggs last. Bake in hot greased gem pans.

Dressed-Up Crackers.

Marshmallows are useful for making delicious but inexpensive little cakes and cookies appropriate for afternoon party refreshments. An ordinary vanilla water topped with a nut-sprinkled marshmallow and browned in the oven makes a very partified little cake at slight expense. Another dainty cake is made by taking slightly sweetened, crisp crackers, spreading them lightly with butter and topping them with nuts. Then atop the nuts put a marshmallow with a bit of candied pineapple lightly pressed into it. Put these cakes into the oven until the candy browns and melts somewhat. Neither of these cookies should be kept long before serving. They are much better if served very soon after they are made.

Prune Whip.

Dissolve a package of Jello in a pint of boiling water. Prepare one cup of prune pulp. When the Jello is cold and slightly thick, whip it to the consistency of whipped cream; add the prune pulp and two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar. Garnish with prunes, cut in half, pit removed, and one-half English walnut meat inserted in each half. Serve with whipped cream.

Stuffed Celery.

Crisp 12 celery stalks in ice box. Blend one cup crushed pineapple, one-half cup fine-chopped nuts and one cream cheese with one small can deviled ham. Use enough mayonnaise to handle easily. Season with salt and tobasco, if desired. Stuff celery stalks with mixture.

BLADES WILL UNDERGO OPERATION TO CORRECT INJURY TO KNEE

HIS BASEBALL CAREER RESTS ON OUTCOME

Cardinal Outfielder Hurt in August Chasing Fly Ball, Spent Rest of 1926 Season on the Bench.

Roy Blades, regular left-fielder of the World's Champion Cardinals, is to undergo an operation on his knee next week to correct the ailment which kept him out of the game during the latter part of last season and out of the World Series. Upon the outcome of the operation depends, probably, whether there is a chance for Blades to play again.

Blades was injured Aug. 17, at Sportsman's Park, when chasing a fly ball that crashed against the left field fence. In turning for a desperate leap after the ball, Blades wrenched his knee. The cartilages in the knee were torn and Blades had to be carried off the field. He tried to return to duty later but the knee would not support him and the Cardinals had to finish the pennant race with Holm and Hafey, substitutes, in left field.

After the world series physicians advised Blades that the long rest during the winter might restore the knee's efficiency, but when Blades failed to note any improvement he asked for an examination.

Means Much to Cardinals.

At the consultation today, it was decided that an operation was necessary to bring the knee back to its normal strength If this is possible it will be a big help to the Cardinals, as Blades is rated as one of the best left fielders in baseball. If it is found that an operation will be of no help, the Cardinals in 1927 will have to worry along with some other man in the left garden.

Blades has been a regular with the Cardinals since the fall of the 1922 season. He swatted .300 his first year up, then fell to .246, but since that time has not been out of the select circle.

Originally an infielder, Blades was a poor outfielder when he was first used in the outer gardens. However, he developed fast and when he was forced out last fall, he was rated as one of the leading left fielders in the National League.

Ozark Club Has Ambitious Plans

Clubhouse to Combine Athletic and Social Features—Membership Growing Daily.

The membership enrollment of the newly organized Ozark Athletic Club is increasing daily according to tsatement by E. H. Riddle, secretary of the organization committee. The program of the Ozark Club involves the purchase of a site, three of which have been considered thus far; all three being on Kingshighway boulevard, and the erection of a clubhouse equipped with all appurtenances found in the most exclusive athletic clubs in America.

The plans provide for a building with about 200 sleeping rooms with tubs and showers, assembly halls for conventions, private theatricals, musicales, lectures, dancing and banquets, ballrooms, lounges, card rooms, radio room, billiard rooms and bowling alleys.

Plans also provide for a complete gymnasium equipped for handball, squash, basketball, indoor golf, indoor baseball, fencing, wrestling, boxing, running track, gymnastic parapherialia and lacker rooms. A regulation size swimming pool large enough to hold national contests and equipped with seats for spectators is planned. Private dining rooms and a roof garden will occupy the top floor.

As is being done in all finer eastern, extreme western and southern athletic clubs, the plans of the Ozark Club provide for one entire floor being set aside for women.

Many prominent St. Louisans are affiliated with the new club. The officers and directors of the Ozark Club are: President, John C. Phelan; Vice President, Joseph S. Casey; Secretary, Robert W. Knapp; Treasurer, Ed. G. Lasar; E. J. Russell; Edmond Koeln, Collector of the Revenue, St. Louis; Theodore Lucks; John W. Thomsen; John W. Rowan, secretary Organization Committee; E. H. Riddle.

The club has opened downtown headquarters in charge of Riddle at 525 Central National Bank Building.

EIGHTY CANDIDATES OUT FOR BILLIKEN JUNIORS

The St. Louis University High School shows promise of producing a fine basket ball team this year. With more than 140 recruits out for the various teams and approximately 80 out for the High School team, Coach Stanton certainly has his hands full for the first few days. This crowd of 80 has now decreased to about 35.

The only veterans on the squad are Charlie Dawson, Charlie Wetmore and Russell Tuffli. The Billiken Juniors have an able captain in Wetmore, who played standing guard during the last season.

Disruption of Big Three May Prove Good for Game

Coaches Hereafter Will Be Forced to Prepare Elevens for Games With Outside Scheols, Instead of Focusing on Two Final Battles of Campaign.

By Lawrence Perry.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—At least one excellent result of the disruption of the Big Three may be the re-establishment of the prestige of Yale, Princeton and Harvard football throughout the country. In all sections the three institutions are highly influential. They draw students from the North, East, South and West and graduates of the institutions are numbered among the countries' most important citizens.

The splendid football tradition of this ancient trio is respected and cherished not only by the far-flung alumni but by all who love the background of football.

At the same time, the Big Three was a close corporation whose ultimate aim was success in the November series. Elevens were coached and trained solely with these culminating games in view. Teams of other colleges encountered in so-called preliminary contests were taken in the normal stride of development. This was very well in days when knowledge of football was pretty completely in possession of Princeton, Yale and Harvard.

Big Three Monopoly Waned.

But as the game developed, the Big Three monopoly in superior playing ability waned, the time came when the trio began to experience defeat. They accepted their beatings in a praiseworthy spirit, made no alibis and left their friends to point to the obvious fact that they were not being prepared for October games.

The fact remained nonetheless that the prestige of the Big Three football throughout the country suffered cumulatively as season after season some outside rival, large or small, administered defeat.

Now there are those who maintain that the average Yale, Harvard or Princeton team, when it attains its peak, say in mid-November, is able to meet any eleven in the country on even terms, or that at least one or two of the trio year in and year out is thus equipped. The writer is inclined to share this opinion. From a technical standpoint there is no better or more careful coaching in the various positions than the Big Three has been receiving, since year in and year out they receive the pick of the players developed by the great preparatory schools of the country, schools wherein the grade of football is on a par with the minor college games the material ought to be, in fact, is, as good as any material anywhere.

What the Records Show.

How worthy the Big Three elevens in November have been in the average, a study of the records of other teams will give a reason why in the past Yale, Harvard and Princeton football was regarded more highly throughout the country than its present status.

The following compilation will show the reason for this:

In 1916 Yale was soundly trounced by Brown and Harvard defeated by Tufts and Brown. In 1917 and 1918, war years, no football.

In 1919 Yale was defeated by Boston College and Princeton by Colgate and West Virginia.

In 1920 Yale lost to Boston College.

In 1921 Princeton lost to the Navy and to Chicago, Harvard lost to Centre College.

In 1922 Yale lost to Iowa and Harvard lost to Brown.

In 1923 Princeton lost to Notre Dame and Harvard to Brown and Dartmouth.

In 1925 Yale lost to Pennsylvania, Princeton to Colgate, and Harvard to Holy Cross and Dartmouth.

In 1926 Yale lost to the Army, Brown and Maryland; Harvard to Geneva, Holy Cross and Brown, and Princeton to the Navy.

To sharpen these records down to a point that will be felt, the Big Three in the past 10 years has won but one game when pitted against an outside opponent of equal rating in respect to size and national prominence not only as an educational institution, but as to football prestige.

Princeton Beat Chicago.

This solitary victory was won by Princeton over Chicago in 1922. Otherwise, on the few occasions when any one of the trio has ventured to take on an opponent of standard excellence, or one that was enjoying a single season of brilliance, as Dartmouth in 1925, that result has been disastrous.

There are many alumni of the Big Three who will be glad that the organization has perished if it leads Yale, Harvard and Princeton to arrange games against important elevens of the country and to employ all their resources toward winning these contests.

An almost immediate result of the break between Princeton and Harvard was the agreement of the Tigers and Ohio State to play a game in 1927, a contest which is more than likely to result in arrangements for games in the following years, or a two-year contract with Pennsylvania.

There is such a thing as being too narrow, and the writer suspects that Yale, Harvard and Princeton have been open to this criticism. If the disruption of the Big Three results in the attachment of rivalry with other important elevens, a steady rivalry that will go on season after season with teams adequately prepared for play—then it will be a good thing for football.

Londos Defeats Daviscourt After Losing a Fall

Greek Heavyweight, Pinned After 8½ Minutes, Takes Next Two Falls.

Jimmy Londos, Greek heavyweight wrestler, defeated Dick Daviscourt of California two falls out of three in the feature bout of last night's Coliseum mat program. More than 6000 spectators saw Londos, handicapped by his opponent's weight advantage of 23 pounds, wear down the larger man for successive falls after Daviscourt's persistent headlock attack gave him the first fall in eight and a half minutes.

The Californian opened the bout with five headlocks, from each of which Londos had difficulty in escaping. On the fifth, the Greek attempted to turn tables with a flying bodyhold, but met with mishap when Daviscourt's greater weight allowed him to reverse it and pin Londos for the fall.

Second Fall in a Hurry.

Londos gained the second fall with a flying mare after an hour and 13 minutes. The smaller man began to assume the aggressive more as the match continued, forcing Daviscourt to abandon his bull-like tactics and take the defensive. After a punishing application of Londos' pet hold, the short-arm scissors, the smaller man whirled Daviscourt to the mat.

Daviscourt's headlock attempts in the third period were easily disposed of by the active Londos, and after a series of body-holds, which sent Daviscourt rolling across the ring, Londos went into position for another flying mare. The fall came after 10 minutes of wrestling.

Jones Makes a Hit.

Paul Jones of Los Angeles won the enthusiastic approval of the crowd by his work against Roy Steele, former "unknown" of Lloyd Carter. Jones, who was roundly applauded when he left the ring after a 36-minute victory over Steele, showed a fine knowledge of leverage holds. He pinned Steele for the fall with a combined scissors and armlock.

John Maxos, Greek, defeated Henry Webber of Milwaukee, in the curtain-raiser. Maxos gained the fall after eight minutes with a series of flying body-holds, which proved too much for Webber. The men are heavyweights.

NEW YORK BOXING BODY WILL NOT ASK WALKER TO TACKLE FLOWERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The New York State Athletic Commission is not going to concern itself over forcing Mickey Walker to give Tiger Flowers a chance in 90 days or 90 years, for that matter.

The fathers maintain that they have naught to do with a private agreement made in another State, and which only Jack Kearns, Mickey Walker, Walk Miller and Flowers.

The agreement between Kearns and Miller seems to be this:

Doc told Walk that he'd put up a forfeit of $65,000 as a guarantee that Mickey would fight the Parson within 90 days if the decision was close or thereabouts. According to some of the squawks that have come from Chicago way, the decision was thereabout.

Now Miller insists on the bargain being fulfilled. It was stipulated in that bargain that the fight take place in New York. That is why the Tiger's manager wants to pass the buck up to the fathers, and the fathers are going to pass it right back again.

Therefore at its meeting the fathers will take no action in the matter. If Miller and the Tiger have made a bad bargain, that's their business.

PATE WON NINE GAMES, DIDN'T COMPLETE ONE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—Few pitchers in the history of major league baseball have enjoyed as unusual a season as did Joe Pate, making his big league debut with Philadelphia last year.

Joe won nine games for the Athletics, even though he didn't pitch a complete game. He started only one battle; the rest of the season he was used in relief roles entirely. Pate managed to break into 47 ball games for Mack.

BILLIKEN SQUAD HONORED AT BANQUET

St. Louis University football players and coaches were honored guests at the annual Billiken banquet at the American Annex last night. Bob Matthews, athletic director, named the men recommended for letters, which will be awarded to the players at a "letter day" ceremony in the new gymnasium.

The players named by Matthews are: Capt. Kahle, Braeckel, Knight, Stampfli, Crecelius, Babka, Butler, Browning, Jordan, Kearns, Kennedy, Feld, Denvir, Dirnberger, Downey, Hanratty, Sweeney, Mueller, Tison, Kane, student manager, and Neenan, cheer leader.

The following freshmen were recommended for numerals: Brury, Daubner, Cronk, P. J. Cornell, Kaufman, McDonald, Gusosky, Lamb, Miller, Brown, Schwartz, Breen, Corcoran, Kinsella, Davidson, Flynn, Lintzenich, Parilla, Richardson, Eaton, Joyce, Franz, Titus, Cornell, Decker and Greathouse.

Tunney Downed Madden In Second Round of Bout and Finished Him in Third Champion Pays Tribute to Bartley's Craft and Gameness — Something About Gene's Friends in Hollywood.

By Gene Tunney,
World's Heavyweight Champion.

CHAPTER XXVII.

IT was Bartley Madden, one of the gamest men in ring history, who tipped me off that Harry Wills was a false alarm. Wills tried to batter Madden into submission, but failed miserably After that, I knew that Wills was merely a loud threat, a man of ordinary ring ability who worked himself into a "contendership" position by keeping up a great ballyhoo.

Gene Tunney

I challenged Wills formally, but Wills dodged me. He was shooting, apparently, for a large loser's end of a bout with Dempsey. Such a bout would have drawn a huge gate. But Madden exploded the Wills bubble, insofar as I was concerned, and it remained for Jack Sharkey of Boston to put the finishing touch to the fangless Black Panther recently in the Brooklyn Baseball Park.

Wills had but one ability, and that was to hold and hit. He got away with it against Firpo. He got away with it with nearly everyone until he hooked up with a referee, Patsy Haley, who has a mind and a will of his own. Then he flopped like last summer's black bass.

Madden never had been knocked out. We met in Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25, 1925. Madden for some years had been regarded as the "trial horse" of the heavyweights. He had been cut and bruised, but never once had gone down for the long count.

The Madden bout ended in the third round. I really had believed that Madden would give me a pretty tough fight. But I discovered in the first round that he was cut to order for me. He came out of his corner in a most threatening manner. I guess he thought he could bully me. In the second, and in a clinch, I got in an inside uppercut with my left. It dropped Madden.

Nine Count, Then Ten.

THE game old chap, however, jumped up and hurled himself on me. In the next round I planted a left hook on Bartley's former adamant chin. He took the count of nine. Then he attacked me furiously I stepped aside as he charged and let my right go. It connected and then I followed with a left hook, the same punch with which I sunk Charlie Weinert. Bartley was gone for keeps this time. He was revived after five minutes of hearty work by his seconds.

I weighed 186 pounds for this fight. I left town with Bartley Madden saying:

"You are the man who will whip Dempsey."

I went to Hollywood for three months. I spent nine weeks of this time in making pictures—and what is more important, in making new friends. I really enjoyed the picture work and in my case it did not hurt my eyes or affect me adversely in any way

I lived at the Hollywood Athletic Club, where I was given gymnasium space in which to do my daily training. I had to be on the lot at 7:45 o'clock each morning It took an hour for me to make up. My hardest job was learning how to wear a monocle.

Among my dearest friends out there were Bill Russell, the motion picture actor, and James Thorpe an old buddy of mine. You know, Bill was a chaplain overseas, and when he returned to America, he decided—and I believe rightly—that the medium of motion pictures would spread the message that he has to give the world.

I do not think I am the world's best actor, so I do not intend to bore my readers with a lot of balderdash concerning my short career in the movies. I will say, however, that as a class, motion picture actors are real people, generous to a fault and clean. Where Hollywood and the motion picture professions have been harmed at times by the thoughtless acts of a very few persons, I found that the mass of the actors are right with the world.

Bill Russell headed a delegation of my Hollywood friends and saw me whip Dempsey I do not know how many motion picture stars were there, but I saw enough of them to make me feel at home.

ILLINOIS HAS HAD NOTHING BUT TROUBLE WITH ITS REFEREES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. — One-man boxing decisions have brought nothing but trouble to the Illinois Athletic Commission, Paul Prehn, one of the two members said today, in explaining the rule adopted providing for two judges at future ring shows.

"Veteran ring men," he said, "persuaded us to adopt the system of judging bouts by the one man in the ring. They argued that the referee would take such pride in his work that he would be pretty near right in every decision and would not be influenced by outside pressure.

"But we have been having troubles with referees ever since we started. On nearly every card there have been some distasteful decisions, much to the disgust of fight fans who, from much watching of ring battles, have come to be pretty good critics, too.

"In the bouts which I have seen in the East, decided by two judges, the decisions generally have been correct as I saw them and I never had any complaint to make of their rulings. The only care that need be taken in the selection on the judge is that he be unprejudiced, and knows boxing. The use of judges does not lessen the work of the referee."

La Barba Offered $20,000 to Meet Indiana Boxer

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.

FIDEL LA BARBA of Los Angeles last night was offered $20,000 to defend his flyweight championship against Ernie Peters, Chicago 112-pounder, here in February. La Barba will engage Elky Clark in a title match in New York, Jan. 20.

Peters, an Indiana youth, has won much popularity in Chicago rings.

Announcement On Bears-Tigers Due Tomorrow

Dr. Brooks Has Written to Chancellor Hadley Regarding Missouri Attitude.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 10.—Announcement of whether or not Missouri and Washington Universities will meet on the gridiron in 1927 will probably be made some time tomorrow, C. L. Brewer, Tiger director of athletics, said after an hours' conference with Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the university. Dr. Brooks is writing today to Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley, and no announcement will be made until he has had time to hear from the Washington executive, it is understood.

Brewer spent yesterday in St. Louis in conference with Chancellor Hadley.

Chancellor Hadley said that he was anticipating a reply from Missouri University authorities after his conference with Brewer yesterday. The letter from Dr. Brooks had not been delivered early this afternoon.

Hughie Jennings Airs Grievances Against Owners

McQuade and Stoneham Cut Him Off Payroll When He Became Ill, Veteran Says.

By the Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—Explaining why he withdrew as coach of the New York Giants, Hughie Jennings says he was shunned while ill by Judge Francis X. McQuade and Charles Stoneham, owners of the club.

"The day that I went into a nervous breakdown caused principally because I overexerted myself in an effort to give the New York National League team every ounce of energy I had in my system in 1924 and 1925 while Manager John J. McGraw was ill," said Jennings, "Judge Francis X. McQuade and Charles Stoneham, owners of the Giants, absolutely deserted me, cut me off the payroll and from that day to this never directly asked me by wire or letter or word of mouth how I felt.

"Those two men, along with their secretary, Jim Tierney, shunned me in every way, and proved to me that they are unfit for me to have any dealings with, and therefore, I am through with the Giants, much as I would like to go back to mingle with my real friend, John McGraw, manager of the club, who stuck with me all the way through and did all he could to assist me in my recovery.

"I can't help but remember that the owners of the Giants absolutely forgot all that I had done in excess of what my contract and remuneration called for in 1924 and 1925 when they were left in a hole through the disability of one of the greatest baseball leaders the game has ever known, John J. McGraw. They cast me aside as one who would be of no further use to them, and therefore are not entitled to any consideration."

Slagle, Princeton's Greatest Player

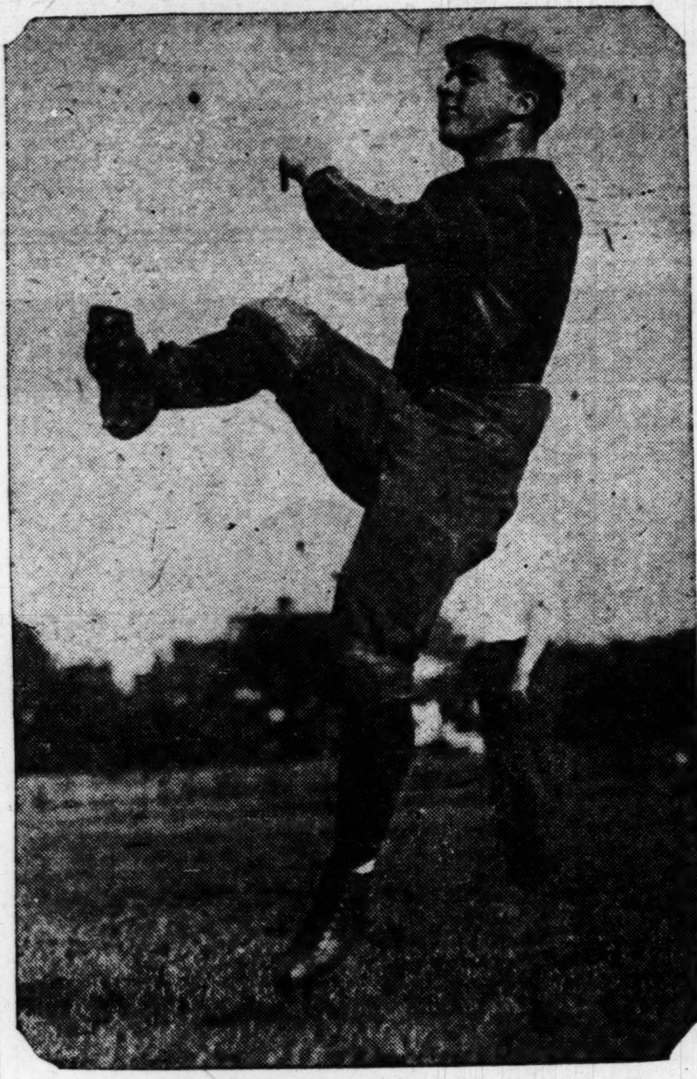
His Work Against Harvard Proved It

With Leg Injury Keeping Him Out of Practice, He Said Excitement of Game Would Enable Him to Play.

CHAPTER XIII.

"MY 25 YEARS ON THE GRIDIRON."

By W. W. "Bill" Roper.



JAKE SLAGLE

IT IS A very difficult job for any football coach to pick the greatest player he has ever trained. It is particularly hard for me to do so because I have had the good fortune to coach so many sterling players.

Before the Harvard-Princton game this year, I knew it would have been impossible for me to have selected any one man as the outstanding player of my coaching experience but after watching Jake Slagle in that game, I am convinced I will not slight anyone by selecting him as the greatest player I have coached at Princeton.

For the past three years, Slagle has given some remarkable performances but I think his play against Harvard was the most wonderful I have ever seen, in view of his physical condition and his lack of practice.

Slagle played exactly 40 minutes before the Harvard-Princton game. He went into the Amherst game on Oct. 2 and played one half. The following week he went away on a trip to the Delaware Water Gap with the Senior Class in geology. He returned to Princeton from this trip Friday before the game against Washington and Lee. He played about 10 minutes in this game and the next morning he limped into the training quarters hardly able to walk.

* * *

Sent to Specialist.

AS SOON as Keene Fitzpatrick saw Slagle's condition, he sent him to Baltimore to consult a specialist. He stayed at Johns Hopkins' Hospital for about 10 days and when he returned to Princeton his leg was far from well. He didn't get into a football suit until Wednesday before the Harvard game and Thursday afternoon he ran through signals for the first time in several weeks. He had a very perceptible limp and when we left for Boston there was considerable doubt in everyone's mind whether Slagle would be able to play at all.

I asked him the day before the game whether he thought he was in condition to play and he said he would like to start as he felt in the excitement of the game he would forget about his injury. When we got to the Harvard stadium Friday for practice, his knee seemed better and he punted and passed with all his old accuracy.

Slagle's play, when one considers his injury, was really remarkable. He played the entire first half and all but five minutes of the second. He punted beautifully though he had not knicked behind the line for five weeks. He completed a majority of his passes and he gained more ground than any other Princeton man in the backfield. His defensive work was on a par with his offensive play.

* *

Marvels at Grit.

AS I watched him on the field, I marveled at his grit and endurance. It is a mystery to me how he ever lasted through the game as he did. He kicked a goal from the field from the 30-yard line and made possible Dan Caulkin's touchdown from a triple pass by a remarkable bit of interference. The entire Harvard team realized Slagle's ability and watched him as they watched no one else on the field all afternoon, yet seldom if ever when he was given the ball, did he fail to gain. In spite of his physical condition, he was easily the star of the day. His play didn't suffer in comparison with his remarkable performance at New Haven the year before when he gained 185 yards from scrimmage by his individual efforts with the ball.

It is a rare player, particularly a running back, who can overcome the obstacles Slagle did in this game. He was exhausted between the halves, yet came out on the field in the second half and gave his best exhibition of open field running.

One of the first things he said to me after the game was that he hoped he would be ready for the Yale game the following Saturday. This was too much to expect, however. One of the greatest regrets in my coaching career was to have to regretfully admit that his leg was in such shape that it would be a stark impossibility for him to play in the Yale game.

Duluth Battler Defeats Butch In 10 Rounds

Morris Decisively Outpoints Local 126-Pounder—Ketchel and Nelson Draw.

George Butch, St. Louis 126-pounder and one of the best in the division developed here in recent years, was clearly outpointed by "Battling" Morris of Duluth, Minn., in the 10-round feature bout of the show at the Avenue Theater, East St. Louis, last night. About 700 persons witnessed the battle, which was the scheduled feature of a four-bout program.

Butch's bobbing and swaying style proved ineffective against Morris. The Duluth boxer landed hooks and uppercuts at will. Butch rallied in the last two rounds, but could not overcome Morris' early advantage.

In the six-round semi-windup, George Ketchel and Digger Nelson of Granite City went to a draw in what proved the best battle of the evening. Each boxer was floored on two occasions.

Jimmy Dugan and Red Byrd went six rounds to a draw, while Morris Michelson knocked out Nathan Wolfe in the third round in the other matches.

ANOTHER $15,000 PRIZE IS OFFERED FOR CATALINA SWIM

By the Associated Press.

LAS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Prize money for the Santa Catalina Island swim to be held next month may be increased $15,000, William Wrigley Jr., announced yesterday in offering a special woman's award for the event.

Wrigley already has hung up $25,000 for the swim and should a woman take first money this will be the only prize. In event a man places first, the $15,000 will be given the first woman to reach the mainland in the swim from the island.

Mrs. Clemington Corson, of New York, who was the second woman to swim the English channel, suggested the arrangement declaring that a good woman swimmer could not be expected to compete on even terms with good men swimmers.

Perry's All-Star Selections to Be Published Sunday

LAWRENCE PERRY'S All-America football selections, which will be published in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, are unique in that Mr. Perry personally saw in action every player he has placed on his team.

During the 1926 season Perry traveled 12,000 miles, visiting every section of the country and none of his choices is based on second-hand information.

DUTCH COMMITTEE IS WORKING ON OLYMPICS

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Dec. 10.—The organizing committee of the Dutch Olympic committee already has begun its work toward arrangements for the housing of visitors who are expected to come to Amsterdam for the games in 1928.

The organizing committee has opened a central housing office at 32 Weesperzyde, Amsterdam. Here all the available housing accomodations will be centralized and information concerning housing possibilities dissiminated.

Delaney Defends Honors Tonight

Lightheavy Champion Faces Jamaica Kid in 15-Round Bout.

By the Associated Press.

WATERBURY, Conn., Dec. 10.—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport tonight will take part in his first bout since he won the light heavyweight championship from Paul Berlenbach last July. He will meet Jamaica Kid of New York in a 15-round bout, and his title will be at stake. Jamaica Kid has been working out here since Tuesday and is reported in excellent shape.

Reports from Bridgeport state that Delaney is having trouble making the required weight of 175 pounds.

Physiologist Has New Way To Hit Ball

Londoner Develops Scientific Method of Hitting Ball Without Moving the Feet.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Dr. Robert Blakoe, physiologist, claims to have developed a scientific method of hitting a golf ball without moving the feet.

He thinks the modern style is all wrong and has developed a theory of play that is revolutionary. Both feet must be planted firmly on the ground throughout a stroke, in his system. All waist and trunk muscles are employed.

Well-known professionals are going to take up his system, Dr. Blakoe asserts. The orthodox method of driving, he says, causes over-development of some muscles, under-development of others, and makes the golfer walk with his left foot turned in.

"Golfers have been content to play the game in precisely the same way as King James of Scotland, the inventor, played it," says Dr. Blakoe, "golf balls and clubs have been improved greatly, but the same old manner of hitting the ball is employed." He says if British golfers, boxers and other athletes are to wrest supremacy from America they must use scientific methods.

Blakoe differs from George Duncan, noted British professional and master stylist, who recently arrived in New York. Duncan claims that in the last analysis the soles of the feet hit a golf ball. The movements of the feet of outstanding golfers of today are an important part of their swings.

NATIONAL NET BODY WILL MEET SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—"Big Bill" Tilden, starting his drive back to tennis heights at the national indoor championships in New York, probably will be unable to sharpen his game at the Riviera tournaments in France, as he planned.

On Saturday the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association is expected to choose Feb. 13 and the week following as dates for the indoor classic, won last year by Rene Lacoste of France. The Riviera season is then at its height.

OHIO STATE SCHEDULES THREE 1926 CHAMPIONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—Three 1926 champions, one in the East and two in the Middle West, feature Ohio State's football card for 1927. The schedule is perhaps the most difficult an Ohio State eleven ever has had to face, since it calls for five big games on as many successive Saturdays, and three of the five are away from home.

The mythical champions for the season just ended who will oppose the Buckeyes next fall are Northwestern and Michigan, co-title-holders in the Big Ten, and Princeton, which dominated the "Big Three." The Northwestern game, to be played here, marks the reappearance of the Purple on the Ohio schedule after a lapse of 10 years, while the Princeton contest will be the first between a Buckeye eleven and any of the Big Three teams.

The schedule, as approved by Ohio State's athletic board, follows:

Oct. 1—Wittenberg.
Oct. 8.—Iowa at Iowa City.
Oct. 15.—Northwestern.
Oct. 22.—Michigan at Ann Arbor.
Oct. 29.—Chicago.
Nov. 5.—Princeton.
Nov. 12.—Denison.
Nov. 19.—Illinois.

Famous English Trainer Retires

By the Associated Press.

NEWMARKET, England, Dec. 10.

THE Hon. George Lambton, trainer for Lord Derby and other wealthy race horse owners, has retired. He is a brother of Lord Durham and for many years was himself an accomplished rider. Mr. Lampton during his career on the turf trained a winner for practically every big fixed racing event in England.

During the flat racing season just ended Mr. Lampton won more than 50 races with horses under his care. The money earnings of these animals was nearly $250,000. Mr. Lampton's principal patron, Lord Derby, finished second to Lord Woolavington in the list of winning owners for the season.

Minor Leagues Vote Against Winter Baseball

Players Will Not Be Allowed to Work at Their Profession After Oct. 31 Each Year.

By the Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 10.—Affairs of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues were turned over to President Mike H. Sexton and Secretary John H. Farrell when the annual meeting adjourned last night till the first Tuesday in December, next, at Dallas.

After the meeting of the National Association, the Board of Arbitration disposed of a number of cases.

W. H. Klepper, one time president of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League, suspended four years ago for life, was ordered restored to good standing Jan. 1. A. M. Jackson, president of the Salisbury club of the Eastern Shore League, was suspended from all connection with organized baseball for one year for making side agreements not included in the official contracts of players on his club.

Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting.

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the minor leaguers showed the largest attendance in the history of the National Association, officials said.

Commissioner K. M. Landis was indorsed for re-election "without curtailment of authority," and his administration praised. Landis said that, if re-elected, he would continue to deal impartially with club owners and players with an eye to the welfare of the public, to which baseball owes its existence.

Ballplayers must be more economical next summer, as they will not be permitted to work at their profession during the winter. Minor League players will not be allowed to play baseball after Oct. 31 each year.

The minor leagues will join in a movement to erect a memorial to Christy Mathewson at Saranac Lake, N. Y. A percentage of receipts from games in all leagues will be set aside for the Mathewson memorial fund.

Committee on Draft.

An effort by several leagues who wish to escape the provisions of the draft resulted in appointment of a committee to appear before the Advisory Council and seek authority to place before the major leagues a proposal to give leagues wishing exemption from the draft another chance.

Pro Elevens to Play.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — Winter weather hasn't cooled the enthusiasm of the professional football promoters. The New York Giants are booked for a post-season game with the Philadelphia Quakers, champions of the American League, next Sunday at the polo grounds. An automobile plough has cleared the snow off the gridiron for practice.

Red Sox Get Catcher.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The acquisition of Clifford Knox, catcher, from Wichita Falls, Tex., and the release of Frank Herrera, utility infielder, to the Mobile team is announced by the Boston Red Sox.

Fugazy Plans to Erect an Arena to Cost $6,000,000

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

PLANS to erect a sports arena costing between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 and rivalling Madison Square Garden as a scene of allround athletic activity were announced today by Humbert J. Fugazy, metropolitan promoter.

Fugazy said his building, to be erected in the business section of Brooklyn, will be ready for operation in a year.

Hoppe Increases Lead in Match With Matsuyama

Jap Star Trails, 2400 to 1351, in Match at 18.2 Balkline.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Willie Hoppe won two more blocks from Kinrey Matsuyama yesterday in their 3600-point 18.2 balkline billiard match, now in progress at the Strand billiard academy. The former champion took the afternoon game, 300 to 158, and captured last night's contest, 300 to 86.

It took Hoppe seven innings to complete his string in the afternoon tussle and only two innings in the night cap. A high run of 230 helped shorten the first game, while runs of 205 and 95 marked Hoppe's scoring in the block last night. Matsuyama's best run was 84, which he put together in the early game.

Hoppe is now leading his Japanese rival, 2400 to 1351.

Jasper Jack Wins Ty Cobb Trophy

Pointer Scores Victory in Georgia Amateur All-Age Stake.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Dec. 10.—Jasper Jack, a pointer, owned by D. R. Persons of Monticello, Ga., won the amateur all-age stake of the Georgia bird dog trials, decided here yesterday. The win carried with it the Georgia bird-dog championship and a leg on the Ty Cobb trophy, which was offered by the well-known baseball player back in 1919 and has been in competition ever since.

The second dog was the pointer, Invader, owned by J. K. Ottley of Atlanta, Ga. He not only ran the winner closely, but many were of the opinion that he should have won the stake.

Third in the stake was Mac's Buckeye Boy, owned by J. R. Wilcox of Albany, Ga. He also ran a good race, but while his work on game was good, in range and speed he was somewhat deficient. The new Georgia champion is a local dog and has never competed in major company before.

The Members' Derby was won by the setter, Joyeuse Boy Sealy, owned by J. K. Ottley of Atlanta. This dog was easily the class of the stake.

Schaefer Plans Tour of Europe

Balkline Star to Play in France Belgium, Germany and England.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Jake Schaefer, world's 18.1 balkline billiard champion and former king at 18.2 balkline, will sail for Europe next week to meet the billiard stars of France, Belgium, Germany and England in a two-month campaign abroad. His visit will be the first for any American star since Willie Hoppe won the world's 18.1 title from Maurice Vignaux in Paris in 1906.

Schaefer said that he might risk his world title while on the continent. Edouard Horemans, who once won the 18.2 title from Schaefer, only to lose it in a return match, is now playing in Belgium.

Matches also are in prospect with Roger Conti of France, former European champion, and Felix Grange, present holder of the 18.2 crown of Europe.

Schaefer lost his 18.2 world title to Eric Hagenlacher of Germany in Philadelphia last match.

Great Britain to Challenge for Cup

Indian Army Officers Likely to Play on Polo Team in 1927.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—For the first time in polo history, a team formed, mounted and practiced outside the British Isles seems destined to meet the United States in 1927 in a match for the historic Westchester cup, emblem of international polo supremacy. While a formal challenge for the trophy, last competed for in 1924, has not yet been received by the United States Polo Association, cable dispatches have made known the formation of a British team of Indian army officers.

No announcement relative to the match, believed destined for the Meadow Brook Club at Westbury, N. Y., can be made by the Polo Association until the formal challenge to resume the colorful series is received from the Hurlingham Club, governing body of British polo. Great Britain was overwhelmed in the last contest in 1924, witnessed by the Prince of Wales.

Advices from India indicate that six officers, to be chosen from a squad consisting of Majors Atkinson and Williams and Captains Dening, George, Anderson, Pert, Taylor and Alexander, will leave India for final practice in England in March. The ponies will be shipped to the United States early in May, with the team following in July.

ST. LOUIS MEN

Are Backed by the Largest Institution of its Kind!

THEY are all seasoned clothing men, and they are all selling BOND'S CLOTHES because they believe in them. They are not clerks. No indeed! Every man of them is really in business for himself, with Bond's Tremendous Resources back of him.

They are associated with the greatest institution of its kind; an organization including great modern factories and 22 immense stores in America's principal cities. In St. Louis, these men and their co-workers in other departments are "BOND'S." They solicit your patronage and promise a saving on your clothes.

BOND'S Overcoats AND TWO-PANTS SUITS

Bond's own factories make these fine clothes. They come directly to you at just one small profit. The result is a saving of $10 or more; whatever you select. Every Bond suit is a TWO-PANTS suit and there is no extra charge for the extra pair. Bond's overcoats are lined with Skinner's Guaranteed Satin.

What Were the Big Plays in the Last World Series ?

What was the best thing Babe Ruth did in the series?

What was O'Farrell's smartest play?

When did Manager Huggins exhibit his keenest strategy?

What was Lazarri's big mistake before Alexander struck him out?

Was Muesel's error in the deciding game excusable?

Was Hornsby justified every time he had Babe Ruth walked?

John McGraw will tell readers of the Sunday Post-Dispatch in a series of illustrated articles about each of the ten plays which influenced the final outcome. The articles will be illustrated with action photographs. Each of the installments will be presented in an entertaining, convincing and authoritative style.

BLE-BODIED BEGGARS FACE CHRISTMAS IN WORKHOUSE

Fines Sufficient to Hold Them Until After Holidays Assessed; Seven Now Detained.

Able-bodied beggars who infest downtown streets in their search for alms have the prospect of a Christmas in the City Workhouse under Police Judge Rosecan's current method of handling beggars and vagrancy cases.

Since Dec. 1 he has followed the practice of fining able-bodied beggars and vagrants a sufficient amount to hold them in the workhouse until the holiday season is over. So far seven men, under fines ranging from $50 to $150, have gone to the workhouse from his court which has jurisdiction over most of the downtown district.

Blind beggars and men otherwise disabled are being given different treatment under an agreement betwen th Polic Dpartment, th probation office and various charitable organizations. Blind beggars are not molested on the streets, but the others are being taken into custody with a view to investigating their cases, and, if they are really "hard up," referring them to the Bureau for Homeless Men for food, clothing, and in some cases financial aid.

COOLIDGE GRATIFIED WITH U. S. PROGRESS IN AVIATION

Expresses Appreciation of 5-Year Building Program in Message to Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Belief that the United States will lead all other nations in the development of aircraft for military and civil purposes by carrying out the American aviation program is expressed by President Coolidge in submitting to Congress the annual report of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

"Although it will take time to accomplish results under the air commerce act and the approved five-year aircraft building programs of the army and navy," Coolidge said, "it is gratifying to note the committee's opinion that America leads the world in the private ownership and operation of aircraft, is keeping pace with other nations in the technical knowledge of aircraft for military purposes, and has the technical knowledge at least to equal the commercial developments abroad.

"I concur in the committee's opinion that the development of commercial aviation on a sound business basis depends primarily upon the solution of the basic problems of reduction in cost and increase in safety, which are, in turn, in the last analysis, largely dependent upon the continuous prosecution of scientific research of the fundamental problems of flight.

"I believe that the American aviation program is sound in principle and when carried into effect will go far toward making America first in the development of aircraft for military and civil purposes."

WED 16 DAYS, SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. John Phillips Charges She Was Deserted.

Sixteen days after her marriage to John Phillips, a real estate dealer, of 1141 Lawn avenue, Mrs. Martha Schindler Phillips, of 3844 Westminster place, filed suit for divorce today, alleging general indignities.

Phillips, she says, left her Nov. 29, five days after their marriage. He is worth $75,000 and has an income of $850 a month, the petition alleges. Restoration of her maiden name and $100 a month alimony is asked. Both had been married before.

SYMPHONY EXPLAINS HISTORY OF THE DRUM

Slides Illustrate Its Progress at Special Concert for Children.

The history and development of the drum as a musical instrument, from its distant origin in the simple barbaric tom-tom to the intricate kettle-drum of the present-day orchestra, was the theme of the second program for young people, presented by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon yesterday.

The group of boys and girls, from private and parochial schools of the city and various county public schools that subscribed to blocks of tickets showed genuine interest in symphonic music. The concert will be repeated for another group next Thursday.

The "Academic Festival Overture," in which Johannes Brahms used German student songs, was the opening number, followed by the second movement of Beethoven's No. 1 Symphony, the first number of which was played at the last children's concert.

Half an hour was given to the drums, with 30 lantern slides illustrating various types of the instrument while Mrs. Agnes Moore Fryberger, educational director of the orchestra, gave the historic background.

Conductor Ganz introduced the drums of his orchestra—the tambourine, the snare drum, the war drum, the Indian drum which was used later in "Skilton's War Dance," and the kettle drums, or tympani, on which "Swanee River" was played.

Others numbers were the "Minuet" and "Farandole" from Rizet's "L'Arlesienne" suite, and "Vive L'Amour," sung by the children with the orchestra.

A series of five public school concerts provided by the Board of Education will begin Jan. 12, the first at Beaumont High School.

'TOMBSTONE NEVER HALF AS BAD AS LOS ANGELES'

Veteran Peace Officer Says So, in Deposition in Crabtree Estate Suit.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The good name of Tombstone, Ariz., was defended in a deposition read in Suffolk Probate Court yesterday, by the man who "arrested pretty nearly every man that done any killing there." The deponent was Myatt S. Earp of Los Angeles, Deputy Sheriff and United States Marshal at Tombstone during the 80's, and his testimony was introduced in support of the contention of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Cal., that she was a niece of the late Lotta Crabtree and entitled to a share in the former actress' $4,000,000 estate.

Earp declared that witnesses who have described Tombstone as a rough town were all wrong, and that in its wildest days it wasn't "half as bad as Los Angeles." In fact, he asserted, he could count all the killings on his fingers.

"The first man killed was Mike Killeen," he began. "Then City Marshal White. He was killed by Curley Bill. I arrested him and took him to Tuscon and put him in jail. Then the next man was killed by a man named Bradshaw. He killed his partner, McIntyre. Bradshaw had bought a kind of funny looking shirt, a red-striped shirt, and he went out in the street and everybody was making fun of it and saying, "Where did you get that shirt?" and he got hot over it and he says, 'The next man that kids me about this shirt I am going to kill.' The next man he met was his partner, and of course he said to Bradshaw, 'Where did you get that shirt?' and Bradshaw jerked out his gun and killed him. That's three. The next man killed was Storms, and he was killed by Rufe Short. That is four, and that's all except the Clanton-McClowry affair."

M. A. A. MEMBERS TO VOTE ON COUNTRY CLUB MERGER

Committee Is Named to Explain Proposal to Join With North Hills Organization.

A committee, to prepare for a vote by the membership of the Missouri Athletic Association on the proposal to absorb North Hills Country Club, was appointed by the board of governors of the M. A. A. last night. It comprises Charles H. McCrea, chairman; Walter L. Rathmann, William T. Mellow and L. A. Waltke.

It will present arguments for and against the merger to the membership and arrange for the vote to be taken. Financial details of the proposition have not been worked out. A special committee previously approved the idea, which is favored by many North Hills members also.

Bishop Praises Coolidge Views.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Approval of President Coolidge's views on prohibition enforcement expressed in his message to Congress was conveyed to the White House today by Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist board of public morals. Bishop McDowell also told the President the Federal Council of Churches had adopted a resolution approving his attitude and his legislative recommendations.

SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN ATTEND M'KINLEY FUNERAL

Services Are Held in Church Where His Father Was Pastor 60 Years Ago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 10.—In the church, where 69 years ago his father was installed as pastor, the last rites for United States Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois were held this afternoon.

The Rev. Bernard J. Brinkema, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church where the services were held, and the Rev. J. Walter Malone, pastor of the McKinley Memorial Church, officiated. President William M. Hudson of Blackburn College, Carlinville, Ilol., a close friend of the late Senator, made a short address.

About 40 United States Senators and Congressmen, numerous out-of-town delegations, including members of the Hamilton Club of Chicago, and friends from various cities throughout the state attended the services. Burial was in Mount Hope Cemetery where the body was placed beside the graves of Senator McKinley's father and mother.

Pallbearers were employes of the Illinois Traction System, all old friends of Senator McKinley who began working for him many years ago.

Two of the Senator's favorite hymns, "Father, What'er of Earthly Bliss," and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," were sung during the services by Mrs. Thomas E. O'Donnell of Urbana, with Dr. Theodore Bennett of the University of Illinois at the organ.

Business houses and the University of Illinois closed during the funeral.

AALCO SUGGESTS THE GIFT PRACTICAL
Instead of paying a few dollars for some useless gift to hang on the Xmas tree, why not buy one of our special Xmas Certificates?
Suggest this to the man of the house, who is not acquainted with the drudgery of wash day. Tell him that he can stop in at 3700 Olive and have one filled out for however much he wishes to make it. Better than that—let this paper lay where he can read it—maybe he will surprise you with a Certificate for Aalco service and carefree Mondays on Xmas Day. For particulars, phone us or ask our representative.

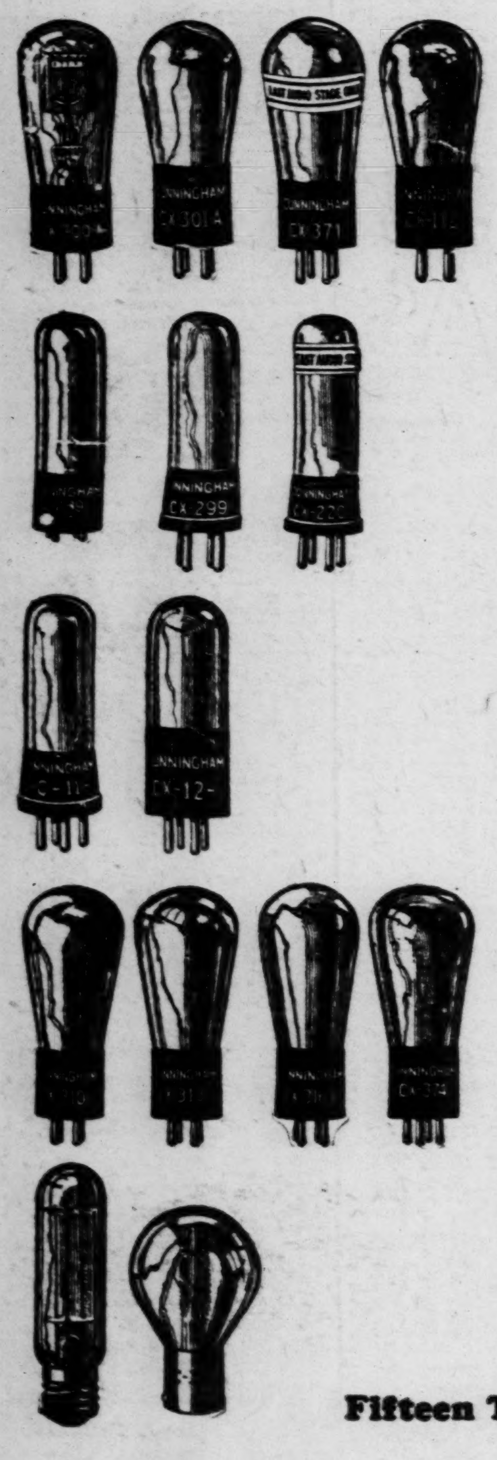
Cunningham 15 RADIO TUBES

FIFTEEN TYPES

each one designed to perform efficiently a definite and particular task in your receiver.

The correct Cunningham Radio Tube in each socket of your set will greatly improve your radio enjoyment—will result in clearer and sweeter tone quality, improved sensitiveness and selectivity, greater volume and minimum distortion.

Study each type—acquaint yourself with its specific use and value. Then consult your nearest Cunningham radio dealer—he will gladly check over your tube equipment and make certain you have the correct combination of Cunningham Radio Tubes to enable your receiver to render its utmost in tone quality and realistic reproduction.



15 TYPES

CX-300A, CX-301-A and CX-371 or CX-112, all with 5 volt filaments, in correct combination, will bring your receiver to its point of highest efficiency. CX-301A is the ideal radio tube for general purpose work and will serve you well in any or all sockets of your set. However, especially in 5 and 6 tube tuned radio frequency or neutrodyne receivers the best tube equipment will include our new super-sensitive detector, CX-300A, and one power amplifier to feed the loud speaker—either CX-371 or CX-112, with CX-301A, in all the remaining sockets. CX-371 is the latest and most efficient power type, but CX-112 is more adaptable to certain circuits. Adding the new Cunningham detector and a Cunningham power amplifier to your receiver will improve tone quality, increase volume and eliminate distortion. Your set will then meet the highest modern standards for excellence in broadcast reception.

CX-220 in combination with C-299 or CX-299 is the ideal Cunningham equipment for dry battery operated sets. C-299 and CX-299 serve the same purposes in dry cell receivers that the CX-301A does in storage battery sets. They are both general purpose tubes, differing only in their bases. CX-299 has the new standardized CX base while C-299 has the old style base designed for the sockets of the earlier types of dry cell receivers. CX-220 is a power amplifier for dry cell work and used in the last audio frequency stage in combination with CX-299 or C-299 will improve the tone and operation of any loud speaker.

C-11 and CX-12 are also general purpose tubes for dry cell circuits and vary only in their bases. These two tubes are especially suited to sets wherein filament battery space must be held to a minimum. These tubes are not as highly efficient as C-299 and CX-299, and have no power tube to supplement them.

CX-310 is a heavy duty power amplifier designed to operate heavy duty loud speakers.

CX-313, CX-316B are rectifier tubes to be used in connection with socket power devices, including "B" eliminators. These tubes insure smooth set operation direct from the house lighting circuit.

CX-374 is a glow tube used to regulate output voltage of "B" eliminators.

C-376, Ballast Lamp, connected in series with the primary of the transformer supplying "B" battery eliminators, maintains output voltage constant despite variations in line voltages.

CX-377, Protective Tube, protects your other tubes from burnouts through wrong "B" battery connection or short circuits. It is a form of insurance.

Eleven years of concentrated effort on a single product has brought such uniform perfection that confidence in these tubes and in the name they bear is almost universal among radio enthusiasts. The vigilance that has won for Cunningham Radio Tubes such nation-wide confidence is not and shall not be relaxed. Our reputation is by far our most valuable asset.

BERGDOLL TO MARRY SOON

Reconciled With Fiancee Following Charges Involving Young Girl.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American draft evader, has not the slightest intention of returning to America, according to Herr Frank, estate manager of the Weissenhof Sanitarium at Weineberg, Wuertemburg, where the wealthy American draft dodger is now living.

Bergdoll expects soon to marry Frank's daughter. They were engaged until charges in connection with a young Heidelberg girl were brought against him. Recently there has been a reconciliation.

119 MEN HELD AFTER POLICE RAIDS DISCHARGED TOGETHER

Judge Gayer Expedites Handling of Cases Against Suspects Arrested for Gambling.

Adopting a new method of handling suspects arrested by the police in night raids on pool rooms and saloons, Judge Gayer, in Court of Criminal Correction, today called 119 men before the bar at once and ordered them discharged.

"All who are charged with gambling, step up," the bailiff called after court had begun. About half the men in the courtroom crowded into the inclosure and heard the Court order them discharged. Later Judge Gayer explained that a gambling charge is put habitually against suspects taken in roundups against whom no more serious charge is to be found. They formerly had been called a few at a time to be discharged on the $200 bonds they are required to give.

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION URGES CURTAILMENT OF RADIO

Committee Suggests Legislation Empowering Closing of Hundreds of Stations.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Legislation authorizing thfe Secretary of Commerce or some commission to close hundreds of broadcasting stations is recommended in a report of the Air Law Committee of the American Bar Association. The committee believes the owners of the stations closed should be compensated for the material value of the plants and for their good will.

The report states that while there are 615 stations in the United States, 770 under construction and 110 contemplated, all of wavelengths from 200 to 600 meters, there are only 89 channels open to broadcasting.

The committee opposes any radio regulating act with antimonopoly provisions, believing that the Sherman and the Clayton acts afford sufficient protection. It criticises both the Dill and the White bills for radio regulation, but favors placing any new regulation in the hands of the Secretary of Commerce, proposed by the White bill.

SECRETARY WORK PAYS BILL FOR FEDERAL INQUIRY HIMSELF

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — Expenses incurred by a committee of five physicians in an investigation of conditions at St. Elizabeth's Hospital here have been made good from the personal pocketbook of Secretary Work.

Comptroller General McCarl had ruled that there was no Congressional authority for payment of the committee's expenses by the Government, although the inquiry had been requested by the Department of the Inerior. Each of the physicians received $180.

McClintock Will Ruling

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 10.—Relatives of the late William Nelson McClintock, whose will left an estate valued at $1,000,000 to his guardian, Attorney William Shephard, today were refused a hearing of their attempt to appeal probation of the will, by the Supreme Court. Last term of court held that if the will were properly attested, the lower court had no alternative, but must admit it to probate.

A New Principle not—just another Charger

THE ELKON TRICKLE CHARGER is as different from other "A" Battery Chargers as Radio Signalling from the smoke fires of the Indians.

It is so different that you no longer need worry about corrosive acids and alkalis, or water, fragile short-lived tubes or delicate moving parts. THE ELKON IS BONE DRY AND RIGIDLY SOLID, and operates without attention, noise or interference.

The Elkon AUTOMATICALLY charges your "A" batteries direct from alternating house current, regulating itself from maximum charge when your batteries are low, to zero when they are replenished to fullest efficiency.

It cannot overheat. Short circuiting cannot harm it. It will not overcharge. It has full wave economy of service, as well as the economy of an almost indefinite life.

Attach it to electric light socket and to your "A" batteries and turn it on. THAT IS ALL YOU HAVE TO DO. From then on the Elkon Trickle Charger keeps your "A" batteries charged for you.

Do you wonder that it has become the sensation of radio.

Operates on 105-120 volts A.C., 50-60 cycles.
(Supplied also for use with 105-120 volts 25-40 cycles, at a slightly higher price.)

and the finest musical reproduction —clear at any volume!

There is no finer instrument of musical reproduction today than this combination of Radiola 28 and RCA Loudspeaker 104.

It is clear-toned at any volume! It draws its current from the lighting socket, just plugged in. It is as simple to operate as it is remarkable in performance, for it is tuned in with a single finger!

For apartment houses

There are thousands of fine apartment homes where an antenna is impractical. There, Radiola 28, with its loop and no antenna, brings in far stations—tunes out powerful near ones, even in crowded cities—brings in the finest programs clearly.

Not so long ago, the performance of Radiola 28 with Loudspeaker 104 was headline news. Today—tried, tested and perfected—it has proved itself in thousands of homes. It is no longer news, except to the man who has not yet heard it—but it is still a headliner—still unsurpassed. It is the radio you want if you want the finest!

Convenient terms

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

J. C.—We cannot solve arithmetic problems or puzzles in this column.

A. A.—The silver quarter dated 1804 is worth from $1.50 to $5, depending on the condition of the coin.

QUESTIONER. — Consult the Public Library reference department or the Board of Education for the information you desire regarding junior high schools.

R. F.—The term S mint means that the money was coined in the San Francisco mint. A tiny letter on the coin indicates the mint where it was made.

H. B.—Firms having home envelope-addressing work to offer usually advertise for addressers in the classified want ad columns of the daily papers.

MRS. LEE. — Your questions were answered in this column on Oct. 13, 16 and 20, under the name of Mrs. Ree. You may consult the papers at the Public Library.

F. P.—Your questions appear to be school work that you should answer for yourself. Debate material may be found at the Public Library on the subject in which you are interested.

READER. — Experimentation with the stove drafts, the chimney and the kind of fuel used is all we can suggest about your smoky stove, without knowing the kind of a stove you use, and similar details.

ANXIOUS.—You might write to the Adjutant-General, United States Army, Washington, D. C., for information about the regiments in which you are interested.

DINTY.—All wood absorbs some water. The wood substance itself appears to be absorbent so any modification of the wood substance might change the amount of absorption but would not stop it entirely.

MISS M. C. L.—You should carry a bridal bouquet or wear a corsage whether you wear a veil or not. The photograph of the wedding party can be taken regardless of whether the veil is worn or not.

R. R.—Inquire at the Chamber of Commerce about positions in foreign countries or business opportunities. You might also consult the various foreign consuls that are listed in the classified section of the telephone book.

MRS. B. C. A.—You might try to obtain home work from some of the public stenographers listed in the classified section of the telephone directory, registering with the free or commission employment agencies listed in the directory, and watching the want ads for work of the kind you can do. Perhaps you could obtain work from some of the small shops or stores in your vicinity that might need help with their bookkeeping or letters.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

IGNORANT. — The interest on Liberty Loan bonds is not generally exempted from income tax.

ANXIOUS.—If you cannot find a will or prove that a will was made you have very little hope of getting anything from the estate after so much time has elapsed.

READER.—You should write to the Congressman in the district in which you reside regarding the pension notice card received by your mother.

W. H. E.—You can examine the Missouri Supreme Court records for the period in which the decision might have been made or you can have a lawyer investigate for you.

P.-D. READER. — Marriage license records are public records and those issued in St. Louis are published in the newspapers. Licenses obtained some distance from St. Louis are rarely published in the St. Louis papers.

WORRIED. — You can sue the other woman for alienation of your husband's affections if she has any money or property against which you might get judgment. Unless you could collect some money or acquire some belongings of hers the suit would cost you more than it might be worth. She cannot legally claim any of your husband's money or property, though she might try to blackmail him into giving her some money.

LEON.—If you were a minor at the time you bought the coat, you may have a good defense to the suit against you. Of course, a coat bought three years ago would not be worth the purchase price now but you thought it was worth that price when you contracted to buy the coat. If you cannot effect a compromise with the clothing company consult the Legal Aid Bureau, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets, for advice.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

M. D.—Consult Miss Marion, Social Service Director, City Hospital, regarding a reduction in charges for your hospital care.

B. H. M.—St. Anne's Maternity Hospital, Union and Page boulevards, and the Bethesda Hospital, Grand boulevard and Vista avenue, take partial payment maternity cases. Most of the larger hospitals maintain wards to care for patients who are not able to pay full charges for hospital care.

L. B. B.—A person suffering as your husband does and taking the treatments that he has taken for so many years should be under the direct care of a specialist in such diseases. However, he can receive free treatment at the Venereal Clinic, Room 35, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

MR. B. L. W.—Your description of your case is not very clear. Write again, giving details of the location of the pain, duration, frequency and your general health. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you desire to have us recommend a heart specialist to you.

MRS. A. N. B.—While the crooked breastbone might not be a serious matter, yet we think you had better have the boy examined to determine whether or not the condition might cause him trouble later in life. The old injury may have broken a rib which healed crookedly and so caused the lump.

P. H.—Try taking 5-grain cystogen tablets in doses of one tablet dissolved in half a glass of water before or between meals for the bladder condition. Discontinue eating meat and drinking tea, coffee or alcoholics in any form. A pinch of the triticum repens herb, which is obtainable in any drug store, mixed in a cup of hot water should be taken at meal time.

CANADIAN LIQUOR MEN GAVE MONEY TO POLITICAL FUNDS

Sent $89,041 From Vancouver to Fight Prohibition in British Columbia, Attorneys Say.

By the Associated Press.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 10.—The Brewers and Distillers, Ltd., of Vancouver made sizable expenditures in opposing prohibition in British Columbia, Henry Reifel, president, informed the Royal Commission investigating customs law violations in the province yesterday. The expenses were entered in the insurance and protection account, Reifel testified, and $89,041 was spent in 1925, $8005 in 1924 and $5200 in 1923.

When Reifel hesitated to give details of how the money was used, his attorneys explained certain sums were contributed to political campaign funds.

Consolidated Exporters of British Columbia, a liquor exporting concern, the officers of which have testified their principal business was with bootleggers in the United States, had unvouchered expenses of $87,000 during a single month, George E. Gyles, accountant, testified.

Reifel is under indictment in the United States for liquor smuggling, and his counsel had requested that his testimony be given to the commission in private. J. T. Brown, chairman of the commission, ruled that witnesses should answer questions, although their testimony may incriminate them in American courts.

JOSEPH F. RUPP, BUILDER, DIES

RAY-O-VAC "B" RADIO BATTERY
30 CELLS - 45 VOLTS
FRENCH BATTERY COMPANY MADISON WISCONSIN
No 9303

Good Radio Reception is not all in the dials!

FUSSING with the dials cannot always bring in radio signals clear and strong without needless noises.

But when you have batteries with low internal resistance, signals are not distorted by the current, and tuning in clear, natural tones is much easier. Ray-O-Vac batteries have an internal resistance only one-third to one-sixth that of other sources of "B" current supply.

At the same time they have longer life. A new type of construction—exclusive with Ray-O-Vac batteries—gives them from 10% to 15% more staying power than ever before, and Ray-O-Vacs have always been famous for their staying power.

Now no hot pitch is poured over the unit cells. So its excessive heat does not devitalize the electrolyte . . and there are no bulging tops . . . no cracked seals or broken connections . . . no internal short circuits . . . no needless weight.

You can buy Ray-O-Vac batteries at the better radio and electrical dealers, hardware and music stores, department stores and auto supply shops everywhere.

KENT COOPER TELLS OF 'BOLSHEVISM' STORY

General Manager of Associated Press Discusses Handling of Dispatch on Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—In an address yesterday before officials of life insurance companies in convention here, Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, discussed the handling by his organization of the recent widely criticised dispatch on "Bolshevism" in Mexico. Mr. Cooper said:

"The public, representing every walk of the social and business world, cannot be said to be trained to view anything in an altogether disinterested way. I know of no calling other than ours that trains itself to be partisan free. Therefore, the public is often led into speaking or thinking of the Associated Press news report uncritically without always analyzing the text of our dispatches.

"On Nov. 17, the Associated Press distributed a news dispatch reporting the deep concern with which responsible officials of the State Department regarded the 'spectre of a Mexican-fostered Bolshevist hegemony intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal.'

Kellogg Statement Transmitted.

"At the same time, it transmitted a statement by Secretary Kellogg, in which he characterized the situation in Nicaragua as one which has invited further interference from outside sources. The same dispatch recounted the State Department's advices respecting shipment of arms and ammunition from Mexico to Nicaragua.

"With publication of the dispatch referred to the State Department was publicly attacked as having inspired propaganda directed against the present government of Mexico. Various accounts of a confidential conference between Assistant Secretary Olds and newspaper men

General Manager of Associated Press Discusses Handling of Dispatch on Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—In an address yesterday before officials of life insurance companies in convention here, Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, discussed the handling by his organization of the recent widely criticised dispatch on "Bolshevism" in Mexico. Mr. Cooper said:

"The public, representing every walk of the social and business world, cannot be said to be trained to view anything in an altogether disinterested way. I know of no calling other than ours that trains itself to be partisan free. Therefore, the public is often led into speaking or thinking of the Associated Press news report uncritically without always analyzing the text of our dispatches.

"On Nov. 17, the Associated Press distributed a news dispatch reporting the deep concern with which responsible officials of the State Department regarded the 'spectre of a Mexican-fostered Bolshevist hegemony intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal.'

Kellogg Statement Transmitted.

"At the same time, it transmitted a statement by Secretary Kellogg, in which he characterized the situation in Nicaragua as one which has invited further interference from outside sources. The same dispatch recounted the State Department's advices respecting shipment of arms and ammunition from Mexico to Nicaragua.

"With publication of the dispatch referred to the State Department was publicly attacked as having inspired propaganda directed against the present government of Mexico. Various accounts of a confidential conference between Assistant Secretary Olds and newspaper men were published in support of the attack.

"Coincidentally the Associated Press was attacked on a charge of having lent itself to the dissemination of inspired propaganda and the various accounts of Mr. Olds' conversation with the newspaper correspondents were submitted in proof of this charge.

Concern Over Reports.

"It is worthy of attention that the Associated Press dispatch in question did not contain the various statements attributed to Mr. Olds. It only reported that Government officials charged with the conduct of foreign relations were concerned over their reports that communistic tendencies were being thrust into American-Mexican relations.

"This came to the Associated Press in the usual course of news gathering in Washington from sources which it has a right to expect are well informed and correctly represent the views of the Government. There was no reason to question the truth of the information transmitted and investigation has developed none."

Introduction to the Dispatch On "Bolshevist Specter."

Following is the introduction to the dispatch transmitted by the Associated Press from Washington, Nov. 17, which called forth comment from the Mexican Government and criticism from the American press:

"The specter of a Mexican-fostered bolshevist hegemony, intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal has thrust itself into American-Mexican relations, already strained. This striking development in Latin-American relations, which has been lingering near the surface for several weeks, came to light today with an appeal by Adolfo Diaz, new President of Nicaragua, for American intervention to restore peace in that country, and formed the background of a warning by Secretary Kellogg that 'interference from outside sources' in Nicaraguan political affairs was viewed with concern in Washington."

Illinois Miner Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Ill., Dec. 10.—Alfred Muehlmann, 65 years old, a coal miner, formerly a member of the Barnum & Bailey circus band, shot himself to death here this morning. He came here seven years ago from Peoria after an accident unfitted him for further circus work.

CLERICAL ERROR DEPENDED ON TO BEFEAT $77,500 TAX CLAIM

Two St. Louisans Raise Technical Point in Proceedings in Court at Washington.

Robert and Gustave Thal, formerly in the cider and vinegar business at 305 South Seventh street, are endeavoring, in a court proceeding in Washington, to take advantage of a clerical error, on the part of a Government employe, which would free the Thals from a deficiency tax demand for $77,531.32.

The error consisted in writing the year 1920, instead of 1919, as the year for which the deficiency tax was decreed to be due from the Thals.

The Government Board of Tax Appeals is moving to correct the error, and the Thal brothers have asked a writ of mandamus to compel dismissal of the motion. The Tax Appeal Board, in its formal answer, stated that the ruling asked by the Thals would deprive the Government of the entire amount of revenue. The Thals allege that the decree, by its terms, was final, mistake and all.

The Thals have been contesting, for more than a year, the tax of $78,476.06 assessed against their concern in 1919. National prohibition, they alleged, destroyed the hard cider portion of their business. In the year before prohibition, as shown by testimony, the company's business amounted to $700,000. It distributed several brands of cider with alcoholic content of 15 per cent or more.

ROTA TO KEEP MARCONI ANNULMENT ACTION SECRET

ROME, Dec. 10.—The Sacred Roman Rota, on the request of interested parties, has decided that the entire proceedings for annullment of the marriage of William Marconi, the wireless inventor, to the former Miss Beatrice O'Brien, shall be carried out under a seal of secrecy.

This decision is understood to have been reached on the request of Marconi and his former wife, to avoid the unwelcome notoriety which attended the recent Marlborough-Vanderbilt annullment.

Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, forwarded to the Holy Rota last month the Marconi annullment proceedings as investigated and recommended by the Archdiecese of Westminster. The cause presented for nullification of the marriage lies in a condition established between Marconi and his wife, who is a daughter of the fourteenth Baron Inchiquin, before their wedding in 1905, that they could separate whenever they so wished. Marriage being held by the Catholic Church indissoluble, such a condition would make the Marconi marriage null in fact.

MRS. J. H. DUNCAN GIVES MEDICAL SOCIETY $15,000

Money to Be Spent on Auditorium and Lounge in New Building.

A gift of $15,000 to be used for decorating and furnishing a lounge room and for completing the auditorium equipment of the new St. Louis Medical Society Building on McPherson avenue near Vandeventer avenue, was made by Mrs. John H. Duncan of 4404 Lindell boulevard, at the council meeting of the society Wednesday night.

The lounge, to be known as the John H. Duncan Room, is a memorial to her husband, who died in 1919. Dr. Duncan held the chair of Dermatology at St. Louis University for many years and filled various offices in the Medical Society. Approximately $5000 is to be used in furnishing the lounge, and the remaining $10,000 on the auditorium. At Mrs. Duncan's request, the decorating will be done under the supervision of Prof. Gabriel Ferrand of the school of architecture of Washington Univresity. Four months ago Mrs. Duncan contributed $10,000 to the general building fund of the society.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Attempts to check the upward sweep of stock prices met with little success and the bear traders who periodically tested the strength of the market found it rather a costly operation The ease with which both railroad and industrial shares were moved forward showed plainly that for the time being any way the market is in the hands of well entrenched bull pools. The market plainly is largely a professional affair

"Certainly conditions were favorable for a bullish demonstration today with money distinctly easier, favorable news from trade sources and the optimistic statements from Washington of the last few days still ringing in the ears of traders The market started very favorably with many of the leading stocks being taken in large blocks. Buying was even more aggressive than in yesterday's session and bids were raised quite willingly. In the late forenoon United States Steel common touched 152 1-4, up almost 1½ points and the best price in several weeks.

Steel Shorts Cover.

"The United States Steel Corporations report of unfilled tonnage for November published at noon was encouraging showing a gain over Oct 31, of 1,230,000 tons. This gain startled the bear contingent which had been selling Steel short in the expectation of a decrease in tonnage It was this short covering that caused the unusual activity in steel common.

* * *

Some Other Gains.

"Gains running from two to five points were made by Baldwin Locomotive, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, General Motors Crucible Steel and Mack Truck. Some other issues such as Woolworth, Montgomery-Ward, Cushmans Bakery and American Aailway Express were active at levels several points above last night's close. Oil shares were more in demand and Mid Continent Petroleum Phillips Petroleum and General Asphalt moved forward. The average of the leading industrial shares was within striking distance of the record high established in September and pool managers worked hard to make a new top with the idea of attracting public attention.

* * *

Forward Movement in Rails.

"The forward movement of the railroad shares seemed to be based on buying of a sound character. The so-called investment rails were in urgent demand The coal roads which have benefited by the heavy shipments of coal abroad as a result of the long suspension of British mining were among the leaders. Lehigh Valley was in persistent demand which lifted it to a new high price for the year of 106. Pere Marquette was at a new high price and Pittsburg and West Virginia made its best price Atchison and Reading continued to move forward easily The gains in the rails ran from two to four points. The confident buying in investment stocks and bonds was taken as an indication that in banking circles there is no fear of a shortage of mnoey. Call money was in plentiful supply today at the renewal rate of 4½ per cent. Time money was active.

* * *

Exchange Market Quiet.

"The weekly Federal Reserve Statement showed impairments in the reserve radio both at this center and for the system as a whole due to withdrawals to the interior to finance holiday trade. The foreign exchange market was quiet and held little of interest unless it was a decline of almost one-half cent in Roumanian exchange. Francs were down about two points and lire were off about one point. Sterling was a little firmer Brazilian exchange continued weak Canadian exchange was slightly improved and Mexican was about ten points better.

BILLS DISCOUNTED AT RESERVE BANK DOWN $8,007,000

A decrease of $8,007,000 in total bills discounted is shown in the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. Bills discounted secured by U. S. Government obligations decreased $1,460,000 and other bills discounted were down $6,547,000 The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities combined rose from 56.1 per cent to 59.2 per cent.

LEATHER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Shoe and Leather Reporter in its weekly review of the leather markets, says: "Slightly improved demand for sole leather was reported during the week. Tanners holdings of offal are low and prices firm with a higher tendency Upper leather demand in general is a trifle better. Shoe manufacturers are more active buyers of the light colors for spring models. The lighter shades of calfskins are more active and prices firmer."

The same journal's review of shoe market says: "Shoe manufacturers and wholesalers are determined to clean up the business for 1926 so that they will be in position to handle 1927 business in a satisfactory profitable way. Manufacturers have practically finished their lines of samples for next season and already some of the lines are being shown in the style shows."

Chandler-Cleveland Dividend 62½c on Preferred.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Directors of the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporatoon today declared a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the preferred stock which previously had been $1 quarterly. It is payable Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 20.

Fred C. Chandler president, said the action of the board was in line with the company's conservative policy of the last 14 years and at no time has its position in the industry been stronger.

"We have no bonds or bank loans and own our plants free of all incumbrances, and our cash position is strong and substantial," he asserted.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Under an extremely light volume of business, cotton fluctuated within a range of about 10 points today and ended at a slight loss on the day. Few contracts were for sale after an opening break of 10 points but after recovery to about Thursday night's prices, expectation of a few selling orders toward the close supplied all demand Spots were reduced 10 points to 12.50.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The cotton market was quiet today; offerings were light after a spurt of selling at the start and prices held generally steady during the afternoon Some trade buying as well as covering was reported on the advance from 11.77 to 11.86 for January contracts.

Futures closed steady, 3 to 9 lower; December, 12.13c; January, 11.78c; March, 12.02c to 12.03c; May, 12.26c to 12.27c; July, 12.46c to 12.47c. Spot quiet. Middling, 12.30c.

The cotton market opened easy today, first prices showing declines of 5 to 11 points under further Southern hedging and local selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cobles.

The decline seemed to bring in some trade buying as well as covering and prices rallied a few points, but selling continued and active months were about 7 to 10 points net lower at the end of the first hour, January around 11.77 and May 12.22. It was reported houses with Bombay and China connections were receiving some buying orders this morning but Liverpool was a seller here during early trading. Private cables said calling and covering had been offset by hedge selling in the Liverpool market.

Trading became quiet after the early offerings had been absorbed and prices held steady late in the morning on covering by recent sellers who may have been influenced by reports that unfavorable weather in the South had caused further damage to grade and might lead to the abandonment of more cotton in the fields. At midday January was selling around 11.84 and May 12.30, with the market holding at about yesterday's closing quotations.

SOME SUBSTANTIAL GAINS IN BOND LIST

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Week-end adjustments tended to slow down the pace of bond trading today, although selective buying of various railroad and industrial liens brought about a few substantial price advances.

Copper company obligations continued to make a good showing in response to favorable trade reports. Active bidding developed for Chile 6s and Anaconda 7s, both of which worked fractionally higher.

Railroad issues held their ground well, but few of them were able to better yesterday's quotations St Paul liens were little affected by the reopening of the fight against the foreclosure sale of the road. International Mercantile Marine 6s, which sold within a fraction of the year's high level at the opening finally were forced back by profit-taking.

A $24,121,000 7 per cent loan for the Province of Buenos Aires was quickly oversubscribed.

The day's financing reached a total of $36,000,000.

United States Treasury 4s and Treasury 3¾s, the former at 106, and the latter just below 103, made new high records for all time, while Treasury 4¼s at 110 duplicated their best previous price. Two Liberty loans advanced They were the first 4¼s and second 4¼s, the latter touching 101 In explanation of the strength it was argued that the Secretary of the Treasury would not have contented himself with a nine months' loan for his Dec. 15 financing if he had not been confident that the trend of money was still downward and that the Government's requirements could be financed on a long-time basis just as well three months hence as now.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Dec. 10.—Wheat and corn sold lower today, influenced by lower Liverpool and Buenos Aires, Russian shipments and increased private estimate on Argentine exportable surplus. Talk of possible larger movement of new corn was also factor.

All grain futures closed lower with exception of December which was unchanged. Export demand for North American wheat was relatively slow, sales being estimated by seaboard at 400,000 bushels.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was 1 to 1½c lower. Demand was fair at the decline. Hard was slow and lower to sell. Corn was steady to 1c higher. Demand was good. Oats were steady. Demand was fair.

While the current delivery of wheat was inactive at opening of market May started lower and ranged down more than a cent in early trade. Liverpool came ⅝d to ⅝d lower and Winnipeg was ⅝c to ¾c down early. Corn futures also were on lower basis here.

Liverpool closed 1d to 1⅛d lower, which fact with a private estimate on Argentine exportable surplus being raised 7,000,000 bushels, exerted bearish influence on prices. Wheat was down 1c to 1¼c and corn ⅝c to 1¼c in forenoon.

May wheat opened at $1.40 to $1.39⅝. December corn 72c and May corn 83¼c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1474 cars of wheat compared with 1661 a week ago and 2370 last year. Minneapolis receiving 127 cars, Duluth 41 and Winnipeg 1306.

Clearances were 55,000 bushels of wheat, 11,000 bbls of flour and 105,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

Local wheat receipts which were 57,400 bushels, compared with 67,200 a week ago and 142,800 last year, included 36 cars local and 5 through. Corn receipts which were 70,000 bushels, compared with 46,200 a week ago and 117,800 last year, included 49 cars local and 1 through. Oats receipts which were 94,000 bushels compared with 32,000 a week ago and 80,000 last year include 39 cars local and 8 through. Hay receipts were 19 cars local and 3 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators were 3,058,992 bu. of wheat, 1,142,477 bu. of corn, 292,030 bu. of oats; grain stocks comprised 729,154 bu. of No. 1 red winter wheat, 1,476,996 bu. of No. 2 red winter wheat, 78,754 bu. of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 185,398 bu of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 62,721 bu of No. 2 corn, 533,627 bu. of No. 2 yellow corn, 48,743 bu of No. 2 white corn, 2228 bu. of No. 2 oats, 7574 bu. of No 2 white oats, 65,962 bu. of No. 3 white oats, 13,955 bu of No. 2 rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were 763,000 bushels, compared with 771,000 a week ago and 1,330,000 last year. Corn receipts were 647,000 bushels, compared with 572,000 a week ago and 1,012,000 last year. Oats receipts were 361,000 bushels, compared with 287,000 a week ago and 655,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 494,000 bushels, compared with 880,000 a week ago and 738,000 last year. Corn shipments were 235,000 bushels compared with 314,000 a week ago and 544,000 last year. Oats shipments were 300,000 bushels, compared wiht 541,000 a week ago and 5,000 last year.

St. Louis Hay Market.

Timothy hay market was firm, due to continued light receipts and a good local demand for the better grades. Medium grades are steady, demand being fair. Light clover mixed offering scant. Heavy clover mixed scarce. Pure clover hay scarce. Alfalfa market firm. Prairie hay market steady.

Hay quotations: No. 1 timothy hay, $24; standard timothy hay, $22 to $23; No. 2 timothy, $20 to $21; No. 1 light clover mixed, $23 to $24; No. 2 light clover mixed, $20 to $21; No. 1 heavy clover mixed, $24 to $25; No. 2 heavy clover mixed, $22 to $23; No. 1 pure clover, $28 to $29; No. 2 pure clover, $24 to $25; choice alfalfa, $28 to $29; No. 1 alfalfa, $26 to $27; standard alfalfa, $24 to $25; No. 2 alfalfa, $19 to $30; choice prairie, $19 to $20; No. 1 prairie, $18 to $19; No. 2 prairie, $16 to $17.

BEARISH FOREIGN NEWS SENDS WHEAT LOWER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Big Russian exports and more favorable Argentine news were the bearish factors which caused the wheat market to have a material setback today. Buying power was largely against indemnities.

Wheat had only a moderate recovery in the trade, a result of short covering and the close was 1⅛ to 1⅜c lower. Dec. $1.37⅜@⅜; May, $1.39⅛@¼; July, $1.31⅝@¾. Corn closed ⅝ to ¾c lower. Dec., 74c; May, 82½@⅝c; July, 85⅝c. Oats were ⅛ to ⅛c higher on short covering. Dec., 44⅝c; May, 49@49⅛c; July, 47⅝c. Lard closed 17¼ lower; ribs 10 lower. Local cash sales were 6000 bushels of wheat, 41,000 of corn, 31,000 of oats, 5000 of barley. The seaboard reported 400,000 bushels of wheat taken for export. Red winter wheat premiums were 2c lower.

Unexpected weakness in Liverpool attributed to the Argentine and Russian news, caused general commission house selling from the start. Immediately after the opening prices received some support for buying against indemnities but at midday a fresh burst of selling carried values off further. Sentiment was more bearish because of the weakened technical position of the market and because of competition American wheat met in world markets from other surplus growers. Russian exports his week were 2,472,000 bushels bringing the total since July 1 to 19,000,000 bushels, compared with 11,500,000 the same time a year ago. Liverpool reported 1⅛ to 1¾ lower and Buenos Aires was ¾ lower, and it was evident that the trade there looks for a bearish Government report late today. Broomhall's Argentine agent raised his surplus estimate to 157,000,000 bushel today, or 7,000,000 more than his previous figure. Export demand was moderate with sales estimated at from 200,000 to 300,000 bushel. Milling demand was moderate. Minneapolis stocks decreased 125,000 bushel for the week.

Corn like wheat had a sharply lower trend. Commission houses generally were selling and it looked as though December longs were beginning to run. Shipping demand was quiet.

Oats were easier with other grains. Trade was light and largely local. Shipping demand was better.

Provisions were lower with hogs and corn.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Carlot receipts: Wheat 21, corn 184, oats 43, rye 2, barley 3.

London Wool Auctions Close, Market Weak

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—At the closing wool sale of the series 7774 bales were offered of which 6000 were sold. There was a poor selection, which was slow of sale with prices generally in buyers' favor.

The auctions closed weak. Compared with the close of the previous sales, fine merinos were 5 per cent, medium 7½, inferiors 10 to 15, cross-breds fine, par to 5, medium and coarse 5, inferior 7½, slipes 5, puntas and Falkland par to 5 per cent lower. Capes were quoted 5 to 7½ per cent lower but the bulk was bought in.

The home trade bought 44,000, the continent 48,000 and America 1000 bales, while a total of 40,500 bales was held over.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Desultory business is the rule in the wool market with some movement of territory staple. Holders of really choice wools are said to be holding prices firmly. Normally this is a quiet season. The firm tone in foreign markets is regarded as a stabilizing influence.

STRONG TONE WHERE CURB ISSUES ACTIVE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Activity and strength were maintained throughout the day in nearly all the Curb issues actively traded in, but among the high-priced issues which were so prominent in the preceding days of the week some showed losses during the day.

Johns Manville was ex-dividend of $15 a share and opened at 155, a loss of 1½ points, but there were few offerings. Victor Talking Machine, on an advance of over two points equaled its previous high record, and many other stocks in that group while shading off in early quotations, were in continued good demand. Woolworth new stock when issued was bought, moving up over two points to above 130, making a high record for that issue. Caterpillar Tractor started with a gain of six points at 140.

Many of the oil stocks were traded on a large scale, but in most cases their movements were narrow and some of them were in supply after advances. Carib Syndicate was again in special demand but after selling close to yesterday's high record reacted with a later rally followed by another reaction. Standard Oil of Ohio made a gain of five points and American Maracaibo was strong.

Rand Kardex attracted attention because of heavy trading in which the issue yielded two points. General Baking A held firm but the B stock, which was a strong feature recently, had a fractional loss.

Utilities generally were lower. Trading in bonds continued on a large scale, especially in the foreign issues, including South American and German securities.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE "GOOD PAL" BLUFF.

We used to call it platonic friendship—now it's just "being good pals."

• • •

But it's the same beautiful old myth, in which every man tries to believe, every woman longs to believe, and both of them pretend to believe.

• • •

Somehow, this glorified affection always ends in the same place—on a girl's lips!

• • •

What a man really wants is not platonic friendship, but a sort of de-natured LOVE—a non-inflammable, non-intoxicating emotion, guaranteed to stimulate him, but not to make him so dizzy that he will stumble into any serious admissions.

• • •

Platonic friendship is the plank over which he hopes to cross safely the dangerous quicksands of love, without "falling in."

• • •

It is the charming camouflage behind which he fancies he is concealing his emotions when he can no longer hide the love-light in his eyes.

• • •

It is the armor which a cautious, non-marrying man puts on, when he feels that he is weakening toward a woman, and which he is always amazed to find crumbling like plaster-of-Paris, before the flood of his own emotions.

• • •

It is the drawbridge over which he fancies he can always retreat when he feels he is about to surrender.

• • •

What a woman really longs for, is to be some man's "Egeria"—his inspirational, platonic friend—until she can discover whether she wants to marry him or not.

• • •

Platonic friendship is the little side-gate by which she hopes to slip into his affections, when he isn't looking.

• • •

When a man begins talking of being "good pals," a clever woman listens with a cryptic smile, and lets him go right on babbling. For she knows that when you put the LID on love, you merely hasten the combustion.

• • •

A man doesn't suggest "platonic friendship" until he finds himself growing too weak to struggle against a woman's charms, and fears he is going down for the third time. Then he grasps desperately at the "good pal" stuff.

• • •

As a child fights against the "Sandman," so a man fights against falling in love—and the myth of platonic friendship is the fairy tale which he hopes will keep his eyes open.

• • •

But Platonic Friendship, alas, is a ship which starts from Nowhere, and always ends in the harbor of Love, or goes down in a storm of misunderstanding.

• • •

It is, in fact, the sweetest part of love—the interval between the first meeting and the first kiss!

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Christmas Desserts.

THE Christmas dessert is an important part of the dinner. Many people do not care for the plum pudding that is the traditional dessert, and find the mince and pumpkin pies too much trouble, so they turn to other dainties. For a hearty dinner, a light dessert is desirable and ice cream is apt to be chosen. There are many pretty ways of serving the cream so that it will look like a complicated dish and here are just a few suggestions as to how it is done.

An ice cream may be managed by baking a crust in a deep pie plate and when it is done cover it with a thick layer of apricot or peach jam. When ready to serve, cover the top of the pie with vanilla ice cream, sprinkle with a few chopped pecan nuts, spread thinly with the jam and put on a thick meringue made of the whites of four eggs stiffly beaten with four heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Brown in a quick oven and serve at once. Cut the pie in the usual way.

"Fruit Charlotte" is rather novel. Line a charlotte cup or mould with strips of fruit cake cut like lady fingers. Smear cup and the cake with jelly to hold it in place. Put a tablespoonful of chopped preserved fruit in the bottom of each cup. When ready to serve fill the charlottes with coffee ice cream, sprinkle with a few chopped nuts, heap with whipped cream to look like a real charlotte and put a cherry in the center of each. The whipped cream should be sweetened and flavored with one of the rum flavorings of which there are several on the market.

Cut large oranges in exact halves and remove all the pulp then throw the skins in cold water until ready to use them. When ready, drain and wipe the skins very dry. Fill half with vanilla and half with pistachio ice cream. Tie the contrasting halves together with narrow green and white ribbons and draw a spray of holly through the loops. Serve on lace paper doylies.

Chocolate Layer Cake a la Mode.

Bake a good layer cake batter in three layer tins. When done, put one in the center of a large cake plate, the other two on a cake board. When ready to serve, fill the layers with chocolate ice cream cut in thin slices. Have ready a thick chocolate sauce and turn it over the top and sides like frosting and garnish with toasted almonds. Serve at once and have some extra sauce to turn over each portion.

Coffee Frappe—Take a quart of coffee ice cream and soften it by putting in a warm room, then beating it with a silver fork, adding to it a cupful of whipped cream. When light and fluffy, fill tall glasses with the frappe and put a rosette of whipped cream on top of each glass with a maraschino cherry in the center of the rosette. Place the tumblers on saucers with lace paper doylies and a spray of holly on each saucer.

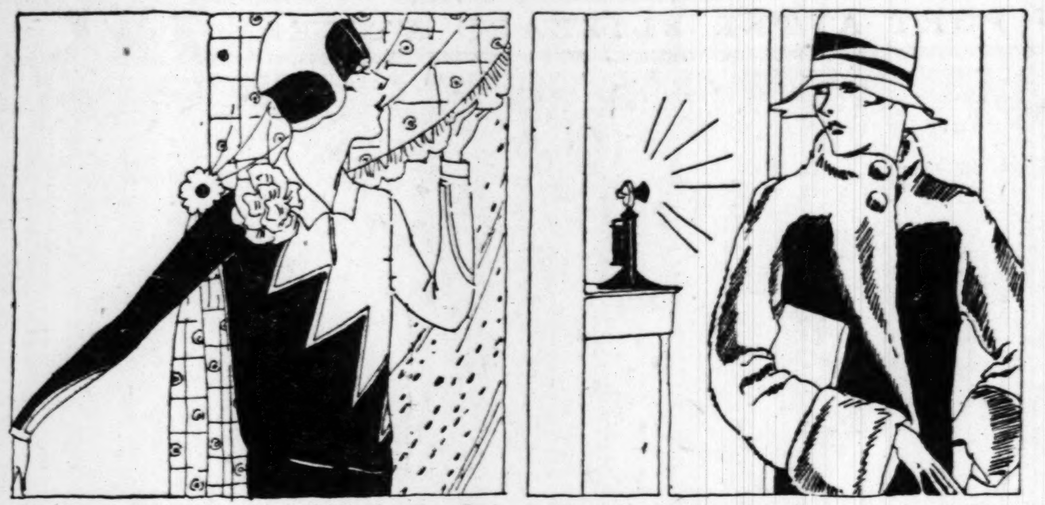
Trends in Tams.

NEW YORK. — The French beret so popular with the younger set this season, is finding a strong rival in the Scotch Tam. The new tams are made in the small neat beret shape but are of the softest and most characteristic Scotch wool. The highland clan colors are utilized, giving a combination of soft beautiful colorings and French chic.

MODISH MITZI

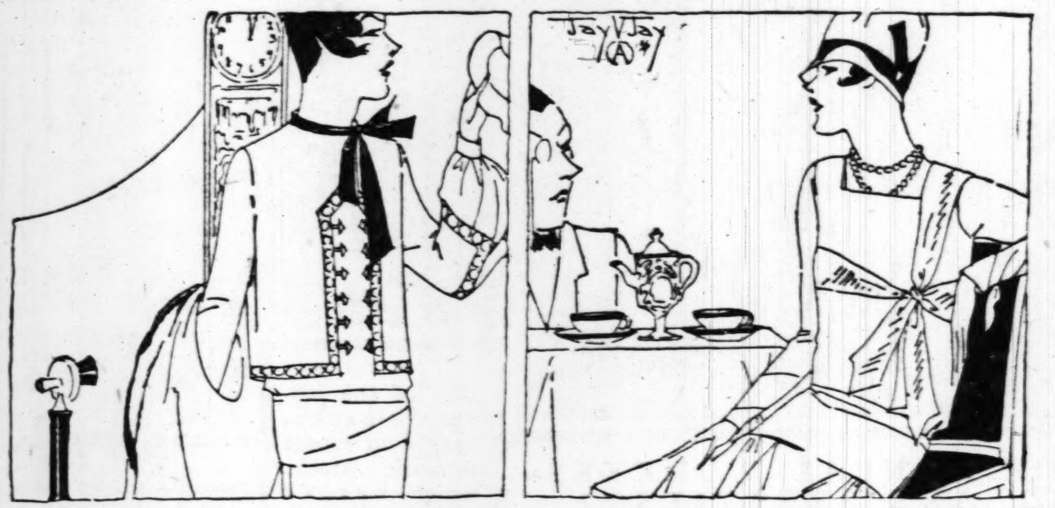
Mitzi Did Her Best

By Jay V. Jay



It was a truly brilliant idea of Mitzi's when Dad refused to increase her allowance for Christmas presents that she should go out and get herself a job and earn the money she wanted. She's all dressed up, here, in a frock of two shades of wool crepe, ready to start on her quest.

Since it was snowing, however, she decided a warmer costume was necessary and changed her wrap as well as her dress. This coat of broadcloth and nutria is warm enough for a blizzard and she is about to brave the storm when she is halted by the ringing of the telephone.



Of course she will have lunch with the Goofer. She hadn't noticed how late it was. No use trying to see anyone this hour. The dress she wears is of twill with a bolero effect that is emphasized by bits of embroidery. The underblouse and sleeves are of canton crepe.

A good dress to go hunting a job in, but not nearly good enough to wear to lunch with the Goofer. He's seen it before. This frock of crepe-back satin with the satin side showing in the bands and bow is much more appropriate—and, for the afternoon, how about a matinee?

Pointers on Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK

THE pointer for today is:

With a strong semi-two-suiter in which the five card suit is longer, stronger and lower-valued, bid it first if it be a Heart; but if it be a Minor, bid a four-card Major in preference.

A semi-two-suiter is a hand with one five-card and one four-card suit. Yesterday's question was how the following three hands should be bid by a Dealer:

1. Sp.: Ace-King-x-x. Ht.: Ace-King-Queen-x-x. Di.: x-x. Cl.: x.
2. Sp.: Ace-King-x-x. Ht.: Ace-King-Queen-x-x. Di.: x-x. Cl.: x-x.
3. Sp.: Ace-King-x-x. Ht.: x-x. Di.: Ace-King-Queen-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

In No. 1 the Spade should be named first, in accordance with the rule I have emphasized all this week, viz., that the higher-valued suit usually should be bid first. With this hand it would be wiser to play with Spades the trump rather than Hearts if the partner be longer in Spades than in Hearts, but when the choice is between two Major suits and one is both longer and stronger than the other—as in No. 2—it is not wise to depend upon the partner's unguided preference. The difference in his hand in favor of the suit he may select, may be much less than the difference between the two suits in the hand that is to become the Closed Hand. So in No. 2, with two Majors, the stronger although the lower-valued—the Hearts—should be bid first. There are two reasons for this:

(1) The Spade might be left in, in hands in which the Heart would be the more desirable trump.

(2) Should the Spade be overcalled and the Heart then declared, the partner might show a preference for Spades, with a difference so slight that for the combined hands Spades would not be as productive a trump as Hearts.

When, however, as in No. 3, the choice is between a four-card Major and a five-card Minor, the Minor being the stronger, the Major should be shown first because it is one trick nearer the game goal.

What would you bid as Dealer with the following hands:

1. Sp.: Ace-King-x-x. Ht.: x-x. Di.: x-x. Cl. Ace-King-Queen-x-x.
2. Sp.: Ace-King-x-x, Ht.: Ace-King-Jack. Di.: x. Cl.: Ace-King-Queen-x-x.

Answers tomorrow.

Husbands.

By Lucy Lowell.

A GIRL I know came to me one day and told me that she was having a difficult time deciding which of two men to marry. She was sure she loved them both and could not determine which she loved more.

"I guess Ed needs me more," she said, "but somehow Tom is nice and dependable. Ed is just like a baby; he needs someone to look after him. But Tom has a nice broad shoulder for me to rest my head upon and forget my sometimes trying need for independence. What do you think?"

I told my friend that she was not sufficiently in love with either to chance marriage.

It is no exaggeration to say no woman can be completely in love with two men at the same time. Any woman who thinks that she loves two men and is in doubt which to choose, should choose neither. She should wait until a third and all-inclusive love pales the others into insignificance.

I explained this to my friend. I pointed out that her affection for each of her suitors was a half-hearted affair. Ed appealed to the maternal in her. Tom made a direct appeal to the purely feminine that is an essential part of her makeup. I told her that I felt every normal woman seeks a combination of these two qualities in the man she chooses for her mate.

There are some women, it is true, who are drawn to the pale, emaciated man with a weak chin and poetic brow. There are others attracted by the insensitive "masterful male" type. The normal woman, however, seeks a mate who is masterful on occasion and pliably tender at other times.

In every normal marriage, in some phase of their mutual existence, the woman wants the man to be the aggressor and protector. Even the most independent of women like my friend, sometimes tire of their self-sufficiency and are grateful for a broad shoulder to rest upon.

Thus a one-sided love is the worst possible basis for marriage. A woman who marries a man because she can mother him, soon has children who drain the well of maternalism. Then her husband becomes one child too many and the woman is suddenly aware that she married an indifferent provider who too often has eyes fixed upon the firmament, wherein bills for clothing and food and education are rather sordid realities.

Such, I pointed out to my friend, would be the outcome of a union with "Ed who needed her." If she married Tom it would be a different story, but no less disastrous. Tom, I gathered, was the "masterful male," who would not merely offer a shoulder when needed, but would never be contented until he had broken the spirit of my very spirited friend.

Of course there are some women who could be perfectly happy with either Ed or Tom. But the average woman seeks a composite of these two extreme types. I can only advise them as I advised my friend: "Don't compromise. Wait until you meet your real mate. You're sure to find him in time."

Almond Custard.

Scald three cups of milk and thicken with two egg yolks, two tablespoons cornstarch, a few grains of salt and one-third cup of sugar stirred together. Add one-half cup corn flakes and cook over hot water until smooth, stirring frequently. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract and serve very cold with the egg whites whipped stiff, with powdered sugar piled on top.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

SOME love to praise bright autumn ways, red leaf and gold together, the birds that sing on southward wing, the calm autumnal weather. Some sing glad joys of April days, earth clad in spring's adorning; but there's no cheer in all the year like that of Christmas morning. Young voices trill in laughter shrill, young eyes are bright with pleasure, with joyous shout the merry rout breaks open Christmas treasure. A doll, a drum, a sugar plum, such simple things delight them! To mirth and joy each book and toy can beckon and invite them! Life brings men cares till bliss like theirs, their pure and artless pleasure, drops far behind on time's swift wind, is lost, with all youth's treasure. But all today fling care away and, earth's old wisdom scorning, share joy's bright glow the children know on this glad Christmas morning.

A Wife's Transformation

By Mary Culbertson Miller.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

Improved Sitting Posture.

HELEN was feeling the intoxication of the movement now. For some reason she enjoyed walking even more than sitting or standing. "What is your conception of the word RELAXATION, Mrs. Crane?" the ryhthm instructor asked as Helen dropped down on a straight chair.

"Abatement of tension," she returned quickly.

"Quite right. But at first you confused sloppiness with relaxation. To sit easily and gracefully your body needs the suppleness and complete control that come from relaxation, as much as standing or any other bodily attitude. As you sit there, there must not be a constricted place in your body. Knees a little closer together, please." She smiled. "You are losing your surplus flesh and you must realize it.

"One should sit well back in the chair so that the spine will follow the chair back all the way up. Sloppiness is utter lack of self-control, while relaxation is an easy feeling that can be maintained in any position. Your most comfortable sitting position has been to slide down in a chair and rest on the end of your spine—your body like a jelly mold."

"I feel easy and comfortable; am I sitting correctly?" Helen asked.

"You are, indeed. Your position is easy, yet straight. Your shoulders are squared normally, and feet loosely crossed. Every part, Mrs. Crane, must be perfectly co-ordinated and conscious of the dictates of your brain. You yourself can feel the difference—try slumping in your old position, then sit up straight as you have just shown me."

"How about crossing the legs?"

"It used to be very bad form in any place, but I should say it was quite all right if one had a sense of the fitness of things. I shouldn't like to see you cross your legs in public conveyances. But that is something you must decide for yourself. I have often sat opposite girls and longed to make a few constructive suggestions. Have you ever observed people in street cars?"

Helen smiled. "I haven't been very observant; I've lived mostly in books."

"It's lots of fun, I can vouch for that. I get considerable amusement out of it. I see an interesting face and wonder what is going on behind those eyes. And speculate a little about the particular person that would give a great deal to be sitting there beside them. Sometimes I weave a life's history—I become quite absorbed. Then I'll be jolted out of that trend by a fat woman perhaps, barging into the car and plumping down beside me. A fat woman's knees always fall wide apart, and often the skirt stretches dangerously tight across her lap. She sighs usually as she eases her bulk into a seat.

"Knees do indeed tell a tale. Perhaps in the corner of the same car a woman somewhat past middle age presses her legs from the knees down tight together, drapes prudent skirts carefully over bony legs, and inwardly sniffs as her gaze settles on a flapper across the aisle crossing and uncrossing exquisitely silken sheathed legs, wriggling an ankle, and perhaps even dangling a pump, wholly indifferent to criticism as she relives what he said—and what I said,' the night before. Then there is the greedy reader that sits pigeon-toed, almost motionless, wholly unconscious of everything but the printed page until she reaches her destination."

"Is it not the correct position to press the legs together from the knees down?"

"Most certainly. We decided that, but the stern type of woman I have just cited was too strained for grace. I am going to show you some very bad habits." A little later the instructor was sitting on one leg, dangling the other. The next, she was crossing and uncrossing her legs, working her toes, for she had no pump to dangle. The next moment, her feet were curled around the rungs of her chair, the next her feet were tucked under the chair. At that Helen blushed. She could see how ridiculous she had appeared.

"I know that I have a lot of bad habits—I've caught myself curling my feet and legs into all sorts of odd positions."

"Yes, and the appearance is grotesque. You can see that for yourself. And then there is a strain on the muscles. It causes that tired feeling that you haven't been able to account for."

"Even after my 'settles' are stretched out I think I shall continue. I want to become perfect through rhythm."

"I've heard that many times," laughed the instructor. "That is our purpose in the work—we hope to make each pupil a perfect being mentally and physically."

Tomorrow we will tell you how Helen learned to use rouge, powder and lipstick. There was a marked improvement in the texture and coloring of her skin now, so very little makeup was needed.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Watches Buster Make His Bed

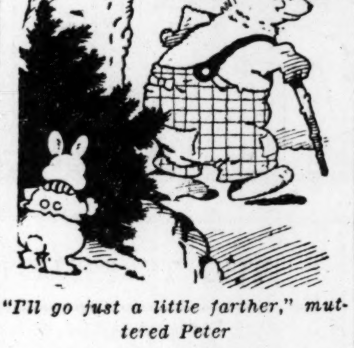
PETER RABBIT took great care to make no sound. He didn't want Buster Bear to know that he was anywhere about. So Buster sat on one side of a young hemlock tree, grumbling to himself; and Peter sat on the other side of that same tree, waiting for Buster to move on. It seemed to him that Buster never would move.

But finally Buster started along. He was still grumbling to himself in that deep grumbly voice of his. He wanted to go to bed, and he didn't want to go to bed. He was sleepy, but he wanted to get another good meal before he went to bed. But he yawned more and more. Peter, following along behind him at a safe distance, heard him yawn, and every time he heard him yawn Peter laughed down inside. It really was funny. Buster would yawn and then would grumble.

After a while Peter noticed that they were gradually getting deeper and deeper into the Green Forest. He wondered if Buster was going back to the den he had used for several years. But Buster wasn't for the very good reason that Mrs. Buster already occupied it. Peter didn't know this. So he was a little surprised when they reached the ledges where Buster's old home was, and Buster merely stopped to look over there and sniff. Peter looked over there. He knew just where that cave was in the hedges, and he saw that all about the snow was perfectly smooth. There were no tracks there. You see, Mrs. Buster had gone to bed before the last snow fell. But Peter didn't know this and he was surprised when, after standing for a few minutes with his head swinging from side to side, Buster, grumbling more than ever, started on again. Buster traveled some distance and Peter was about ready to give up.

"I'll go just a little farther," muttered Peter. "I'll go just a little farther, and if he doesn't go to bed by that time I'll just have to give up."

It was just after this that Buster Bear stopped. There was a great windfall there. You know a windfall is where a lot of trees have been blown over and have fallen in a great pile. Some of these trees had fallen across a ledge of rock which stood high above the ground. In this way they made a sort of cave. Peter saw Buster go in underneath the fallen trees. Then Buster came out. He looked this way and he looked that way and he grumbled and he rumbled, and he rumbled and he grumbled, and finally he went over to a young hemlock tree and broke off some branches.



"I'll go just a little farther," muttered Peter

"Now what is he doing that for?" muttered Peter to himself, seeing there was no one else to mutter to. Buster raked the branches toward the opening under that windfall. With his big paws he raked them inside. Presently he came out and got some more and did the same thing. All the time he kept rumbling and grumbling and muttering away to himself. He was making his bed. At first Peter couldn't think what it meant, but after a little he understood. Buster Bear was making his bed.

"I do believe," thought Peter, "that this is where he is going to sleep all winter. There must be a lot of dry leaves in there, but he is going to make sure of having the right kind of a bed. I wonder if he'll go to bed tonight and not wake up until spring?"

Presently Buster Bear came out once more and sat up. He looked very tall and big and black against the white snow. He tested the air with his nose. He wrinkled his lips as he still grumbled to himself. To Peter that made his face look very unpleasant, because it showed those big teeth of his. Then, after a look this way and a look that way and a look the other way, he once more disappeared inside his home. Peter heard him sigh several times. Those sighs were long, heavy sighs. He heard him rustle the leaves as he twisted and turned to make himself comfortable. Then, though Peter waited for a long time, he heard nothing more.

The Diary of a New Father

Friday evening.

POOR Hilda got the gate. Mother-in-law said it was all foolishness to pay a girl to do the work "in a dinky little apartment like this" when we had a relative on the ground willing to do it, and for me not to be silly, and did I think I was a millionaire? So I gave Hilda a week's pay and told her that was the end of that.

I thought the house was clean when Hilda and I got it all ready for Joan to come home, but it wasn't anything to what it is now. Mother-in-law went at it today and made a new apartment of it. And she told me to be careful of muddy shoes and tobacco ashes, or she would brain me. And not to smoke in the bedroom, where the baby is.

I thought she was going to have a fit when she found the kiddie kar I bought for the baby. She did, too, but not the kind I was afraid of at first. She just laughed until I thought she would burst a blood vessel. Everything I've got for the baby, somebody laughs at it.

I tried to get some pictures of the baby in the sunroom late this afternoon. Joan held him in her arms right next to the windows where it was light, and I shot a whole roll of film. I don't know just what alibi to use, but I will need one. I had the camera focused for 100 feet when I was barely across the sunroom from them, and I don't expect the pictures, if any, will be photographic marvels.

After eating some of mother-in-law's pie for dinner tonight, I don't think her visit is going to be an imposition, after all.

Making Legs Symmetrical

By Lucrezia Bori

THE most important point to consider in exercising, whether the exercises are for the purpose of reducing the body or developing it, is to work the muscles. When the muscles are forced to work, they will consume the excess fat. If they are undernourished they will demand more food, with which to build up the too thin places.

The following exercises will reduce the calves of the legs or build them up, as the needs of the individual case may require. They are specially good to demonstrate the point mentioned above, for one can really feel the muscles tug and pull with each move, and a few weeks daily adherence to them will prove their beneficial qualities.

Exercise 1: Stand erect, with the head up, shoulders back, chest raised, heels together and toes pointing straight ahead. The hands should rest lightly on the hips and the weight of the body should be on the balls of the feet. Rise slowly on the toes, turning the ankles outward so that the body will be supported by the little toes and the toes next to them, drawing the inside of the foot inward and upward. When the heel has been raised as high as possible, let the feet down to the original position. Repeat 15 times.

The second exercise is really a continuation of the one outlined above, except that when the heels have been raised as high as possible instead of dropping them, walk forward for 25 steps.

Now for a few suggestions about additional aid with the exercises. If the legs are too fat, the reducing process may be hastened a great deal by the wearing of rubber stockings, especially during the time spent on the exercises. If the legs are thin the fattening process may be speeded along by masaging cocoa butter into them each day

Brown Checks.

NEW YORK.—The English looms have been turning out materials in the last few weeks which undoubtedly will become a part of the American winter wardrobe. They are soft brown checks of infinitesimal size, resembling the shepherd plaid checks but far softer and of more delicate coloring. These are being extensively used for tailored suits for travel or sport wear. Brown suede cuffs, collar and belt complete the costume.

Ice Cream Stains.

If it is just a plain ice cream stain and the fabric is washable, wash with naphtha soap and water in the ordinary way, being particular to thoroughly rub the stained spot.

If it is chocolate ice cream that caused the stain, sprinkle with borax and soak in cold water, then rinse well in boiling water. If a grease spot remains sponge with chloroform, naphtha or gasoline.

If it was a fruit ice cream that caused the damage, treat the stain first with boiling water, hang it in the sun to dry and if a grease spot remains apply one of the abovementioned solvents.

For unwashable fabrics sponge with luke-warm water and follow with the grease solvent.

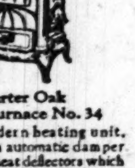
Correct Heating Requires It



Charter Oak
Parlor Furnace No. 34
A superb modern heating unit. Equipped with automatic damper and also with heat deflectors which turn some of the heat downward toward the floor and make the warmth even throughout the room.

If your home is too hot one hour and too chilly the next, it is not being heated correctly. You need a Charter Oak Parlor Furnace.

The Charter Oak Parlor Furnace No. 24 shown above is equipped with a patented automatic damper which regulates the fire, keeping it from burning too fast or too slow. The result is even, constant, healthful heat.

If you want to heat your home correctly, you must control the fire automatically as the Charter Oak automatic damper will do for you.

But that is not all. By regulating your fire this automatic damper will save fuel for you, too. Priced reasonably. There is no greater heating value for the money on the American market today.

Tastes Good and IS Good

Many nourishing foods are not tasty or appetizing. But you will find that SHREDDED WHEAT tastes good, and is good. The crisp, oven-baked shreds of whole wheat have an appetizing flavor and they encourage thorough chewing—that means sound teeth and healthy gums. The shredding and baking process is the most perfect process ever discovered for making the whole wheat berry palatable and digestible. Breakfast cereals come and go, but Shredded Wheat goes on forever. To make a hot dish, simply pour hot milk over the Biscuit, or eat it as a porridge. Eat as many as you like—but ONE Biscuit makes a complete, nourishing meal—twelve good meals in every package.

THE PASSING SHOW

When there's a rumor of the fall
Of Landis First, who rules them all,
The magnates promptly spike it.
The Judge, instead of being canned,
Just keeps them eating from his hand
And seems to make them like it.

For Judge's stuff the owners fell,
Like Democrats who used to yell
For four more years of Grover.
Be that, however, as it may,
It seems the Judge has come to stay
Till sheol freezes over.

We wish those comic artist guys
Would lay off putting Willie wise
To Santy's Christmas stocking.
For Dad to have to read their stuff,
To seven kids is bad enough,
Without their wilful knocking.

With Breadon Hornsby hasn't signed,
But all the rooters are inclined
To think they'll get together.
The wrinkles will be ironed out
And Rogers for the Cards will clout
The justly-famous leather.

DOHENY-FALL EVIDENCE IN; CASE TO JURY NEXT WEEK

Ex-Secretary Does Not Take Stand — Prosecution Offers Minutes of Naval Council on Leasing.

DENBY WANTED TO CONSULT CONGRESS

Arguments May Not End Before Wednesday — No Administration Aid in Refuting "War Scare" Theory.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Both sides in the Fall-Doheny oil trial rested at 10:40 a. m., St. Louis time, today, and the court recessed until Monday. Former Secretary Fall did not take the stand, as did E. L. Doheny. They are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Doheny's oil interests of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Monday morning's session will be occupied in the forming of instructions. As one day usually is given each side for argument, it is likely the case will not reach the jury before Wednesday morning, although it is possible it may go to the jury Tuesday night.

For the Government, Owen J. Roberts will make the opening statement. A number of defense attorneys will speak and Atlee Pomerent will close for the Government.

A remarkable change has occurred in the atmosphere of the trial. Two days ago, when the defense evidence was half in there was a general belief that conviction was likely. The remarkably effective testimony of Doheny in his own behalf, the appearance of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur in support of the "Yellow Peril" theory, and the inexplicable failure of administration officials to supply the prosecution with any evidence in refutation of the story are the circumstances that changed the situation.

Few of those who have attended the trial expect the prosecution to get anything better than a hung jury and probably less than that.

McCormack a Character Witness.

Today is the fourth anniversary of the day on which Secretary Fall secretly leased the 37,000-acre reserve to Doheny.

The defense rested after John McCormack, the famous tenor, had given character testimony for Doheny.

"What is his reputation for patriotism and good citizenship?" asked Chief Defense Counsel Frank Hogan.

"Sure, I hope mine is as good when I'm his age," replied the singer, in his celebrated rich brogue.

There was astonishment when the Government concluded its rebuttal without offering any evidence to refute the defense testimony that this country was threatened with war by Japan in 1921.

Special Prosecutors Roberts and Pomerene had held several conferences with Secretary of State Kellogg, in an effort to obtain material which would explode the "yellow peril" yarn. Secretary Kellogg and Fall are former senatorial colleagues.

Naval Minutes Read.

The attempt of former Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby to "take the rap" for the lease appeared in a more curious light than ever today, when the minutes of a navy council meeting showed former Rear Admiral John K. Robison pressing the leasing plan and quoting Secretary Fall as his authority, with Denby opposing the plan. These minutes were presented as rebuttal evidence.

The most effective rebuttal presented by the Government was a copy of the minutes of a meeting of the Navy Council, composed of high-ranking naval officers, which occurred in November, 1921, about the time discussion began of the proposal to lease the reserve and exchange the Government's royalty oil for storage tanks at Pearl Harbor. Edwin Denby, who was Secretary of the Navy then, has testified for the defense that it was he who urged the adoption of this plan upon Secretary of the Interior Fall, and that Fall's part in the preparations was passive.
